Indictments against Police Capt. William Greenspan and Cpl. George R. Wood were nol-prossed today by the circuit attorney's office, ending prosecution in the lengthy and extensive police pay-off investigation.

The new circuit attorney, Thomas F. Eagleton, appeared in Circuit Judge Robert L. Aronson's court and asked that the charges be dismissed. The investigation was begun in June 1955 by Eagleton's predecessor, Edward L. Dowd, who left office Dec. 31.

Eagleton, in a six-page statement, outlined for the court his reasons for nol-prossing the indictments. He pointed out that Ethel Clift, brothel operator and the state's chief witness on most of the charges, has been unavailable as a witness.

Commended by Judge.

Judge Aronson commended Eagleton for his action, saying the circuit attorney had taken a "realistic attitude" about the cases and has performed his duty in dismissing them when the state could not hope for successful prosecution.

Eagleton also announced today dismissal of an indictment charging Julia Lester, Negro, with perjury in connection with her testimony at a hearing on a defense motion by Greenspan. The woman testified she had never seen or spoken to the police officer prior to the hearing.

Greenspan and Wood have been under suspension by the police department since indictments were voted against them by the circuit court grand jury late in 1955. The Police Board will now decide whether the two police officers will be returned to active duty or if departmental charges will be filed.

Seeking Reinstatement.

Applications for reinstatement were filed today by Greenspan and Wood after they visited the office of Police Inspector James F. Thompson at Police Headquarters following their discharge in court.

The four indictments against Greenspan charged him with accepting bribes from Ethel Clift and Grace Cavitt to permit operation of a brothel in the 4300 block of Chouteau avenue.

Wood was charged in two indictments with accepting bribes from the Clift woman for the same purpose. He also was accused, in three indictments, with committing perjury before the grand jury in the pay-off inquiry.

Police Lt. F. Lyman Davis also was indicted as a result of the investigation but he was acquitted last Sept. 11 in a trial at which Circuit Judge James F. Nangle ordered the jury to consider all three pending charges against Davis.

The Davis case was the only one that came to trial. Filing of defense motions caused the court to grant numerous continuances in the trials of Greenspan and Wood. Greenspan was finally brought to trial last June 11, but a mistrial was declared the following day because of the death of a brother of Morris A. Shenker, defense attorney.

Lost Strongest Case.

Eagleton, in explaining dismissal of the charges against Greenspan and Wood, said the state had selected its strongest case when it went to trial on the charges against Davis.

"On Oct. 1, 1956, while Ethel Clift was still available, the

3 ROBBERS STEAL $10,000 FROM AFFTON MARKET

The cashier of a Piggly-Wiggly Store at Gravois and Mackenzie roads, Affton, was held up today by three masked men armed with automatic pistols, who fled with an estimated $10,000 in currency and silver.

Wearing identical blue coveralls, gray visored caps, and with handkerchief masks over their faces, the robbers entered the store shortly after the 9 a.m. opening hour. Walking to the cashier's department near the front door, the men shoved Miss Elizabeth Scott, the cashier, aside, and struck Howard Daniels, 6318 Darlow drive, Affton, a customer, with a pistol.

While two robbers stood guard, the third removed the cash from an open safe. The money represented Saturday receipts, which had been prepared for deposit in a bank.

After scooping up the money, the robbers went out the front door and drove away in an automobile parked on the store's lot. The holdup was executed so speedily that 13 other clerks and customers in the store were unaware that anything unusual had occurred until after the robbers fled.

An automobile answering the description of the machine in which the robbers fled was found abandoned in Rambler drive, a block east of the store. A card attached to the steering column bore the name of a man living in Vernon, Ind., police reported.

Miss Scott lives at 5411 Loughborough avenue.

GEYSER IN A GROCERY STORE

Merchant Escapes Injury as Water Spurts Through Floor.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Jan. 21 (AP)—A boiling geyser ripped through the floor of a grocery store in Rotorura tonight and shot high into the air. Grocer Bob Wilson, reading behind a counter, escaped unhurt.

Another geyser exploded outside the front door, sending a jet of boiling mud 25 feet high. For some days a flow of free hot water from cold water taps has puzzled residents of Rotorua, center of New Zealand's hot springs belt.

6 WOMEN FAINT AT CAPITOL

Too Excited Over Inauguration, Doctor Says.

A medical officer at the Navy first aid station where the women were treated said they got "too excited."

Time to Bow Out.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Opera singer Endre Muller, a refugee from Hungary, told on arrival here how he knew it was time to get out of Budapest. When a Russian official called him mister instead of comrade, he said, "I knew things were bad for me. I escaped at once."

4 BAGHDAD PACT COUNTRIES BACK U.S. DOCTRINE ON AID TO MIDEAST

Turkey, Iraq, Pakistan and Iran Supporting Plan—Call for Steps to Halt Subversive Propaganda.

ANKARA, Jan. 21 (AP)—The four Moslem members of the anti-Communist Baghdad pact today announced full support of the Eisenhower doctrine on the Middle East.

Their support of President Eisenhower's proposal to check Red aggression had been expected. It contrasted sharply with the opposition voiced by the top leaders of Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia at their meeting in Cairo late last week.

The four Baghdad pact members—Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan—signed a communique after a two-day meeting. They also called for the United Nations to monitor Israel-Arab armistice agreements and advocated full freedom of navigation through the Suez canal.

No mention was made of the future role in the alliance of Britain, a charter member of the Baghdad pact. Britain has attended no meetings of the alliance since the British-French invasion of the Suez canal zone because of opposition from Iraq, the only Arab member of the group.

However, some sources said Britain would be invited to the next meeting.

Oblique Slap at Egypt.

The Baghdad pact powers appeared to take an oblique slap at Egypt and the position of Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

The Baghdad communique said the maintenance of peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors "should be a continuing responsibility of the United Nations." It did not specifically indorse maintenance of a U.N. force along the armistice line, but it did approve a U.N. Assembly resolution calling upon Israel to withdraw all its forces behind the armistice line.

On the Suez canal, the communique supported freedom of navigation for all nations and said the waterway "should be insulated from the national politics of any one power."

Confusing Statements.

It added that the four nations "considered statements made in certain quarters on the subject of the Suez canal as designed to confuse the issue and prejudice a settlement."

Yesterday, Pakistan's Premier H. S. Suhrawardy told newsmen the Egyptians seemed to think their sovereignty would be weakened if they reached agreement with other powers.

On the Eisenhower plan, the four powers said:

"They noted with satisfaction that President Eisenhower's plan for the Middle East recognizes the threat posed by Com-

DETECTIVES GET FAST START ON INAUGURAL DUTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Two Philadelphia detectives in town for special inaugural day duty made a pickpocket arrest here before they even reported to Washington police headquarters.

The detectives spotted two men jostling women at a bus stop at Thirteenth and G streets N.W. They arrested the men, who were reported to have arrived from southern Virginia less than three hours earlier.

Detective Frank Quinn and Sgt. James O'Dare of the Philadelphia Police Department said they recognized the pickpockets by "their hard faces and sharp clothes."

The two detectives are among the 95 being paid $30 a day, plus expenses, to protect inaugural visitors. Quinn and O'Dare were on the way to police headquarters to report for duty when they nabbed the two men, who were not immediately identified.

OATH REPEATED BY PRESIDENT IN CEREMONIES ON CAPITOL STEPS

Complete Event, Including Address, Takes Only 40 Minutes — His Weather Luck Holds Out.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—President Eisenhower took the oath of office publicly today before a brilliant assemblage on the east steps of the Capitol, and entered on a second four-year term as leader of the free world.

In the traditional simple ceremony the Chief Executive repeated the words of the constitutional oath after Chief Justice Warren:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of the President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

To this formal affirmation the President added, again repeating the words of the silver-haired Chief Justice: "So help me God." Also in the constitutional form, he inserted after the first "I" his own name, "Dwight D. Eisenhower."

The President spoke firmly in a strong voice. His head was bare and his left hand was placed on a Bible given him by his mother just before he graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1915 and began a career unparalleled in American history.

Following the swearing-in ceremony, the President and Mrs. Eisenhower rode down Pennsylvania avenue in position No. 10 in the inaugural parade to the White House reviewing stand, where they watched the remainder of the marchers.

No Signs of Illness.

Mr. Eisenhower looked alert and in fine physical trim, giving no evidence of the two serious illnesses—a heart attack and an operation for the relief of ileitis—that plagued the last 16 months of his first term.

Mr. Eisenhower's phenomenal weather luck, which held out for him in the campaigns of 1952 and 1956, was with him again today. A predawn rain ended during the early forenoon and by the time the climax of the ceremonies was reached the sun was sending frequent shafts of light through rifts in the low-hanging gray clouds.

The damp flags which had been hanging listlessly above the government buildings, came to life around noon and by the time the inaugural ceremony started they were snapping briskly in the wind.

The President completed the oath at 12:26 p.m. The entire ritual, including his inaugural address and the swearing-in of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, took only 40 minutes.

The ceremony was, in a way, an anti-climax, since the President and Nixon took the oath of office yesterday in private at the White House. Press, radio and television coverage of the ceremony yesterday was barred by White House officials; Mr. Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, described the event later to newsmen. By law Mr. Eisen-

NEHRU VOICES THANKS TO WEST AS INDIA OPENS FIRST ATOMIC REACTOR

BOMBAY, Jan. 21 (AP)—PRIME MINISTER NEHRU opened India's first atomic reactor yesterday with a "thank you" to Britain, Canada, the United States and France for technical and material assistance.

Nehru said the Soviet Union also offered India help with its atomic energy development, "and I am sure this, too, will be followed up."

The ceremony took place at Trombay, near Bombay, where two other reactors are under construction.

Nerbu, pointing to distinguished foreign scientists present, said the new plant is small fry by their standards, but "it is, all the same, significant for Asia." He said India and Asia cannot afford to be left behind in atomic development as they were in the industrial revolution. He added, "India will never use atomic energy for warlike purpose."

HUNGARIAN HERO REPORTED TRIED, DOOMED TO DIE

General Maleter Led Budapest Revolt and Was Seized While Negotiating.

VIENNA, Jan. 21 (UP)—Maj. Gen. Pal Maleter, hero of the Budapest fighting in last October's Hungarian rebellion, has been tried by a military court and condemned to death, according to reliable reports reaching Vienna tonight.

The reports said Maleter's appeal from the sentence was "being considered" in Budapest.

The Communist-controlled official radio and press in Hungary so far have not mentioned Maleter's fate.

Maleter was seized by the Russians when they opened their Nov. 4 onslaught on Budapest while the Hungarian leader was negotiating with a Soviet group on withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary.

VIENNA, Jan. 21 (AP)—Austria today drafted a strong protest to Hungary against the invasion of Austrian territory by 30 Hungarian soldiers in pursuit of fleeing refugees.

The Interior Ministry said the soldiers, firing machine guns, followed the refugees across the border yesterday. The Austrian Press Agency said they forced about 20 refugees to return to Hungary. They left one wounded Hungarian soldier behind in Austria.

Officials said "the sharpest protest" would be sent to Hungary.

Chancellor Julius Raab rejected Hungary's complaints that Austria was interfering in Hungarian affairs by giving haven to refugees. He said in a nation-wide broadcast that it was unbelievable for anyone to think that anything but fear drove 1261 Hungarians across the Austrian border in the previous four days. Not a single Austrian Communist fled to Hungary in that period, he reminded the Reds.

Raab suggested that if the Hungarian government wanted to keep Hungarians at home they should be given freedom and a decent living.

The tough measures imposed by Hungarian border guards were dissuading many Hungarians from fleeing to Austria. Many sought haven in Yugoslavia instead.

In Belgrade, the Yugoslavs requested urgent assistance from the United Nations to cope with the heavy increase in refugees across the Hungarian border, much of which lies along the Danube river or its tributaries. Yugoslavia received 684 refugees to Austria's 256 in one 24-hour period over the weekend.

OFFICIAL OATH CEREMONY IS PHOTOGRAPHED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (UP)—A Navy photographer recorded for history the official second term swearing-in yesterday of President Eisenhower.

Otherwise, the White House stuck by its determination to make the ceremony a private affair despite requests from newspaper, radio and television reporters.

More than 80 relatives, friends and White House cooks and maids witnessed the historic oath-taking yesterday that was repeated today for the public.

But all reporters and news photographers were barred from the East Room of the White House when Mr. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon legally began their second terms.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty gave the official account of the ceremony. But he declined to release the Navy photographer's pictures immediately. Hagerty indicated that the photographs might be released later "if there is any interest in them" at the time of release.

DEMOCRATS ALSO HOLDING BALL IN CAPITAL TONIGHT

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—A gallant band of 100 Democrats is out to prove at a gala "Democratic ball" tonight that, though out of office, they're not out of sorts.

Adlai E. Stevenson won't attend.

"I'd love to come, but I don't think it's exactly the right time for me to be in Washington," the defeated Democratic presidential candidate telephoned Mrs. Samuel J. Lanahan, daughter of the late F. Scott Fitzgerald. Mr. and Mrs. Lanahan, Democrats to the teeth, are giving the party in their Washington house, a small Democratic island in a sea of jubilant Republicans.

They considered hiring a hall but there were none. The Republicans have cornered that market.

Projects Include Expansion of Loading Facilities—10 Gates to Be Added.

The city is planning additional improvements at Lambert-St. Louis Field to cost approximately $1,800,000, Conway B. Briscoe, director of public utilities, announced today.

One project calls for expansion and improvement of airplane loading facilities. This will cost about $870,000, and will add 10 gate positions to the 16 now in use, making it possible to handle 26 planes simultaneously.

The two inclosed walkways, called passenger loading fingers, at the sides of the terminal building are to be extended 175 to 200 feet, with a crossway at each end. The loading fingers will be air-conditioned, and additional parking aprons for planes will be paved.

Construction will cost about $340,000; air-conditioning $100,000, and paving $430,000.

The second project, to cost about $900,000, will provide an additional layer of paving on the instrument runway which has been subjected to heavy use and is beginning to deteriorate. This runway, extending from northeast to southwest, is 6000 feet long and 200 feet wide. The improvement will necessitate repaving of part of another intersecting runway.

These improvements are part of the long-range expansion program which gave St. Louis a new airport terminal building last March. The terminal was designed for ready expansion.

Citing the increasing number of daily passenger flights, Briscoe said the improvements will require 15 to 18 months for completion, and additional loading gates will be needed by then.

The most urgent project is the runway work, he explained, stating that he hopes this can be started in the summer and finished before next winter.

The city has approximately $950,000 on hand from the sale of a building to McDonnell Aircraft Corp. It hopes to obtain $900,000 in federal funds under the federal program of aid for expansion of airports.

INAUGURAL TALK ASSERTS UNITY OF FREE WORLD IS ONLY DEFENSE

President Rebukes Isolationists and Economy-Minded in Face of Divisive Force of Communism.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—President Eisenhower began his second term today with a pledge to build a just peace in a world ruled by law respected by all nations.

In a brief inaugural address at the Capitol plaza, Mr. Eisenhower said "the building of such a peace is a bold and solemn purpose" and that to attain it Americans "must be aware of its full meaning—and ready to pay its full price."

The divisive force in a shaken world, he said, "is international Communism and the power that controls it." To counter the threat of this force, he said, "we must use our skills and knowledge and, at times, our substance, to help others rise from misery, however far the scene of suffering may be from our shores."

Two Bursts of Applause.

The address was interrupted only twice by applause. The first outburst came when he said that the Communist world had been shaken by a fierce and mighty force.

"Through the night of their bondage, the unconquerable will of heroes has struck with the sharp, swift thrust of lightning. Budapest is no longer merely a name of a city, henceforth it is a new and shining symbol of men's yearning to be free."

The applause greeting this was mild. The audience was listening attentively and Mr. Eisenhower, reading slowly but steadily did not seek an outward show of approval.

The second outburst came when he said this country would not attempt to buy the sovereignty of nations it helps.

With great emphasis the President declared: "Sovereignty is never bartered among free men."

Officials Around Him.

Ranged behind and beside Mr. Eisenhower as he stood before a lectern were members of his immediate family and high officials of the Federal Government and Governors of the states. Members of the Cabinet and the Supreme Court, Senators and Representatives, executives of government agencies, Republican political leaders and the ambassadors of foreign countries were present and in view of thousands of spectators sitting and standing on the capitol plaza.

The Soviet Ambassador, Georgi Zarubin, was among the foreign diplomats. This was one of the few official functions he had attended in many months.

The President began his address in solemn tones and made only minor changes in the advance text. He titled it "The Price of Peace" but his greatest emphases were at the opening when he spoke of "the deepest prayers of our people" and at the end when he spoke of "a true tone of peace," when men and nations shall share a life of brotherhood.

Rebuke to Isolationists.

The address was a sharp rebuke to the isolationists and the economy-minded who, like former President Herbert Hoover, would build a "Fortress America" in a self-contained United States.

The address was a sequel to his own first inaugural pledge of 1953 and was a continuation of the proposals made by former President Truman, who, at his 1949 inauguration, called for a "bold new program," later known as Point IV, to give American aid to underdeveloped countries as a means of thwarting Communist aggression.

Mr. Eisenhower said that one truth must rule all we think and all we do: "No people can live to itself alone."

He continued: "The unity of all who dwell in freedom is their only sure defense. The economic need of all nations—in mutual dependence—makes isolation an impossibility; not even America's prosperity could long survive if other nations did not also prosper. No nation can longer be a fortress, lone and strong and safe. And any people, seeking such shelter for themselves, can now only build their own prison."

Observing that "we live in a land of plenty" but face rarely

Happy Whale Escapes Scientists After Getting Tranquilizer Shot

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Somewhere in the Pacific, a large gray whale is recovering from a jolt of tranquilizer drug—believed to be the largest one-shot dosage in medical history.

For a while yesterday the old boy was probably the happiest mammal in the seven seas. In the interest of heart research members of "Operation Dumbo" shot 500 milligrams of a tranquilizing drug into the 50-foot whale as it swam with three others off Santa Catalina island. The normal human dosage is 2.5 milligrams. The "hypodermic" was a specially constructed stainless steel harpoon which discharged the drug through gas pressure.

Dr. Frank G. Nolan, Los Angeles osteopathic physician and head of the expedition, said they had hoped to take an electrocardiogram of the whale, whose heart beats between 10 and 15 times a minute, compared with the 70 to 80 in humans.

"By taking an electrocardiogram of a whale, we may well find something which can be reflected to cardiovascular research," Dr. Nolan said.

Members of the party, aboard a Coast Guard cutter, came upon the whales about noon, and the harpoon was hurled into the side of one of the big fellows. But it dived under the boat and joined up with the others. It was an hour before the drug took effect and one of the whales dropped out of formation.

The cutter gave chase but lost the mammal after a two-hour chase. Sighed the doctor: "There is no doubt that the drug had some effect on the whale. What, exactly, we were unable to tell."

Miss Burma Passes Road Test, Gets Back Into Inaugural Parade

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (UP)—You can't have a Republican inaugural parade without an elephant. It was this unanswerable argument that persuaded inaugural parade planners to take another chance on Miss Burma today.

You couldn't blame the parade officials for having misgivings about including Miss Burma in the line of march. Her conduct at the 1953 inaugural parade was scandalous. She weaved from one side of Pennsylvania avenue to the other, held up the whole procession while she cadged peanuts from the spectators, and generally put on a devil-may-care performance that led to speculation that pranksters had spiked her drinking water.

Any ordinary elephant who acted up like that would be barred from inaugural parades forever. But Miss Burma, thanks to press agents for a circus, has been designated the official mascot of the Republican party.

Even with that kind of political pull, however, Miss Burma had to pass a "road test" in which she navigated a 2.5-mile course over city streets—the same distance as today's parade—in reasonably good time and without digressions to the sidelines.

Miss Burma, who weighs in at four tons, give or take a few hundred pounds, was accompanied to Washington by her two-year-old daughter, Little Miss Burma, a 350-pound stripling. There was some talk of letting Little Miss Burma walk in the parade, but she flunked her road test. Her legs are too short to keep up with the pace of 120 (human-type) steps per minute.

HAMMARSKJOLD UNLIKELY TO END OCCUPATION BY U.N.'S DEADLINE

Israel Reported Asking Continued Control of Gaza on Modified Basis — Insists on Aqaba Guarantee.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold worked against a Thursday deadline today to get all Israeli troops back inside their country.

Few if any observers expected Hammarskjold ot succeed in getting the Sinai invaders out of two stretches of sandy wasteland—formerly held by Egypt—by the deadline imposed by the General Assembly.

In Jerusalem, it was reported that Israel had drawn up a new proposal to the Assembly for continued Israeli administration of the disputed Gaza strip "with over-all relationship to the U.N." The proposal was understood to call for the use of Israeli police to keep order along with local Arab police.

Israel Wants Reassurance.

An Israeli government official said Israel might be satisfied with U. N. police force troops occupying the Sharm el Sheikh area overlooking the Gulf of Aqaba provided the U. N. units were given clear instructions to prevent resumption of an Egyptian blockade of Israeli shipping.

Israel has agreed to pull out by tomorrow from all the territory it seized from Egypt except these two areas. The United States and Britain have suggested that U. N. forces occupy both of them. The Israelis do not believe the U. N. troops could give sufficient protection against Egypt's using the Gaza strip as a base for organized fedayeen (commando) raids into Israel.

Egypt has rejected the idea of either area being occupied by anyone but Egyptians. At a weekend meeting in Cairo of the leaders of Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia, the four Arab nations agreed any occupation of any part of Egyptian territory "cannot but be considered a continuation of the Anglo-French-Israeli aggression against Egypt and can only bring about the gravest results."

Egypt Appears Determined.

Egypt showed no inclination to give Israel any assurances that Gaza would not be used as a base for Arab raiders or that Egypt would not again erect the guns at Sharm El Sheikh that kept Israel shipping from the gulf.

The Assembly, by a vote of 74 to 2, instructed Hammarskjold Saturday to "continue his efforts for securing the complete withdrawal of Israel" and report on completion of the task Thursday.

Unless the difficulties are unexpectedly worked out, another General Assembly meeting on the withdrawal issue can be expected soon after the deadline runs out. The Asian-African nations are expected to demand economic sanctions against Israel.

Hammarskjold conferred separately yesterday with Israeli Ambassador Abba S. Eban and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

There was no indication he made any progress. Fawzi, emerging from a two and one-half hour conference, would say nothing. Eban, with Hammarskjold two hours, told reporters afterward: "We have not completed this stage of our discussion."

Israel and Egypt Begin Exchange of War Prisoners.

CAIRO, Jan. 21 (AP)—The exchange of war prisoners between Egypt and Israel began today.

Israel took an estimated 5000 Egyptian prisoners in its October invasion and Egypt captured four Israelis. Israel delivered about 500 Egyptian prisoners to the United Nations Emergency Force at El Arish, for delivery to Egypt.

Meanwhile, Jordan's King Hussein was quoted as saying if Israel refuses to withdraw behind the Israeli-Egyptian Armistice lines "we shall do all we can to compel her to withdraw."

The newspaper El Ahram published an interview with the young monarch, in which he said: "We shall never accept any plan for internationalizing or international control of any part of Arab territory."

MRS. MORSE BALKS AT GIVING M'KAYS FURTHER TROUBLE

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — Mrs. Wayne Morse, wife of the Oregon Senator who won one of the more spectacular Democratic victories in November by beating Douglas McKay, was apartment-hunting recently. She stopped in at a plush spread on upper Massachusetts avenue.

The rental agent either did not catch her name, or if she did, did not have her political antenna up. In any event, she said she had the kind of apartment Mrs. Morse was seeking.

"It's occupied just now," she explained, "but I don't think the tenants would mind if I took you up to look at it. They plan to vacate soon. The gentleman used to be Secretary of Interior but he got beaten for the Senate and he's going home to Oregon. Would you like to go up?"

"Oh thanks, no." Mrs. Morse replied. "I think my husband and I have given the McKays quite enough trouble already."

Doctor Prescribed Fatal Doses Of Drugs, British Expert Testifies

'Death Was Inevitable Outcome' if Woman Was Given Amounts Called For, He Tells Magistrates.

The prosecution brought its case against Adams to a climax with expert testimony by Dr. Arthur Henry Douthwaite, president of the British Gastro-Enterological Society and senior physician of Guy's Hospital, London.

Douthwaite described the total amount of drugs and barbiturates prescribed for Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, a wealthy widow, in the entire period Adams treated her, and in the 13 days before she died in 1950.

"If the drugs prescribed in those 13 days of November were used on the patient what would have been the result?" Deputy Prosecutor Malcolm Morris asked Douthwaite.

"Death," Douthwaite replied.

Describes Dosage.

He said the dose of barbiturates in those 13 days was double that prescribed for Mrs. Morrell in October, the rate of morphine administration was three times higher than in any one of the preceding three months, and that the rate of administration of heroin was more than seven times greater than in any one of the previous four months — and 14 times higher than the administration in October.

Summing up his views, Dr. Douthwaite said that if Mrs. Morrell was given the amounts of morphine and heroin prescribed for her from Nov. 8 to Nov 12, 1950, "death was the inevitable outcome." She died Nov. 13, 1950, at the age of 81.

The Douthwaite testimony was the high point at the start of the second week of a preliminary hearing before five magistrates to determine whether Dr. Adams should stand trial for murder. He is charged formally with the death of Mrs. Morrell. He also is accused in the deaths of two other patients, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hullett. The three named Adams in their wills, and the crown alleges he killed them to get the inheritances.

Dr. Douthwaite said a doctor with ordinary experience would know that death would result from such amounts of narcotics as he described. He said Dr. Adams's experience as an anesthetist would give him special knowledge of sedatives of the sort he prescribed for Mrs. Morrell.

Pharmacists Testify.

Prosecutor Milford Stevenson and his deputy already had paraded pharmacists and nurses through the witness box to describe the total amounts of drugs Adams ordered for Mrs. Morrell.

Today, on Adams's fifty-eighth birthday, they attempted to clinch the case with the expert testimony on the effect of the drugs. Because Mrs. Morrell's body was cremated, no autopsy was possible.

Earlier, Detective Superintendent Herbert Hannam of Scotland Yard testified about his investigation which led to the charges against Adams.

At one point in Hannam's testimony, the Crown hinted that Scotland Yard still was actively investigating the deaths of other wealthy patients treated by Adams. Only the names of Mrs. Morrell and the Hulletts have been mentioned at the present hearing.

Hannam testified that Adams attempted to hide two bottles of morphine when detectives searched his office in the investigation.

Hannam said when he and Inspector Brynley Pugh began to search Adams's room, the doctor "flopped into the chair in front of his desk and held his head with both hands and he appeared to cry.

The Scotland Yard superintendent said he found a number of bottles in one cupboard and while he was looking at these Adams walked across the room to a similar cupboard and removed two bottles which he put into his pocket.

Adams denied taking anything, Hannam said, and then he moved toward Adams and said sternly, "What was it, doctor?" The Scotland Yard man said Adams then took his hand from his pocket and surrendered a small bottle of morphine and a carton containing an identical bottle.

Hannam said that when he told Adams he did not think Mrs. Morrell's death was natural, Adams replied: "Easing the passing of a dying patient is not all that wicked; she wanted to die."

By the Associated Press.

Hannam said that when he confronted Adams with details of his drug prescription to Mrs. Morrell the day before she died, this conversation ensued:

Adams: "Poor soul, she was in terrible agony. It was all used. I used them myself."

Hannam: "Surely the quantity of dangerous drugs obtained for Mrs. Morrell during the last week of her life alone would have been fatal?"

Adams: "I am not dishonest with drugs. Mrs. Morrell had all these and I gave the injections. Do you think it was too much?"

PRACTICE SHELLS EXPLODE ON FORMOSA, 27 KILLED

TAIPEI, Formosa, Jan. 21 (AP) — Twenty-seven persons were killed yesterday in the accidental explosion of eight big shells after an artillery firing exercise near Taichung, central Formosa. More than thirty others were injured.

Three of the dead were soldiers. The rest were in a crowd of civilians who had gathered to collect shell fragments to sell as scrap metal.

The three Nationalist soldiers were hauling the shells which had not exploded when one of the missiles fell to the ground, blew up and detonated the rest.

EISENHOWER STARTS FIRST LIMITED PRESIDENTIAL TERM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) —President Eisenhower starts publicly today history's first constitutionally limited United States presidential term.

The Twenty-second Amendment to the Constitution, ratified in 1951, says no President may serve more than two terms. Harry Truman, President in 1951, was specifically exempted.

Only one President ever sought a third term: Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was elected to a third term in 1940. He died in 1945 shortly after being elected to a fourth term.

PLANES LAND PIGGY-BACK

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 21 (AP) —Two light planes landed piggy-back at Tulsa's North Airport yesterday but both pilots walked away from the wreckage.

Al Kobel, manager of the private field, said the airplane of Paul E. Lee landed atop the craft piloted by Arthur Rody as they made a final approach. Rody was thrown from his plane by the impact. Neither craft burned.

GOMULKA SLATE APPEARS TO HAVE 60 PCT. OF VOTE

Most Poles Reported to Have Marked Straight Ticket in Parliament Election.

WARSAW, Jan. 21 (AP)— More than 60 per cent of Poland's 17,449,000 qualified voters appear to have indorsed Wladyshaw Gomulka's Communist leadership in the first popular test of his "Communism without tyranny" policy.

Unofficial but reliable reports said more than 11,000,000 of those voting yesterday for a new 459-member parliament apparently cast the official ballot without change. Gomulka had warned sternly against exercising the modest right to cross names off the Red-dominated single list of candidates.

About 16,000,000 voters—nearly 90 per cent of those qualified — went to the polls. Both the Red hierarchy and the Roman Catholic church had called for a big turnout.

The large vote appeared to insure that the present leadership of government will be returned intact.

Only partial returns were in. Complete results will be announced Wednesday. The delay is due to a complicated counting system and the difficulties of collecting ballot boxes from remote villages.

Unofficial but authoritative results from Lodz showed 18,302 votes, out of 20,817 counted, for Roman Zambrowski, a politburo member whose return was once in doubt. Similar results were reported from other constituencies.

Those who refused to go along with Gomulka struck off the names of candidates they did not like, uncoerced by any direct official measures. Their protest vote did not alter the fact that Gomulka's United Workers (Communist) party will have a substantial majority in the new parliament.

Ballots which were unmarked automatically were credited to the Communist candidates, who headed the lists. Winners in the other parties admitted to the national front ticket—the Democrats and the United Peasants—are committed to the Red line.

Only scattered demonstrations against the national front were reported, and there were no reports of disorders. Precautionary patrols set in some potential trouble spots did not have to go into action.

The balloting, despite the lopsided outcome, had more of the atmosphere of free voting than the two postwar rubber-stamp parliamentary elections of the Stalinist era. The present government feared the voters might use too freely the new right to strike names from the official list, granted as a concession to democratic principles.

Gomulka, in an election eve appeal that was rebroadcast repeatedly, warned that a defeat for too many Communist candidates would invite Soviet intervention.

King Hussein and Queen Dina Kiss and Patch Up Troubles

CAIRO, Jan. 21 (AP) — Jordan's King Hussein is reported to have taken advantage of the Arab summit parley last week to patch up his troubles with his queen, Dina.

Not only did the 22-year-old monarch get a promise of $36,000,000 a year from Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia, but on the domestic front he kissed and made up with Dina, who had been visiting her parents in Cairo since Sept. 13 amid rumors that the royal match would end in divorce.

The reunion took place in the luxurious villa of Dina's parents, in the Maadi suburb of Cairo. A close friend of the young couple said she would return to Amman soon to try again the difficult and lonely role of being queen of Jordan. She and Hussein were married in April 1955.

Hussein was returning to Amman today. His wife did not go along because he had been on an official visit and her presence would have upset protocol arrangements.

The Cambridge - educated queen, six years older than her husband, apparently had been having trouble adjusting to Hussein's conservative Moslem country. He is reported to have promised her she would be his wife, queen and companion in the modern sense, not one of a number of the king's women tucked away in the seclusion of the harem.

Dina became the first queen in Jordon's history to appear unveiled in public. Then conservative forces around the court — reportedly including Queen Mother Zein—came between her and Hussein.

Jordan could not accept the idea of a woman publicly sharing the king's problems and activities. The people are so conservative that fanatics occasionally have thrown acid in the faces of unveiled women on the streets of Amman.

Hussein also at times has slipped back into the playboy role of his single days. Dina was humiliated by reports he had been seen in public with other women.

During her months in Cairo, the queen showed that her love for her husband continued. She wept when his letters were slow in coming. When a report spread last October that he had been assassinated, Dina put through a radio-telephone call to him to make sure he was all right.

16th Russian Blast Disclosed by AEC—Part of Series Begun in November.

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — The Soviet Union has tested another nuclear weapon. The blast Saturday was detected by the United States and announced by the Atomic Energy Commission yesterday in this statement:

"The Soviets yesterday conducted another nuclear test in their current series which has been resumed since announcement of a Soviet test was made by the United States on Nov. 17, 1956."

The announcement was made by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the commission. AEC spokesmen would not elaborate on it or answer questions as to whether it was an atomic or the more powerful hydrogen weapon.

16th Test Disclosed.

The test was the sixteenth by the Soviet Union of which the United States has taken official cognizance, but there might have been more than 16 tests by Russia.

Last year the AEC said in this regard that the United States did not disclose all of the Soviet nuclear tests of which it had knowledge, "but limits itself to statements about explosions of special interest because of their large size, their series character or some other unusual fact."

The last United States bomb tests were in the central Pacific near Eniwetok atoll last spring.

Including the two atomic bombs that helped end the war against Japan in 1945 the United States has set off more than 70 nuclear explosions. Britain has tested atomic weapons and is expected to have a hydrogen bomb test soon.

The question of barring such explosions remains an issue in international and domestic politics.

On Sept. 30 Adlai E. Stevenson, then Democratic candidate for President, proposed a moratorium on the testing of "super-H-bombs" saying that "if the Russians don't go along, well then at least the world will know that we tried."

5 ARE KILLED IN WEEKEND AUTO ACCIDENTS IN ST. LOUIS AREA

Two Others Die When Car Hits Tree Near Fulton, Mo. — Belleville Man in Fatal Collision.

Five persons were killed in automobile accidents in the St. Louis area over the weekend and two St. Louisians were killed in another accident near Fulton, Mo.

Edwin A. Fabricius, of 6411 Alamo avenue, Clayton, died today at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of injuries suffered yesterday south of East St. Louis, at the junction of Illinois Routes 13 and 157.

A machine driven by Fabricius collided with one driven by Arthur Thomas, of 1913 North Thirty-eighth street, East St. Louis, after sideswiping a truck driven by Floyd Taylor of Carmi, Ill.

Taylor said he saw the Fabricius car approaching on the wrong side, and pulled off to the shoulder. Thomas told officers he also saw it coming and stopped his machine. Fabricius was accompanied by his sister, Miss Edith Fabricius, also of Clayton, and she suffered a head injury. Thomas's wife suffered a leg injury.

Airman 2-C James E. Pauley of Scott Air Force base was killed last night when an automobile he was driving struck a telephone pole and a parked car at Belleville. Pauley lived at South Charleston, W. Va.

Edgar A. Helmich of 4735 Goethe avenue, a bus driver, and his brother, Charles T. Helmich of Eureka, were killed Saturday night when their car struck a tree on a country road 15 miles east of Fulton, Mo. Edgar was 47, and Charles, 40. Earl L. Keen of Eureka, a passenger, was injured. The three had been hunting.

Children Injured Fatally.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Baxter of O'Fallon, Ill., were injured fatally shortly after midnight Saturday night as the family was returning home from Alton. The children were Cheryl Ann, four years old, and John Edward, 18 months.

Baxter told relatives he was blinded by the lights of another car on Route 35 about one mile west of Collinsville, and that his machine struck a bridge abutment and plunged into a creek. The boy died at St. Louis Children's Hospital.

The parents were injured seriously, and were taken to St. E[illegible]beth's Hospital, Granite C[illegible].

Robert H. Copeland, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Copeland, of 9410 Roslan place, Marvin terrace, St. Louis county, was killed early yesterday when the automobile he was driving left the road and overturned about two miles south of New Haven, Mo.

Copeland, a graduate of Ritenour High School last June, recently completed a six-month tour of duty in the Army and was an apprentice draftsman. He was returning from Bland, Mo., where he had visited friends and been hunting. He was taken first to St. Francis Hospital at Washington, Mo., and later to St. Mary's Hospital in St. Louis, where he was pronounced dead.

Belleville Man Killed.

Howard Ashby of Belleville was killed Saturday in an automobile collision one mile north of Evansville, Ill. Illinois State Police said he was trying to pass another car and collided with one driven by William McIntyre of Atlanta, Ga., going the opposite direction. McIntyre and two passengers suffered minor injuries.

Three persons were injured in a traffic collision on MacArthur Bridge last night. They are James L. Irons, of 3112 North Taylor avenue, who was driving an automobile, and two passengers, Cuvesta Carroll, of 3715 Page boulevard, and Milton C. Flowers, of 3510 Laclede avenue. All are Negroes. They were taken to City Hospital.

Irons's machine collided with a tractor-trailer driven by James E. Arnold, who was taking a load of hogs to East St. Louis from Mexico, Mo. He told police he saw the car coming toward him and stopped, and that it then struck the front of the tractor.

Three persons were injured near Centreville Station, Ill., early yesterday when an automobile crashed into the front of a parked machine in the 700 block of Renois lane. The driver, Willis Christian, of Granite City, suffered a chest injury and was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis.

The occupants of the parked car were Ted Mitan, who lives near Centerville Station, and Miss Luella Rhodewood, of 721 Renois lane, whom he had taken home from work. He suffered a chest injury and she a broken right leg. They also were taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

At Fort Story, Va., yesterday, Pfc. Alois Deubel of 4630A Sacramento avenue, suffered a head injury when a car he was driving went out of control and overturned.

Wortman Job Nearly Ready---For What?

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Aerial view of man-made island and building reportedly being built as hangout for East Side gang of hoodlum Frank (Buster) Wortman in Bethel School area near Collinsville. Building apparently is complete on outside, but workmen are still finishing inside. Bridge over moat will be only entrance to island. Moat is not yet filled with water. Residents of area have expressed fear Wortman may be building a gambling casino. Sam Magin, a Wortman employe, has said he is building a boys' club there. "The island and the building are my personal projects and Buster Wortman has nothing to do with them," Magin has said.

GEORGE W. CADY TO FILE AS ALDERMAN CANDIDATE

George W. Cady, a lawyer, will file as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for alderman from the Seventeenth ward in the spring election, he announced yesterday. The office now is held by Alderman Joseph P. Roddy, Democrat.

Cady, 30 years old, lives at 4560 Clayton avenue and has offices at 317 North Eleventh street. He served in the Navy in World War II. In 1954 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for state representative from the Eighteenth district in the primary election. He is married and has two children.

16 HURT WHEN STREAMLINER DERAILS NEAR MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 21 (AP)—The last seven cars of a 12-car Chicago and North Western streamliner were derailed at high speed last night, injuring 16 of the 600 passengers aboard the northbound train.

Milwaukee County General Hospital officials reported none was injured severely. Eight were held overnight for observation. All of the injured were Wisconsin residents.

George Senn of Wauwatosa, Wis., engineer on the diesel streamliner, said his train was going 70 miles an hour when the derailment occurred in the village of Brown Deer, northwest of here.

HOSPITAL TO REOPEN WING

St. Luke's Hospital will reopen the third floor of its old east wing Thursday. The wing has been air-conditioned and modernized since it was closed last April. Improvements are being completed on the second floor of the 53-year-old wing. The hospital is at 5535 Delmar boulevard.

Leaflet Raid on Red China.

TAIPEI, Formosa, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist air force peppered Shanghai and other Chinese Communist air bases before dawn today with safe-conduct passes and pleas to Red China airman to defect to Formosa with their planes.

TIGERS, DINGOES GANG UP TO TAKE HARE OUT OF GAME

Three tiger cubs and three Dingo dog pups got a little too rough with a large Belgian hare that was caged with them as an attraction at St. Louis Zoo's Lion House yesterday, so the hare was removed from the exhibit.

Director George P. Vierheller said the animals had been getting along fine until Sunday morning when the lone herbivore began having trouble with the non-vegetarians.

"The hare was able to handle two or three of them, but was outnumbered when all six rushed it. We decided it was better off elsewhere, although it was not hurt," Vierheller said.

Last night the hare was back with the cubs and pups. Sweetness and light prevailed and not a hair of the hare was ruffled, Vierheller said, but the probability is that there will be no further public appearances.

3 TEEN-AGERS ACCUSED OF ROBBING MOTORIST

Warrants charging two teen-age boys and their 17-year-old girl companion with armed robbery were issued by Gasconade county authorities following their arrest yesterday by the State Highway Patrol a short time after they reportedly robbed a motorist of $10 and his wristwatch and took his automobile.

Sheriff Harry J. Heberle of Gasconade county said one of the three youths displayed a knife and demanded money from Hadley Butler of Leslie, Mo., on U.S. Highway 50, east of Rose Bud, Mo., after they had flagged him down, telling him their car was stalled. They forced Butler to accompany them for about a mile, then put him out of his car, the sheriff said.

Highway Patrol officers, alerted by Butler, pursued the machine east on Highway 50 and fired one shot. The car overturned near the intersection of U.S. Highway 66 and Highway 50, where a roadblock had been set up. The three, uninjured, were arrested as they scrambled out of the car. They said they are Russell E. Dozier, 19, of Grandview, Mo., and Jesse H. Foulk, 18, and Miss Evelyn Irene Venable, 17, both of Kansas City.

148 EMPLOYES ON STRIKE AT TWO PAPER COMPANIES

A total of 148 employes at two St. Louis wholesale paper firms went on strike today in support of demands for a new contract. Companies affected are Graham Paper Co., 1014 Spruce street, where 140 employes went on strike and the Beacon Paper Co., 100 Clark avenue, where eight employes walked out.

The employes are members of Teamsters Local 688. Harold J. Gibbons, secretary-treasurer of the union, said that wages are not the issue in the negotiations. He said the union's chief proposals have centered around improvement in the language terms of the contract to prevent "frequent abuses of the collective bargaining agreement in the past." Key issues are an improved grievance procedure and clarification of seniority rights, he said.

J. P. Wilson, vice president of Graham Paper Co., said, "The issue of this strike is an uncompromising demand by the Teamsters' Union that the companies increase health and welfare payments to 12 per cent of gross payroll before deductions, the increase to be paid into the union-sponsored health and welfare trust fund. This would amount to a cost of about $2 per day per man."

OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY PAPER CARRIERS UNION

The St. Louis Paper Carriers Union Local 450 formally installed officers last night at a dinner dance at the Coronado Hotel which was attended by 330 persons.

Charles B. Mundy, 7008 Idlewild place, Jennings, is president. Other officers are Leroy Miles and Milton Renkel, vice presidents; Edward Gevers, financial secretary; Robert Dummerth, recording secretary; Alfred Halls, business agent and Charles Hohman, treasurer.

Officers were installed by Fred Adkins, president of the St. Louis Paper Handlers, Sheet Straighteners and Stock Room Employes Union Local 16.

Mass Evacuation Test.

DETROIT, Jan. 21 (AP)—About 4000 residents of East Detroit left their warm homes yesterday to brave raw, wintry weather in a race for safety from a mock atomic attack. It was Michigan's first mass evacuation exercise and civil defense officials called it a success.

THREE YOUTHS PLEAD GUILTY IN ASSAULT CASE

Two-Year Terms Are Urged on Reduced Charges Involving 13-Year-Old Girl.

Three youths pleaded guilty today to reduced charges of assault with intent to ravish; resulting from an assault by a group of boys on a 13-year-old girl in O'Fallon Park last June. Two-year sentences were recommended by Circuit Attorney Thomas F. Eagleton.

Eagleton said he agreed to reduce the charges in view of the fact that the only one who has stood trial in the case, James E. Stephens, 17, of the 1100 block of North Eighth street, received the minimum two-year penalty by decision of a jury last November, and that the evidence against Stephens was the strongest.

He recommended that the youths be sent to Algoa Reformatory. There, he said, their opportunities for rehabilitation would be better than in the penitentiary.

PAINTER JOHN MINTON DIES

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—John Minton, 40-year-old British painter, was found dead today in his Chelsea studio. Police said he had taken an overdose of sleeping pills.

Last May he announced he would paint no more, that "after Matisse and Picasso there is nothing more to be done." While this mood lasted he gave away many of his paintings, but several months later he resumed work. He had started a mural for the Bank of Brazil when he died.

$5000 STOLEN FROM SAFE IN CAR SHOWROOM

Attempts Made to Open Second Depository at Economy Chevrolet in Wellston.

The Economy Chevrolet Co., 6330 Easton avenue, Wellston, was robbed of about $5000 by burglars who forced open one of two safes in the company showroom yesterday, it was reported to police.

The burglary was discovered at 11:30 p.m. by Wellston Patrolman Norman Hagemann, who noticed the safes had been turned on rollers from their usual position facing the street. Hagemann said he had last checked the showroom at 5:45 a.m. yesterday before going off duty.

Enntrance to the showroom had been gained by jimmying a side door. The steel-and-concrete door of the safe containing the money had been pried open. The combination had been knocked off the second safe, but it had not been opened.

Jerry Ackermann, company general manager, said the loot represented Friday and Saturday receipts, largely on sales of new automobiles. He said the thieves disregarded checks and about $25 in coins. The loss, at first reported as $15,000 to $20,000, is insured.

Three teen-age boys were arrested by St. Louis county police early today in the course of a burglary of a tavern at 10015 St. Charles road, after a neighbor had reported hearing noises inside. One of the boys is 17 years old and the others are 16. Thirty-seven dollars in small change had been taken from a juke box and spread on the floor when the police, accompanied by officers from St. Ann and St. John, arrived.

A safe in the office of the Merchants Ice and Coal Co., 1721 South Vandeventer avenue, was robbed of $525 yesterday or last night, police reported. The safe was beaten apart and an inner compartment containing the money was taken.

MAN ACQUITTED IN ROBBERY TO BE FREED FROM HOSPITAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 21—The Missouri Supreme Court today ordered the release of Lawrence Harris Richey, who was committed to the state mental hospital at Fulton in 1955 by a St. Louis circuit court.

Richey was acquitted by a jury of first degree robbery on the grounds he was insane. He was then committed by the court.

In granting Richey his release on a writ of habeas corpus, which contended he is now "sane and restored to reason," Judge C. A. Leedy Jr. commented that the statutes make no express provision for the procedure to be followed to obtain the discharge of a person committed under certain laws and later found sane.

BICYCLE IN LAKE, OWNER RETURNS AS BODY IS SOUGHT

A melancholy search for the body of a person believed drowned in Jefferson Lake in Forest Park ended happily yesterday when a 14-year-old boy stepped forward to claim his bicycle, which had fallen through the ice.

Troy Rand Jr., 3841 Washington boulevard, was riding on the ice about 60 feet from shore early in the afternoon when the bike, a red and white one, went through the ice. Young Troy got wet, and he decided to go home and change clothes.

A passerby noticed the bicycle's handle bars protruding from the ice, with no rider in sight. Police and firemen rushed to the scene. They cut a wide part in the ice, laboring several hours. Three hundred spectators assembled.

Grappling in the frigid water brought no results and authorities were about to drain the lake. At that point the Rand boy returned with a length of clothes line to fish out his bicycle. He said he was sorry to have caused so much excitement.

COUNCIL MANAGER FAVORED BY CLAYTON CIVIC LEAGUE

The proposed new Clayton charter calling for a council-manager government form, to be submitted to voters Feb. 14, was indorsed in a statement today by the Clayton Civic League.

The statement said: "The league believes the proposed new charter provides many advantages to a city that has far outgrown fourth-class status. It offers a structure of government that is modern, flexible and streamlined."

League co-chairmen are Robert Bassett, Mrs. W. W. Boyd III, Douglas Dodds, Harry Epstein, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Harmon, Werner Hirsch, Peter Hochschild and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Langsdorf.

ASSAULTED AFTER LEAVING BUS, WOMAN TELLS POLICE

A 43-year-old woman reported she was criminally assaulted last night near her home in the 4900 block of South Broadway by a man who grabbed her after she alighted from a South Broadway bus.

She said the man, who appeared to be in his early 20s, put his hand over her mouth and threatened her. When she screamed, the assailant struck her in the face with his fist. He then ordered her to a nearby lawn, where he attacked her, police were told. She was treated at City Hospital.

JURY TRYING WOMAN ON ABORTION CHARGE

Young Wife Testifies Doctor Wrote Phone Number and Name 'Julia.'

Trial of Mrs. Fraulein Scown, who is charged with criminal abortion in the operation of an establishment at 415 Tuxedo boulevard, Webster Groves, began today in the court of Circuit Judge Raymond E. LaDriere before a jury of nine men and three women.

First witness was a young married mother of three children who testified that about April 3, last year, fearing she was pregnant, went to the office of "a Dr. Schindewolf at Ninth and Russell."

The woman said that on three occasions the doctor gave her shots "to get rid of the baby." Finally, the witness added, the doctor said it seemed that the shots were not going to work. She testified that the doctor then wrote down a phone number and the name, "Julia," and told her to call "Julia."

The witness said that when she called the number, a woman answered as "Julia" and the young mother was told to go to 16 Hampton Village and wait there. The witness said her husband took her to that address on April 28.

Two other young women were waiting there also, the witness said. She pointed to Mrs. Scown and identified her as the woman who drove up in a Cadillac and said, "Come on, girls. Let's go."

In his opening statement, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John L. Hayward said the state would attempt to prove that Mrs. Scown drove the three women to the abortion establishment after requiring them to put on glasses with thick paper pasted on the back of the lenses to prevent their seeing.

Hayward said the state would prove that Mrs. Scown ordered the three women to lie down in the back of the automobile as they approached the house and drove the car into a basement garage.

Hayward said that the woman told him that after she was assigned to a bedroom, Mrs. Scown came in and obtained a sum of money from her and told her to give somt of the money she had left to the doctor.

Mrs. Scown, 40 years old, a divorcee, gave her address as 404 East Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves. Mrs. Julia Rackey, 54-year-old widow, who gave her address as 7932 Captain Conn drive, Affton, was charged jointly with Mrs. Scown in four indictments. Mrs. Rackey has not yet been brought to trial.

CHARGES AGAINST GREENSPAN, WOOD ARE NOL-PROSSED

state requested and was granted a continuance in these other cases," Eagleton stated.

"At some time subsequent to that, Ethel Clift became absent from St. Louis. A letter postmarked 'Cincinnati, Nov. 3, 1956' was received which articulated her fear for her psychiatric well-being and which expressed her unwillingness to testify in any other cases."

The evidence against Greenspan was similar to that presented in the Davis trial, Eagleton pointed out, saying: "In three of the four cases, in order to make the barest showing of a submissible case, the state would have to use the testimony of the missing prostitute, Ethel Clift."

Referring to Grace Cavitt, who would be the chief prosecution witness in the other case against Greenspan, he said: "It is questionable as to how much weight can be given her testimony."

Two of the five charges against Wood depend upon testimony from Ethel Clift, the circuit attorney stated. He said the state, to go forward with the three perjury charges, would have to rely on statements from witnesses whose credibility could be questioned.

Outlining the general policy of his office regarding prosecution, Eagleton asserted:

"We wholeheartedly indorse the proposition that both the mighty and the weak must be held accountable to the law. If credible evidence of official wrong doing is uncovered, then it is in the finest and most courageous tradition of law enforcement for the prosecutor to seek a conviction.

"But a corollary to this tradition is the firm duty not to initiate prosecution if there is an absence of credible evidence, and in the alternative the duty to dismiss charges if the state is devoid of such credible evidence."

Judge's Comment.

When the young circuit attorney completed his statement, Judge Aronson said: "I think you are to be commended for taking a realistic attitude and for acting upon the conclusions you have reached."

The judge said he noted that Eagleton, in the few weeks that ensued since he took office, had taken a realistic attitude towards cases, adding: "One can deceive one's self and maybe the general public by failure to take a realistic attitude in making an accurate appraisal of one's situation."

Judge Aronson, in commending Eagleton for terminating cases in which the state could not hope for successful prosecution, said:

"When a circuit attorney does not do that, the courts will become clogged with cases that cannot result in convictions. When that is apparent in advance, it is to be appreciated by the community as well as by the court that such impediments to the free and proper flow of litigation in the criminal courts are removed."

Greenspan told a Post-Dispatch reporter: "I appreciate the moral support given to me by the thousands of people who know me and by members of the police department. I am anxious to go back to work and to continue my good record in the department because it is my life's work."

Wood said: "Ever since these charges were first brought, I have searched my mind to find out where I had failed. Now, at last, I can face my wife and three children, and they can look at me without any reservation, knowing I have never failed them."

Greenspan was charged with accepting $50, $25, $25 and $20 in separate payments from brothel operators late in 1954. Wood was alleged to taken $50 from the Clift woman on each of two occasions about the same time.

In the perjury indictments, Wood was accused of lying to a grand jury when he denied bringing sandwiches and coffee to Grace Cavitt in a Magnolia Avenue Police District cell Oct. 21, 1954, and taking her home from the police station the following day.

He also was charged with giving perjured testimony by denying he was in the brothel on Chouteau avenue prior to Feb. 17, 1955.

Wood was assigned to the Magnolia District at the time of the alleged offenses. Greenspan was in the detective bureau.

Touched Off by Pauline Cloin.

The police pay-off inquiry was touched off by Pauline Cloin, who contended she was the owner of $14,335 found in an establishment operated at 308A North Theresa avenue by June Alma Lytz.

The money, hidden in a "gossip bench," was discovered after Mrs. Lytz was shot to death on the street April 21, 1955, by Guy Nolan, a Negro, later sentenced to life. The shooting had no connection with operations of Mrs. Lytz's establishment, known as June's Bath and Massage Parlor.

Miss Cloin said Mrs. Lytz, her employer, had kept the $14,335 for her. In her efforts to recover the money, Miss Cloin sought the aid of police department officials, to whom she gave an account of pay-offs allegedly made by Mrs. Lytz to policemen.

The ensuing investigation had many ramifications. One involved the action of Thomas M. Brady, then Public Administrator, in giving to a friend a book which Brady had in his official possession as part of Mrs. Lytz's estate.

Alleged Pay-Off List.

This book, alleged to contain a listing of pay-offs to police officers, later turned up beside a bust of Napoleon atop the cluttered roll-top desk in State Senator Michael Kinney's office in the Holland building, 211 North Seventh street.

Kinney explained he received the book from Charles Cuntz, an attorney for Miss Cloin, who sought Kinney's opinion as to its value in pressing the claim for the $14,335, which she later obtained. Cuntz obtained the book from Brady after the Public Administrator recovered it from his friend.

Dowd launched a grand jury inquiry in June 1955 into the reported pay-offs. The investigation, continued by a succession of grand juries, resulted in bitterness at times between Dowd and police department officials.

The circuit attorney also had a dispute with Charles Ford, foreman of one of the grand juries, which resulted in Ford's resignation from the jury. Hearings on defense motions in circuit court were marked by frequent clashes between Dowd and Shenker, defense attorney.

Seven policemen were called before the grand jury as witnesses and were asked by Dowd to fill out questionnaires relating to their financial conditions.

The police department, which conducted its own investigation, suspended 13 policemen, all of whom have been restored to duty except Greenspan and Wood.

HUNGARIAN HERO REPORTED TRIED, DOOMED TO DIE

reported, bringing to 8601 the total of Hungarian refugees now in Yugoslavia.

Although the cold weather has filled the Danube with ice, people were saying in Budapest the crossing was not nearly as dangerous as trying to sneak past the guards at the Austrian border.

Seven of Hungary's best-known writers and newspaper men were reported arrested. Members of the suspended Federation of Hungarian Writers were charged with "activities contrary to the interests of the Hungarian People's Republic." The writers have played a big role in demanding freedom of thought and press.

The suspended National Association of Hungarian Journalists was accused of choosing its board of directors without a proper election.

Headquarters of both groups were taken over by the government and members told to stay away from the club houses.

Hungarian newspapers also reported the jailing of three railway employes accused of helping refugees get out of the country, and Budapest radio announced the execution of two youths convicted as counter revolutionaries.

MOSLEM BLOC BACKS U.S. ON MIDEAST PLAN

munist aggression and subversion to the countries of the Middle East. They fully support the measures outlined in that plan as it stands at present as best designed to maintain peace in this area and advance the economic well-being of the people.

"They noted with gratification that the plan is not designed to create spheres of influence or to enslave the peoples of the Middle East."

(The United Press said the Baghdad powers also demanded that Syria restore the shattered oil pipelines linking Iraq with the Mediterranean, and called for "vigorous steps . . . to meet the challenge of false and subversive propaganda" in the Middle East, without naming the source of the propaganda.)

The final communique was signed after an overtime meeting last night. The meeting was speeded up at the request of Premier Nuri Said of Iraq, who was anxious to return to his capital.

Said, his Foreign Minister, Burhanuddin Bashayan, and Iraqi Crown Prince Abdul Ilah were the first to leave Ankara. The Premier and the Foreign Minister are returning to Baghdad. The prince is going on to London and Washington where he will report on the outcome of the Ankara talks to both governments.

Also on the way to Washington is King Saud of Saudi Arabia, a member of the Arab neutralist bloc, who sailed for Washington from Naples yesterday. Prince Ilah is to fly on to Washington later this week, arriving sometime before King Saud.

Sparkman, Douglas Back Nixon on Aid to Mideast.

WASHINGTON, Jan., 21 (AP)—Senators John J. Sparkman (Dem), Alabama, and Paul H. Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, today voiced support of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's contention that the Middle East needs economic aid as much as American military guarantees against Communist aggression.

The two Senators said in separate interviews they believe a long range program of economic help might prove more effective in blocking Communist penetration of the area than the standby authority asked by President Eisenhower to use troops if necessary to counter any open Communist aggression there.

Nixon made it clear in a statement Saturday that the Administration would resist demands by some Democrats in Congress to separate the military and economic aspects of its Middle East program.

The Vice President, who obviously voiced the views of Mr. Eisenhower and his advisers, said "the economic phase of this program is equally as important as the military authority." He said the economic aid program will "reduce the chance of successful subversion which is greater, perhaps, than external aggression."

Senator Everett Dirksen (Rep.), Illinois, the Senate minority whip, said yesterday in a televised interview (NBC—Youth Wants to Know) that Mr. Eisenhower's Middle East program would "gain and beget the respect of countries like the Soviet Union."

EISENHOWER MAY URGE HOLDING OF PRICE-WAGE LINE

Also Expected to Ask That Interest on G.I. Home Loans Be Boosted to 5 Pct.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Administration officials predicted yesterday that President Eisenhower will call for a national effort to hold the price-wage line against inflation when he sends his annual economic report to Congress this week. They said he probably will omit his 1956 request for consideration of a standby credit control law.

The recommendations are expected on Wednesday when the third and last of the major Presidential messages goes to the new Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower can be expected to forecast further advances in national production and income to new peaks in 1957, Administration advisers said privatyel, but at a possibly slower rate of gain than in the last year.

They indicated the President will re-emphasize his plea to industry and labor unions for "reasonable" pricing policies and wage demands, so as to thwart what he described in his State of the Union message as "the thfief" inflation.

This week's message will show that consumer prices have climbed almost 3 per cent since last year's economic report, while wholesale prices have advanced more than 4 per cent.

In the same period consumers have boosted their total installment debt to successive monthly records. The rate of increase has slowed and one Administration official said that the question of power to regulate down payments and the length of installment contracts "is not an active subject now."

Many of Wednesday's legislative proposals will repeat, with greater detail and emphasis, those of last Wednesday's budget message. The President will renew his declaration against any tax reduction at this time.

Other expected recommendations include: Anti-trust measures to check the wave of industrial and financial mergers; federal aid for school construction; extension of the $1 minimum wage to more occupations; and an increase from 4½ to 5 per cent in the interest rate on G.I. home loans.

Particular interest centers on the expected disclosure of the Administration's present attitude toward consumer credit curbs because many Government economists believe installment buying may surge up strongly this year and add more fuel to inflationary fires.

U.N. HEAD FAVORS SURCHARGE TO PAY FOR SUEZ WORK

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold favors a surcharge on Suez Canal tolls to pay the cost of clearing the war-damaged waterway, diplomatic sources said today.

These sources said Hammarskjold has raised the $15,000,000 he sought for the initial salvage work now proceeding smoothly. They added that he estimates the total job will cost about $45,000,000.

It was said Hammarskjold believes the salvage costs can be paid back within two years by a surcharge.

Hammarskjold was said to have reported satisfaction with the canal salvage work at a meeting of the advisory committee Saturday. The committee was created by the United Nations General Assembly to assist him on clearing the canal and raising and deploying the U.N. Emergency Force in the Middle East.

DISABLED PRIVATE PLANE LANDS SAFE ON SOAPSUDS

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—A four-place private plane circled Tampa International Airport for an hour and 49 minutes with a disabled wheel yesterday, then skidded into a safe landing on a soapsudsy runway.

Robert Walker of Tampa discovered he was not getting proper air speed and flew over the control tower so observers could tell him the trouble. It was a bad wheel. MacDill Air Force Base rushed in concentrated soapsuds which were spread on the runway.

FRENCH-MOROCCAN TALKS RULE OUT ALGERIA AS ISSUE

NICE, France, Jan. 21 (AP)—Maurice Faure, French secretary of state for foreign affairs, said after a meeting with the Sultan of Morocco yesterday: "We agreed that the solution of the Algerian problem should not be a prerequisite for the re-establishment of French-Moroccan relations."

It was the first high-level meeting between the two countries since the arrest by the French of five Algerian nationalist leaders last October caused a serious rift in France's relationship with its former North African protectorate.

Seventh Fleet Command Shift.

WOMAN BUS DRIVER BITES PASSENGER, FINED $88

TAIPEI, Formosa, Jan. 21 (UP)—Lien Ma-int, a woman bus driver, was ordered to pay $88 for biting the hand of a would-be passenger, court officials said today.

The driver protested when a cook tried to board her bus with an armload of vegetables and bit him when he stuck his hand in the door.

Eisenhower Responds to Cheers Of Crowd in Inauguration Parade

He Stands and Waves for Much of Ride Down Pennsylvania Avenue—Six Miles of Marchers in Procession.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower, standing and waving much of the time, rode down Pennsylvania avenue in his inaugural parade today to cheers from thousands massed along the curb.

Police chief Robert V. Murray estimated the over-all crowd—at the Capitol and along the line of march—at 750,000.

Mrs. Eisenhower rode with the President. Behind them, in another car, came Vice President Nixon and his wife.

At the White House, the automobiles of the presidential party swung into the grounds. The President and Nixon took places in the reviewing stand there to watch the six-mile long parade.

Built into the balustrade in the reviewing stand, directly in front of the President and the Vice President, were electric heaters. Stools with blue leather seats were behind both Mr. Eisenhower and Nixon, but both men remained on their feet most of the time.

Mr. Eisenhower and Mrs. Nixon were seated about six fet behind the President, at a distance where the heaters did them no good.

Though the President looked a little tired, he stood erect as the long gray line of cadets from West Point, the midshipmen from the Naval Academy, the Air Force cadets, and the Merchant Marine cadets passed in review with bands playing.

Mrs. Eisenhower clapped enthusiastically as each regiment passed.

It was the first time the cadets of the new Air Force Academy had marched in an inaugural parade. Four companies of cadet airmen, stepping in rigid cadence, drew rounds of applause.

In the front row of the diplomatic section, just to the right of the reviewing stand, sat Georgi Zarubin, the Russian Ambassador. He watched the parade with obvious interest.

His interest picked up noticeably as the huge Redstone missile, largest surface-to-surface ballistic guided missile fired in this country, came down the line of march. The Soviet envoy turned in his seat and watched the missile and its tremendous carrier until they were a good 75 yards down the street.

Six miles of marchers, musicians and floats marched in the parade.

The pace was 120 30-inch steps a minute, designed by Army technicians to move the 17,000 persons, 34 paper-spangled floats, 65 bands, assorted trucks, tanks and guided missiles, and the Republican elephant mascot, Miss Burma, past the White House reviewing stand in less than 2½ hours.

"And we're going to do it," was one of the last things parade chairman Ed Carr said before he climbed into his No. 5 position along-side his Pentagon counterpart, Army Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten.

Carr cut 6000 persons from the number who participated in the 1953 inaugural, which lasted 4 hours and 39 minutes. He counted on that, plus tighter marshaling from a radio-TV-equipped "command post," to carry out an Eisenhower dictum to shorten things up.

The parade had a theme: "Liberty and Strength Through Consent of the Governed."

It had a $30,000 theme float, 407 feet 8 inches long. Actually, it is 12 floats hooked in tandem and pulled by two Army tractors of the type that hauls the 280 millimeter atomic cannon. The float depicts industrial production, atoms-for-peace, highways, scientific inquiry and other achievements of democracy's liberty and strength.

Many of the state floats carried out individual phases of that theme.

The armed services were showing off their missiles and, mounted on a float, the Air Force's F-104A Starfighter jet plane with a speed twice that of sound.

Following the President and the armed forces in the line of march came the 48 states and the territories, in the order of their entry into the union. Most accepted the committee's invitation to send a governor, a float, a band and a marching unit.

Six TV cameras along the route transmitted images of the parade's progress to six of the 21-inch sets inside the "command post," and a seventh was fixed to get pictures from a light plane aloft. By spotting trouble as it developed, the parade planners hoped to flash corrective orders by radio to their 48 marshals—six to each of the eight parade divisions—and 16 control points.

Fairless Reports on Expansion

5,096,060 Tons of New Steel Capacity in '56

Just one year ago, in announcing that the country's steel companies were speeding up increases in their steelmaking capacity, I said that "during the next three years they plan to build 15 million tons of new capacity." The estimated cost was $3 billion.

Now, 12 months later, I am able to report that these company programs of expansion are moving ahead on schedule.

With the addition of 5 million tons of new capacity in 1956 America now is equipped to produce 133.5 million tons of steel annually.

That is more than 40 per cent of the total for the whole world.

Steel Gauges Nation's Strength

There is a measure of comfort for all of us Americans in that fact, since steel is one of the important yardsticks of national strength. No other country can approach our production of this basic metal.

Russia has the next largest capacity but this is only about one third of the American total.

The need for accelerated expansion is even more apparent now than one year ago. Many new and pressing requirements for steel have emerged since my report of last January.

Suez brought into bold relief the urgent need for a larger fleet of tankers. Roadbuilders broke ground on the $33 billion interstate superhighway system. Our country's school building program is being speeded up.

Defense Cannot Be Neglected

And the national defense program in these times of world tension requires many new types of steel.

Meanwhile, the normal demand for steel continues to grow with the rise in population and in living standards.

In 25 years the country's population has increased by 36 per cent and the per capita use of steel in America in that period has gone up from 469 pounds to 1,390 pounds, or 196 per cent.

Keeping abreast of all these added needs for steel in our country is the job and responsibility of the steel companies. Yet every American has a stake in that job because without enough steel in the years ahead the nation could not maintain its world position.

But if the steel companies are to maintain the current pace, let alone to accelerate it, all of us should be aware of the difficult hurdles they have to clear in achieving this goal.

Vast Capital Must Be Raised

The biggest hurdle of all is that of raising the capital funds to build their new plants and facilities. That calls for profits sufficiently attractive to hold the confidence of investors and lenders.

Unfortunately, many companies in steel and other industries are suffering from a malady known as "phantom profits"—figures which must be reported as profits subject to taxes but are really costs of doing business.

This comes about because our Federal Tax Laws make no allowance for the effects of inflation. Under these laws an industrial company is allowed, in theory, to save up enough money over the life of a piece of equipment to replace it when it wears out.

But the catch is that the company is allowed to recover only the original cost of that piece of equipment, whereas the actual cost of replacing it may be three or four times as much, because of inflation.

Thus, the amount recovered through "depreciation" under the present tax laws is not nearly enough to pay for replacing the worn-out equipment. Consequently American industry must use a substantial part of its so-called profits just to replace its facilities as they wear out — just to stand still.

Constant Supply Is Essential

This seriously impairs industry's ability to expand as rapidly as it should in the national interest. That is especially true in the steel industry because steelmaking equipment is enormously costly and has an unusually low rate of depreciation.

But with continued understanding and support of the American public, this nation's many individual steel companies will surely succeed in the effort to keep steel always available for the thousands of purposes it serves. America and steel must grow together.

NORWAY URGES START ON ARMS PROGRAM IN U.N.

Calls for Supervising Nuclear Production Along Lines Proposed by U.S.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 21—Norway urged the United Nations Political Committee today to instruct the Disarmament Commission to make an early start toward drafting a limited arms reduction program which would begin with international supervision of nuclear production, as proposed by the United States.

Dag Bryn, Norway's assistant secretary of foreign affairs, expressed the hope that the commission's subcommittee, composed of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada, would speedily work out the details of a control system without allowing "disagreement and uncertainty about later stages" to prevent the initial step.

Bryn said he also hoped the subcommittee would agree on the establishment of a system for registering all large-scale nuclear tests to provide protection against dangerous fallout and to seek means of restricting all future use of nuclear production to peaceful purposes. Both objectives are included in recommendations made by the United States.

Moritorium on Tests Urged.

(Sweden called for a two-year moratorium on the testing of nuclear weapons until a special U.N. committee has a chance to evaluate the effects of atomic radiation, the Associated Press reported.

(Sweden's Rickard Sandler proposed to the Political committee that it consider such a "standstill" on tests until late in 1958.

("From the genetic point of view, there is unanimity among scientists that every increase in the sum of radiation is harmful, and it is the sum that counts," Sandler said. "We know all too little about those genetic consequences.")

With Japan and Canada as co-sponsors, Norway has introduced a resolution which assumes that the eventual prohibition of atomic weapons can be attained only in progressive stages and that, therefore, it should begin with the registration of nuclear explosions "with the view of keeping the total and actual expected radiation in the world under constant observation."

The Norwegian spokesman praised the other United States proposals that the subcommittee consider creating machinery for inspection and verification which would permit military reductions in arms and manpower; control of long range missiles and other space vehicles.

Japan Also Approves.

Japan also spoke in behalf of the joint resolution, emphasizing the danger of atomic fallout of which R. Sawada, deputy chairman of the Japanese delegation, said his nation was seriously aware. From the general point of view, he said, "what matters is that the whole population of the world is exposed to increasing fallout."

The Soviet Union has submitted three resolutions concerning disarmament. They call for prohibition of tests of hydrogen and atomic weapons; for a General Assembly directive to the Disarmament Commission to find ways of reducing armaments and abolishing nuclear weapons and requesting a special meeting of the assembly "on matters of disarmament" which "brook no delay."

Closed door meetings of the disarmament sub-committee were tentatively scheduled to be resumed in March when the General Assembly was expected to adjourn.

SEA WOLF, SECOND ATOM SUBMARINE, MAKES FIRST TRIP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The submarine Sea Wolf, the nation's second atomic-powered vessel, got under way for the first time today, the Navy disclosed.

A spokesman told a reporter the Sea Wolf pulled away from the builder's yard, the Electric Boat division of General Dynamics Corp., at Groton, Conn., and started down the Thames river early this morning.

In answer to inquiries, the Navy said this effort to test the controversial and unique nuclear reactor of the Sea Wolf was a part of the builder's trials.

The spokesman was unable to say how far down the river the submarine would attempt to go under atomic power or how long this first, moving phase of the trials would last.

Early last fall the Navy confirmed reports it was having trouble preventing corrosion in the Sea Wolf's super-heating equipment. Unlike the atomic reactor of the submarine Nautilus, which has performed up to the highest expectations, the reactor of the Sea Wolf uses liquid sodium instead of water, to transfer heat from its atomic furnace to the steam making apparatus which turns the vessel's turbines.

Two Bruised in Plane Crash.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 21 (UP)—Two United States Air Force officers had a narrow escape last weekend when their rented light plane crashed six miles from here. Lt. Carl Stowell and Lt. Kenneth Buhr Jr., both of the Kinross (Mich.) Air Force Base, suffered only bruises when the plane hit a ski-tow cable at Hiawatha park. They waded through four-foot-deep snow for more than four hours before reaching a highway.

President Repeats Oath In Ceremonies at Capitol

hower completed his first term Jan. 20 and the oath was administered on that day to prevent any possible confusion in the event of a crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower came down the Capitol steps to the portico shortly after noon to the tune of "Hail to the Chief," played by the Marine band.

Seating Arrangement.

The spectators saw Mr. Eisenhower move down the center aisle and take a seat behind and slightly to the left of the lectern. Vice President Nixon was at Mr. Eisenhower's left.

In the first row at the President's right were Mrs. Eisenhower; Mrs. Nixon; Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John Sheldon Doud; the President's son, Maj. John E. Eisenhower, and his wife, and their children, David, Barbara and Susan.

In the first row at the President's right were Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, inaugural committee chairman, who introduced the various participants in the ceremony; House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas; Senator Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island; Mrs. Frank Nixon, the mother of the Vice President; Patricia and Julie, the Vice President's daughters, and F. Donald Nixon, the Vice President's brother, and Mrs. F. Donald Nixon.

Other members of the two families and the remainder of the distinguished guests were seated in four rows of chairs behind the front row.

The band struck up "The Stars and Stripes Forever" and after the spirited musical number the President's pastor, the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church, delivered the invocation. The President had a fixed and solemn air while Dr. Elson gave the brief prayer, but his face brightened and his glance could be seen roving over the audience as Marian Anderson, noted Negro singer, sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Nixon Sworn In.

The oath was administered to Nixon by Senator William F. Knowland of California, who has announced he will leave the Senate next year and who may run for Governor of California in a move to deny the 1960 Republican presidential nomination to Nixon, now the front-running candidate. Nixon is only 44 years old; Mr. Eisenhower, at 66 the oldest man ever to embark on a second White House term, cannot by law run again.

Nixon, his right hand upraised, repeated the words of the oath after Knowland with the utmost solemnity, but when he had finished he broke into a broad grin and shook hands with Knowland and the President.

Following a prayer offered by Archbishop Michael of the Greek Orthodox Church, New York; a selection, "America, the Beautiful," by the band; a song, "America," by Brian Sullivan; and another prayer by Rabbi Louis Finkelstein, chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary of New York, the President bounced to his feet for his part in the performance.

Chief Justice Warren, his black judicial robes fluttering in the breeze, took up a position at the lectern facing the President. He began at once to read the words of the oath, speaking in a voice softer than that of the President. When it was over, Mr. Eisenhower smiled and turned at once to pick up the text of his address from his chair.

The benediction was given by Cardinal Edward Mooney of Detroit and the Marine band played the national anthem.

When the last notes had died away Mr. Eisenhower put on his black hat and turned to walk up the aisle. He returned for a moment to the portico rail, however, to stand with Mrs. Eisenhower and Nixon and Mrs. Nixon for a few moments, smiling and waving to the crowd.

Bundled in Raincoats.

Crowds began to gather before 9 o'clock on the gloomy plaza in front of the Capitol. A light drizzle was falling and early arrivals, as well as hawkers of souvenirs, were bundled in raincoats.

During the early morning the classical portico, built out from the Capitol entrance for the President and Vice President and their families and high government dignitaries, was empty except for wandering radio and television reporters carrying hand microphones, and photographers lining up focusing distances.

The microphone-studded lectern on the portico, which was decorated only with seals of the United States and of the President, was covered with a white cloth, which was stripped away at 11 o'clock, about the same time that the Marine Band took up its position.

From the platform one could look out on a wintry scene done predominantly in tones of gray. Spectators fortunate enough to have tickets sat on water-logged benches that had been set up immediately in front of the portico.

Beyond, dimly seen through the leafless trees, rose the dome of the Library of Congress and the facade of the Supreme Court building. On the right the House Office Buildings loomed, and on the left the Senate Office Building. Flags at full staff moved listlessly; there was no bunting on any of the Government structures.

Photographers, denied admission to the oath-taking at the White House yesterday, were deployed in great force. Most of them were perched on a high stand set up about 100 feet from the portico rail. Mammoth barrels of long-range cameras protruded like a row of guns on an ancient man-of-war.

Preparations for the ceremony, under way for several weeks on the plaza, included, in addition to the wood seats, tables and guard railings, stockades around the young trees in the park area. These were surmounted by barbed wire to keep ambitious climbers away.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the scene began to take on life and color. A United States Navy dirigible drifted above the buildings and down below a sodden black mongrel, which had been bounding about in the laps of the spectators, made an inspection trip among the members of the band.

'To the Colors.'

At 11:30 o'clock a trumpeter played "To the Colors" and the flags and battle streamers of the armed services were marched in and arrayed at left and right of the band platform.

As Congressmen and distinguished guests began arriving and taking up positions under the portico or along the railing of the wings, it was noticeable that the black homburg hat, popularized by Mr. Eisenhower at the 1953 inaugural, still was in favor.

It was by no means uniformly worn, however. The most popular headgear appeared to be the soft felt hat. Those closest to the President, including members of the cabinet, wore black homburgs, as did Gov. James M. Blair of Missouri, who was dressed in formal attire. Members of the Supreme Court were hatless.

Former President Herbert Hoover, his face now deeply lined with the years, took up a seat behind Chief Justice Earl Warren; the two engaged in a short smiling conversation. Just before noon President Eisenhower's immediate family passed along the railing and took up places.

These included Mrs. John S. Doud, the President's mother-in-law, and Maj. and Mrs. John S. Eisenhower and their children. Immediately behind them Mrs. Eisenhower, in a pert lavender hat and matching gloves, appeared with Mrs. Nixon, who was wearing a feathered red hat.

The band stood at attention and Mr. Eisenhower came down the steps.

By the Associated Press.

Four Inaugural Balls.

Tonight, starting at 9 o'clock, celebrants dolled up in diamonds and sables, white ties and tails, will gather in four huge ballrooms. The President and Mrs. Eisenhower, with their son and daughter-in-law, Maj. John and Barbara Eisenhower, planned to appear at all of them.

This climaxes scores of earlier festivities, vaudeville entertainment, the traditional inaugural symphony concert, and a jam-packed Governors' reception for which lines stretched a half block outside the Statler Hotel.

No reporters or press photographers secorded the scene at thethe oath-taking ceremony in the White House yesterday, which was attended by about 80 persons. Hagerty later described what had taken place.

It was the first double ceremony since 1917. The date of Woodrow Wilson's second inaugural, in that year, also fell on a Sunday. Wilson also took the oath first in private, then repeated it in public.

Mr. Eisenhower and Nixon used the same Bibles today, and placed their hands on the same open pages, as they did in the White House yesterday, Hagerty said.

Nixon used a 110-year-old family Bible. It was opened to the second chapter, fourth verse of Isaiah, which contains the words, "And they shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation."

Beneath the President's left hand was the Bible his mother gave him when he graduated from West Point in 1915. It was turned to the twelfth verse of the thirty-third Psalm—"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."

At Church Service.

© New York Times News Service

The two highest officials, and their families, went to church yesterday at the National Presbyterian Church to seek divine guidance for the nation before they were sworn in for second terms.

The group that looked on at the private oath-taking consisted mostly of relatives—48 Eisenhowers and 10 Nixons.

It also included Sherman Adams, the principal assistant to the President, and his wife; Hagerty; Frank Sanderson, the White House administrative officer, and 10 members of the household staff then on duty.

The group formed a semi-circle against the east wall of the East Room, Hagerty told reporters later, as the President and Nixon, both attired in short morning coats and striped pants, took their places in the center of the highly polished floor to be sworn into office for a second term.

Hagerty said that Nixon, repeating after Senator Knowland, took a 74-word oath as follows:

"I, Richard M. Nixon, do solemnly swear that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies foreign and domestic, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same, that I take this obligation freely without any mental reservation for purposes of evasion, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter—so help me God!"

The President, Mrs. Eisenhower, Mrs. Nixon and Chief Justice Warren shook hands with the Vice President, Hagerty related.

Then it was the turn of the President.

HEIRESS LEAVES INVALID HUSBAND $1; HE CONTESTS

Man Surprised by $1,500,000 Estate of Missouri Wife—Wants Half.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—The invalid husband of a Missouri heiress is contesting the $1 share left him in her will disposing of an estate estimated at $1,500,000. He wants a half share as widower.

The husband is 67-year-old Giovanni Imparato, a onetime viola player with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. He now is in a hospital as a cardiac patient.

His wife, Mrs. Esther Belle Wheeler Imparato, 62, died Dec. 3 leaving more than half her estate to charity, a sizable amount to a woman friend and a jewelry collection to the Marceline (Mo.) Methodist Church.

Mrs. Imparato, member of a wealthy Marceline family, poet and actress, drafted her will Oct. 19, 1954. In it she explained why she left only $1 to her husband.

"It is not made with any lack of love or gratitude for him. . . . He has shared with me always an antipathy for men who profit from their wives' possessions, either during their lives or after their deaths," she wrote.

Imparato implied there apparently had been some misunderstanding about the subject.

The will was filed for probate last Tuesday. In additional papers filed over the weekend contesting the will, Imparato told Surrogate Samuel de Falco that his wife never had discussed her financial status with him. He said the total amount of her estate came as a complete surprise.

He charged that the friend, Miss Elizabeth Mitchell, exercised undue influence in drawing up the will, which he said was fraudulent.

Imparato said he wants half the estate as the legal widower. The judge reserved decision.

Imparato said he had supported his wife by his viola playing following their marriage Feb. 15, 1945. He said they met in Paris when he was on a world tour with the Philharmonic. They had lived in New York.

Miss Mitchell, identified as a fabrics firm executive, reportedly is living in Florida. She also was left a large amount of real estate in Marceline, where Mrs. Imparato was born and raised.

In Marceline last night Charles Payden, a member of the Methodist Church official board, said he understood Mrs. Imparato valued the jewel collection at $9000. The jewels can be converted to cash after five years, he said.

Payden said he also understood the estate included a one-story brick business building in Marceline and two farms near there.

Born and reared in Marceline, Mrs. Imparato was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. William Wheeler. Much of the estate was inherited from her father, a real estate dealer, and her grandfather.

Mrs. Imparato moved to New York from Marceline after the death of her father about 25 years ago. Her mother had died previously.

FINGER MAN IN RIESEL CASE PLEADS GUILTY ON 2 COUNTS

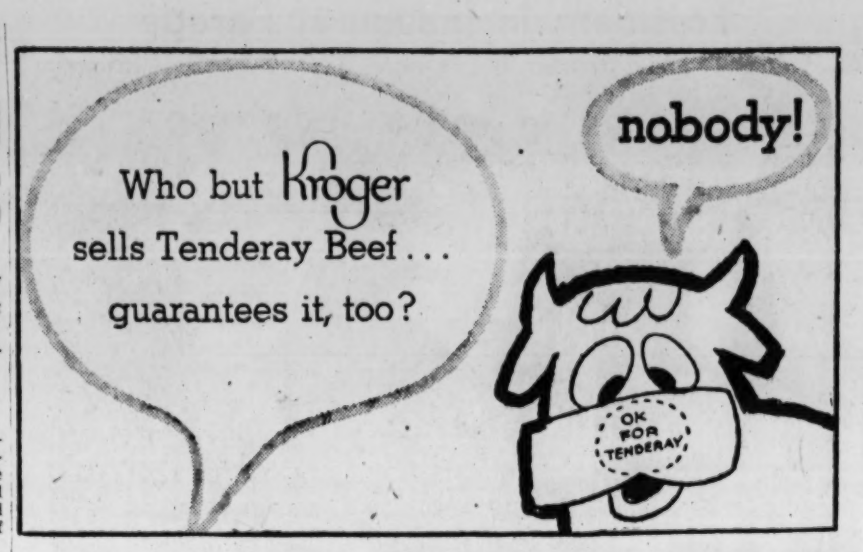

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (UP)—The convicted finger man in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel pleaded guilty in a state court today to maiming and conspiracy charges.

Gondolfo Miranti had denied previously in United States district court an unsigned confession in which he had named labor racketeer John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi as the master mind of the plot against Riesel.

He was convicted with two others on federal charges of conspiring to obstruct justice—a technical charge based on Riesel's expected appearance before a federal grand jury investigating labor rackets.

Iran Commutes Reds' Sentences

TEHRAN, Jan. 21 (AP)—Prosecutor General Hussein Azemodeh announced today an Iranian army secret court of appeal has commuted death sentences on four Communist leaders to 15 years imprisonment.

Text of Inaugural Address Made by President Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP).

Following is the text of President Eisenhower's second inaugural address today:

WE MEET AGAIN, as upon a like moment four years ago, and again you have witnessed my solemn oath of service to you.

I, too, am a witness, today testifying in your name to the principles and purposes to which we, as a people, are pledged.

Before all else, we seek, upon our common labor as a nation, the favor of Almighty God. And the hopes in our hearts fashion the deepest prayers of our people.

May we pursue the right—without self-righteousness.

May we know unity—without conformity.

May we grow in strength—without pride in self.

May we, in our dealings with all peoples of the earth, ever speak truth and serve justice.

And so shall America—in the sight of all men of good will—prove true to the honorable purposes that bind and rule us as a people in all this time of trial through which we pass.

II.

We live in a land of plenty, but rarely has this earth known such peril as today.

In our nation work and wealth abound. Our population grows. Commerce crowds our rivers and rails, our skies, harbors and highways. Our soil is fertile, our agriculture productive. The air rings with the song of our industry—rolling mills and blast furnaces, dynamos, dams and assembly lines—the chorus of America the bountiful.

This is our home—yet this is not the whole of our world. For our world is where our full destiny lies—with men, of all peoples and all nations, who are or would be free. And for them—and so for us—this is no time of ease or rest.

In too much of the earth there is want, discord, danger. New faces and new nations stir and strive across the earth, with power to bring, by their fate, great good or great evil to the free world's future. From the deserts of North Africa to the islands of the South Pacific one third of all mankind has entered upon an historic struggle for a new freedom; freedom from grinding poverty. Across all continents, nearly a billion people seek, sometimes almost in desperation, for the skills and knowledge and assistance by which they may satisfy from their own resources, the material wants common to all mankind.

No nation, however old or great, escapes this tempest of change and turmoil. Some impoverished by the recent world war, seek to restore their means of livelihood. In the heart of Europe, Germany still stands tragically divided. So is the whole continent divided. And so, too, is all the world.

The divisive force is international Communism and the power that it controls.

The designs of that power, dark in purpose, are clear in practice. It strives to seal forever the fate of those it has enslaved. It strives to break the ties that unite the free. And it strives to capture—to exploit for its own greater power—all forces of change in the world, especially the needs of the hungry and the hopes of the oppressed.

Yet the world of international Communism has itself been shaken by a fierce and mighty force; the readiness of men who love freedom to pledge their lives to that love. Through the night of their bondage, the unconquerable will of heroes has struck with the swift, sharp thrust of lightning. Budapest is no longer merely the name of a city; henceforth it is a new and shining symbol of man's yearning to be free.

Thus across all the globe there harshly blow the winds of change. And, we—though fortunate be our lot—know that we can never turn our back to them.

III

We look upon this shaken earth, and we declare our firm and fixed purpose—the building of a peace with justice in a world where moral law prevails.

The building of such a peace is a bold and solemn purpose. To proclaim it is easy. To serve it will be hard. And to attain it, we must be aware of its full meaning—and ready to pay its full price.

We know clearly what we seek, and why.

We seek peace, knowing that peace is the climate of freedom. And now, as in no other age, we seek it because we have been warned, by the power of modern weapons, that peace may be the only climate possible for human life itself.

Yet this peace we seek cannot be born of fear alone; it must be rooted in the lives of nations. There must be justice, sensed and shared by all peoples, for, without justice the world can know only a tense and unstable truce. There must be law, steadily invoked and respected by all nations, for without law, the world promises only such meager justice as the pity of the strong upon the weak. But the law of which we speak, comprehending the values of freedom, affirms the equality of all nations, great and small.

Splendid as can be the blessings of such a peace, high will be its cost; in toil patiently sustained, in help honorably given, in sacrifice calmly borne.

We are called to meet the price of this peace.

To counter the threat of those who seek to rule by force, we must pay the costs of our own needed military strength, and help to build the security of others.

We must use our skills and knowledge and, at times, our substance, to help others rise from misery, however far the scene of suffering may be from our shores. For wherever in the world a people knows desperate want, there must appear at least the spark of hope, the hope of progress—or there will surely rise at last the flames of conflict.

We recognize and accept our own deep involvement in the destiny of men everywhere. We are accordingly pledged to honor, and to strive to fortify, the authority of the United Nations. For in that body rests the best hope of our age for the assertion of that law by which all nations may live in dignity.

And beyond this general resolve, we are called to act a responsible role in the world's great concerns or conflicts — whether they touch upon the affairs of a vast region, the fate of an island in the Pacific, or the use of a canal in the Middle East. Only in respecting the hopes and cultures of others will we practice the equality of all nations. Only as we show willingness and wisdom in giving counsel—in receiving counsel — and in sharing burdens, will we wisely perform the work of peace.

For one truth must rule all we think and all we do. No people can live to itself alone. The unity of all who dwell in freedom is their only sure defense. The economic need of all nations — in mutual dependence—make isolation an impossibility; not even America's prosperity could long survive if other nations did not prosper. No nation can longer be a fortress, lone and strong and safe. And any people, seeking such shelter for themselves, can now build only their own prison.

IV

The American Experiment.

We do not fear this world of change. America is no stranger to much of its spirit. Everywhere we see the seeds of the same growth that America itself has known. The American experiment has, for generations, fired the passion and the courage of millions elsewhere seeking freedom, equality and opportunity. And the American story of material progress has helped excite the longing of all needy peoples for some satisfaction of their human wants. These hopes that we have helped to inspire, we can help to fulfill.

In this confidence, we speak plainly to all peoples.

We cherish our friendship with all nations that are or would be free. We respect, no less, their independence. And when, in time of want or peril, they ask our help, they may honorably receive it; for we no more seek to buy their sovereignty than we would sell our own. Sovereignty is never bartered among free men.

We honor the aspirations of those nations which, now captive, long for freedom. We seek neither their military alliance nor any artificial imitation of our society. And they can know the warmth of the welcome that awaits them when, as must be, they join again the ranks of freedom.

We honor, no less in this divided world than in a less tormented time, the people of Russia. We do not dread, rather do we welcome, their progress in education and industry. We wish them success in their demands for more intellectual freedom, greater security before their own laws, fuller enjoyment of the rewards of their own toil. For as such things come to pass, the more certain will be the coming of that day when our peoples may freely meet in friendship.

So we voice our hope and our belief that we can help to heal this divided world. Thus may the nations cease to live in trembling before the menace of force. Thus may the weight of fear and the weight of arms be taken from the burdened shoulders of mankind.

Labor to Which We Are Called.

This, nothing less, is the labor to which we are called and our strength dedicated.

And so the prayer of our people carries far beyond our own frontiers, to the wide world of our duty and our destiny.

May the light of freedom, coming to all darkened lands, flame brightly—until at last the darkness is no more.

May the turbulence of our age yield to a true time of peace, when men and nations shall share a life that honors the dignity of each, the brotherhood of all.

Eisenhower Pledges Term To Building of Just Peace

known peril, throughout the world, he painted a Whitmanesque picture of a prosperous United States:

"In our nation work and health abound. Our population grows. Commerce crowds our rivers and rails, our skies, harbors and highways. Our soil is fertile, our agriculture productive. The air rings with the song of our industry — rolling mills and blast furnaces, dynamos, dams and assembly lines — the chorus of America the bountiful.

"This is our home—yet this is not the whole of our world. For our world is where our full destiny lies — with men, of all peoples and all nations, who are or would be free. And for them—and so for us—this is no time of ease or rest."

No Strings on Aid.

To those nations which follow the American example of independence, the President promised no string would be attached to our aid.

"We cherish," he said, "our friendship with all nations that are or would be free. We respect, no less, their independence and when in time of want or peril, they ask our help, they may honorably receive it; for we no more seek to buy their sovereignty than we would sell our own. Sovereignty is never bartered among free men.

"We honor the aspirations of those nations which, now captive, long for freedom. We seek neither their military alliance nor any artificial imitation of our society. And they can know the warmth of the welcome that awaits them when, as must be, they join again the ranks of freedom."

As other Presidents before him, Mr. Eisenhower made a distinction between the dictators of the Kremlin and the Russian people.

"We do not dread, rather do we welcome, their progress in education and industry. We wish them success in their demands for more intellectual freedom, greater security before their own laws, fuller enjoyment of the rewards of their own toil. For as such things come to pass, the more certain will be the coming of that day when our peoples may freely meet in friendship."

Praises Freedom-Fighters.

In outlining the designs of international Communism, which he said were "dark in purpose" but "clear in practice," the President paid tribute to the freedom-fighters of Hungary who have made Budapest "a symbol of man's yearning to be free."

Speaking of the divisive force of Kremlin aggression, he said:

"It strives to seal forever the fate of those it has enslaved. It strives to break the ties that unite the free. And it strives to capture—to exploit for its own greater power—all forces of change in the world, especially the needs of the hungry and the hopes of the oppressed."

The President looked to the United Nations as the principal but not the only avenue for the building of laws under which all nations may live in dignity. He emphasized that the United States must be the first in respecting these international and moral laws, "whether they touch on the affairs of a vast region, the fate of an island in the Pacific, or the use of a canal in the Middle East."

He continued: "Only in respecting the hopes and cultures of others will we practice the equality of all nations. Only as we show willingness and wisdom in giving counsel—and receiving counsel—and in sharing burdens, will we wisely perform the work of peace."

America, he said, is no stranger to change and does not fear it.

"Everywhere we see the seeds of the same growth that America itself has shown," he said. "The American experiment has, for generations, fired the passion and the courage of millions everywhere seeking freedom, equality and opportunity. And the American story of material progress has helped excite the longing of all needy peoples for some satisfaction of their human wants. These hopes that we have helped to inspire, we can help to fulfill."

The President said that from the deserts of North Africa to the islands of the Pacific one third of mankind—nearly a billion people—has entered upon "an historic struggle for a new freedom—freedom from grinding poverty," sometimes almost in desperation for the skills and knowledge and assistance by which they may satisfy from their own resources the material wants common to all mankind.

He said we know clearly what we seek and why:

"We seek peace, knowing—as all ages of man have known—that peace is the climate of freedom. And now, as in no other age, we seek it because we have been warned, by the power of modern weapons, that peace may be the only climate possible for human life itself."

"Yet this peace we seek cannot be born of fear alone: It must be rooted in the lives of nations. There must be justice, sensed and shared by all peoples, for without justice the world can only know a tense and unstable truce. There must be law, steadily invoked and respected by all nations, for without law the world promises only such meager justice as the pity of the strong upon the weak. But the law of which we speak, comprehending the value of freedom, affirms the quality of freedom of all nations, great and small."

When such a peace with justice is established and a divided world is healed, he said, the nations may cease to live in trembling before the menace of force.

"Thus may the weight of fear and the weight of arms," he said, be taken from the burdened shoulders of mankind.

'Solemn Oath of Service.'

The President began his address by telling the assembled listeners that they were witnessing "his solemn oath of service," and that he, in their name, was testifying to the "principles and purposes to which we, as a people, are pledged."

Above all else, he said, we seek the favor of Almighty God with the deepest prayers of our people:

"May we pursue the right—without self-righteousness.

"May we know unity—without conformity.

"May we grow in strength—without pride of self.

"May we, in our dealings with all peoples of the earth, ever speak truth and serve justice."

He concluded by saying that the prayer of our people carries far beyond our own frontiers to the wide world of our duty and our destiny.

"May the light of freedom, coming to all darkened lands," he said, "flame brightly—until at last the darkness is no more.

"May the turbulence of our age yield to a true time of peace, when men and nations shall share a life that honors the dignity of each and the brotherhood of all."

TRUMAN MISSING INAUGURAL FIRST TIME SINCE 1933

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Jan. 21 (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman today is missing his first inauguration since 1933.

He attended the 1937 and 1941 festivities as a Senator from Missouri. At the 1945 ceremony, he took the oath as Vice President. In 1949 he took the oath as President. In 1953 he was in the inaugural stands as retiring President.

Asked if he had any plans for the day, Truman said:

"None, none at all. I shall probably be in my office in Kansas City working as usual."

Yesterday on a radio program Mr. Truman said, "What is past is past and there is no use commenting on it."

STEVENSON SPENDS DAY HAVING PHYSICAL CHECKUP

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP)— Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, spent inauguration day in Passavant Hospital getting his annual physical checkup.

Stevenson, who was defeated by President Eisenhower in the 1952 election and again last year, said today there would be "no point" to his attending the inaugural ceremonies in Washington.

"My checkup has been deferred since last November," he said. "This is the first day when the doctor, the hospital and I could get together since that rather busy month."

Asked if he is ailing, Stevenson said "I feel fine. Never better."

TV AUDIENCE GETS GOOD VIEW OF INAUGURATION

Thousands of St. Louisans saw the presidential inauguration ceremonies over television today from the vantage point of front row seats and in considerably more comfort than those at the scene, who experienced variable weather in Washington.

Cameras placed at a number of strategic points from the White House, along the parade route and to the inaugural stand under the Capitol dome gave a comprehensive and detailed view of the historic occasion. As one television reporter put it, "viewers saw more of the entire ceremonies than the President himself."

School children in the St. Louis area saw the telecast from sets in their classrooms, while some department stores had sets for shoppers in their exhibitions halls and windows.

In tracing the President and his party from the White House through all the ceremonies, the television cameras showed that lap robes were much in evidence as protection against the inclement weather. Also clearly seen from above was the virtual sea of homburgs worn by dignitaries on the inaugural stand. Post-Dispatch Station KSD-TV and KWK-TV telecast the event.

INAUGURAL LUNCH SERVED IN OLD HIGH COURT ROOM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) —The usually austere old Supreme Court chamber in the Capitol was decorated with flowers for today's inaugural luncheon for the Eisenhowers and Nixons.

The bench from which the Supreme Court once dispensed justice was banked with masses of pink and white azaleas and ferns. Below on a long table the words "Ike" and "Dick" had been fashioned from white chrysanthemums.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower were assigned to a round table for six, with Vice President and Mrs. Nixon and Senator and Mrs. Styles Bridges. Bridges, of New Hampshire, is chairman of the inaugural committee.

The menu included shrimp cocktail, roast beef tenderloin and ham, followed by pastries.

The room itself has served variously as the Senate's meeting place, and from 1860 to May 1935 was the Supreme Court chamber.

INDIANS IN GOA TO BE FREED

LISBON, Jan. 21 (UP)—The Portuguese overseas ministry said today Portugal will release a number of Indian nationalist demonstrators now held in custody in Goa.

The announcement said prisoners "not guilty of acts of violence or repeated offenses" will be returned to India.

PRESIDENT SAID TO BACK ALCORN AS G.O.P. LEADER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) —A high Administration official predicted today President Eisenhower will tip the scales for H. Meade Alcorn Jr. of Connecticut as new Republican national chairman.

If he wishes, Mr. Eisenhower can practically dictate the choice of a chairman. If he does not, a bitter fight could break out for the post being vacated Feb. 1 by Leonard W. Hall.

An eight-member group headed by Harry Darby, Kansas National Committeeman, will call on Mr. Eisenhower tomorrow to get his ideas about a new chairman.

In advance of the conference with Mr. Eisenhower, an Administration official keeping close touch with developments said there is no doubt in his mind the President favors the selection of Alcorn.

U.S. WOULD LET BRITAIN PUT OFF DEBT PAYMENT

Plea for Cancellation of $81,600,000 Loan Interest Reported Rejected.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — The United States has told Great Britain that it will postpone but will not cancel a multi-million dollar interest payment on the $4,372,000,000 British-American loan of 1945.

The two countries are renegotiating the loan agreement. The discussions followed a British request for cancellation of the interest payment to help offset the financial impact of the British-Frenth-Israeli attack on Egypt.

The interest charge amounts to $81,600,000 and has been deposited in a special account until the loan talks are completed. The loan agreement requires Britain to pay $138,000,000 of principal and interest every Dec. 31, but provides for waiving the interest when Britain's international financial position is unsatisfactory.

Waiver Not Justified.

The decision to renegotiate the agreement reflects a United States acknowledgment that Britain is entitled to relief from the December interest assessment even though the Administration does not believe that a waiver is justified.

The revisions that emerge from the current negotiations will be submitted to Congress and to Parliament for indorsement. The original 1945 understanding was indorsed by an act of Congress rather than as a treaty subject to Senate ratification.

Mr. Eisenhower told Congress in his budget message last week that "appropriate" modifications of the agreement will be submitted "to carry out the spirit of the original intention." The substitutition of a postponement clause for the waiver provision will mean that Britain will have to pay the postponed intrest at some time in the future. The loan agreement is a 50-year understanding that runs until 1995 and provides for 2 per cent interest a year.

Canada Would Follow.

Britain's total stake in the negotiations is $103,800,000. Canada will automatically suspend a $22,200,000 interest payment if the United States waives its $81,600,000 claim and is expected to follow the United States lead if a postponement is approved.

The Administration believes that a postponement request will have a far better chance of winning Congressional acceptance than will a waiver.

The United States plan contemplates giving Britain the right to postpone a fixed number of yearly payments during the life of the agreement. The exact number will be worked out in bargaining.

The possibility of extending the postponement plan retroactively to cover the $56,200,000 of principal that Britain paid on Dec. 31 as well as the $81,600,000 of interest has been discussed, but no decision has been reached.

RED 'MARCH ON PARLIAMENT'

LONDON, Jan. 21 (UP)—The Communist party has ordered its members to "march on parliament" tomorrow, when Harold Macmillan makes his first appearance there as Prime Minister.

The party chartered busses to bring members from all over England to take part in a noisy demonstration. Such a display of sentiment might cause some trouble for police guarding the parliament, but it would have no effect on Macmillan's installation.

POUJADE TO RUN FOR ASSEMBLY IN FRENCH BY-VOTE

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

PARIS, Jan. 21—Pierre Poujade, leader of the right-wing Union for the Defense of Tradesmen and Artisans, is a candidate for the General Assembly in the Paris by-election to be held next Sunday.

The fiery Poujade is, according to political observers, staking his all on this election. If he loses and thereby suffers his first personal defeat, it might spell the doom of his movement which has been severely shaken in recent months by internal dissension.

Next Sunday's vote is a runoff of a previous election for the Assembly seat. In the first election, Conservative Julian Tardieu led all the candidates, but he did not get a majority of the votes.

By announcing his candidacy, Poujade is breaking the vow he made never to attempt to enter the Assembly, which he has frequently described as a "circus."

BURNED GIRL DIES DESPITE SKIN GRAFT FROM DEAD BOY

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Three-year-old Cindy Evans died last night of burns which seared 70 per cent of her body nearly two months ago. Doctors had attempted to save her life with skin grafted from a dead boy.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Evans of Decatur, Ill., brought Cindy to a hospital here Dec. 17 to undergo the skin grafts.

The skin used by a team of surgeons in the operation came from the body of 3-year-old Gilbert Case III of Chicago. He was fatally injured in an automobile collision in the Christmas holidays and his parents offered the skin to save the little girl.

30,000 Poles Repatriated.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Warsaw radio said yesterday more than 30,000 Poles were repatriated from Russia in 1956.

SEATON DECLARES DROUTH AID PLANS ARE 'SUFFICIENT'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (UP)—Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton said yesterday he believes the Administration's $76,000,000 drouth relief program "is sufficient."

Seaton, interviewed on the CBS television program, "Face the Nation," said that President Eisenhower would give "sympathetic" consideration to any appeals for additional Government aid. He said he was not aware of "any crying demand from the people of that area to go beyond the point" that Mr. Eisenhower proposed in his recent budget message.

Seaton, who accompanied Mr. Eisenhower on his tour of the southwestern drouth area, pointed out that the program of direct relief is being augmented by a "gigantic" water conservation and reclamation program already under way. He conceded farmers and ranchers could use more funds. But he said he thought the Government "has done all it could do" under the circumstances.

He said nobody was contending that the Government "ought to come in and bail them out 100 per cent."

Man Gored by Deer.

$1,000,000 Damage by Fire.

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C., Jan. 21 (AP)—Fire swept a former resort hotel being used as an Air Force school here, leaving a damage estimated at $1,000,000. There were no injuries.

An Open Letter

to Mothers and Dads:

Many of our doctor friends have asked us to bring to your attention some very important matters that affect the health of your child.

We refer to . . .

- "BOOSTER SHOTS" . . . for diphtheria . . . for whooping cough . . . for tetanus.

  (Booster shots are necessary to "re-new" the immunity, or protection, provided by the initial shots.)

- Completion of the polio vaccine program of three immunizing injections.
- Vaccination or re-vaccination for smallpox.

Despite constant work and vigilance on the part of public health officials, physicians say that complacency and laxity about immunization programs—on the part of parents—can create potentially-dangerous situations throughout the country.

In Detroit, for example, a recent outbreak of diphtheria—the disease everybody thought was completely under control—struck down 168 children, five of whom died. Last year, more than 2,000 cases occurred in the United States . . . and most all of this suffering and heartbreak could have been prevented, if parents had made sure their children were protected by adequate immunization.

The same is true of whooping cough, another childhood disease that is particularly serious with children less than one year of age. An initial series of shots in the first few months of infancy . . . with the prescribed subsequent booster shots . . . will modify or prevent the disease in most instances.

Tetanus (lockjaw)—a dangerous and frightening disease that frequently follows injuries occurring in childhood—can be prevented with a series of initial injections and subsequent booster shots.

As a matter of fact, three-way protection against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus is now provided in a triple immunizing agent, which reduces the number of necessary injections.

Polio, of course, is a disease almost everybody knows about, but not nearly everybody has taken full advantage of the vaccine that prevents occurrence of the dread disease in most people. The doctors say three shots—not just one—are needed to provide maximum immunization, a fact that too many parents . . . perhaps you . . . are overlooking.

And don't forget that a smallpox vaccination will not last forever. Your vaccination, or your child's, may not be fully effective now.

Physicians these days are able to prevent children from getting most childhood diseases. If you're not sure that your child is adequately protected, we suggest you see your doctor soon.

2 TRUSTIES FOIL 3 IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE JAIL

Jailer's Jaw Broken — Police Reinforcements at Belleville Subdue Prisoners.

A jailer is in the hospital with a broken jaw and three prisoners are nursing cuts and bruises following an unsuccessful attempt to break out of St. Clair county jail at Belleville early yesterday.

Prompt action by two jail trusties, one of whom fled from a cell block where the three desperate men slugged 63-year-old Palmer Kemp, deputy sheriff and night jailer, prevented the escape. A radio alarm broadcast by a second jailer brought policemen hurrying to the jail from the Belleville police station, across the street.

The prisoners put up a stiff fight, but were outnumbered and subdued. They are Adler R. Nelson and John G. O'Brien, arrested by St. Louis police last Tuesday and held in an East Side holdup and a $1400 burglary, and William A. DeJesus, awaiting grand jury action on charges of burglary and larceny. All required treatment by a county physician.

Kemp and John Harris, a trusty, opened the door of the third-floor cell block shortly before 6 a.m., and carried in hot coffee and breakfast rolls for the 11 prisoners. Nelson, O'Brien and DeJesus, hiding in the first cell, from which they had ousted the regular occupant, leaped at Kemp and Harris.

Buckets as Weapons.

The prisoners seized the coffee buckets and hurled coffee on the jailer and trusty, then beat Kemp with the buckets, knocking him down. Harris, 26 years old, ducked out the door and fled downstairs shouting for help.

At the main door, leading to the jail office, Harris was joined by James Riley, trusty cook. The trusties locked the door, and Harris told Deputy Sheriff William Fennoy Jr., on duty in the office, that a jail break was being attempted. Fennoy secured arms and ammunition behind steel dors, and sent the radio alarm. Eight Belleville policemen, four state troopers and two officers from East St. Louis answered the alarm.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Clifford Flood said the prisoners could have reached the jail office if Harris and Riley had not locked the door leading from the cells. Flood said he would ask the court to reduce the sentences of Riley, serving one year for passing fraudulent checks, and Harris, 9 months for assault with a deadly weapon. Harris lives in Belleville, Riley in Centreville Station.

Deputy Had Been Warned.

Charges of attempted jail break and assault will be sought against the three prisoners, Flood said. O'Brien, 21 years old, had warned Flood that he would attempt to escape, the chief deputy recalled.

Nelson, 28 years old, and O'Brien are held in default of $40,000 bond each in a $1400 safe robbery at the B. & P. Office Supply Co., in East St. Louis, and a holdup at the 2933 Club, 2933 St. Clair avenue, last week. Both men are from Minneapolis and met while serving workhouse terms there.

DeJesus, 27 years old, of Centreville Station, was named with two companions in burglary warrants in connection with thefts from nine farm homes in the Millstadt area early last December.

7 PLANES AT 5 AIRPORTS SEARCHED IN BOMB HOAX

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21 (AP)—A telephoned bomb warning yesterday caused the grounding and search of seven airliners at five airports. The Civil Aeronautics Administration late last night termed it "another hoax."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Honolulu received a call telling of a bomb hidden on a plane there. No further details were given. A Japan Air Lines plane preparing to take off was stopped and searched.

All of the other planes that had taken off from Honolulu had already passed the "point of no return"—where the destination is closer than the departure point. Two Pan American planes and a Quantas craft were searched on arrival here. Another Pan American flight was searched in Los Angeles. A Northwest Airlines craft was examined in Portland. Another Quantas flight was searched on arrival at Nandi in the Fiji islands. No bomb was found.

VICTIM OF AIRLINE TRAINER CRASH TO HAVE HONOR GUARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (UP)—A 20-year-old ground crew member killed Saturday when he crashed a $100,000 Pan American World Airways training plane at the International Airport, will be honored by the Air National Guard at funeral services today.

Allan Adler, a mechanic's helper who had been unable to become a pilot because of poor eyesight, was believed to have been trying to take off in the twin-engine, DC-3 when the plane crashed on the runway and he was thrown through the door onto the ground.

The Air National Guard's 106th maintenance squadron, of which Adler was a member, promised an honor guard for the services.

U.S. Pilot Killed in France.

RAMSTEIN, Germany, Jan. 21 (AP)—The United States Air Force announced today that First Lt. John L. Galford, of Elkins, W.Va., was killed in France Saturday when his jet plane crashed on a ferrying mission from Stansted, England, to Rome.

U.S. VISIT 'LIKE A DREAM' TO INGRID BERGMAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Actress Ingrid Bergman returned to Europe today, thrilled about her first visit to America in nearly eight years.

"It was almost like a dream," commented the Swedish-born actress as she boarded a plane for Paris last night at Idlewild Airport. She came here to receive the New York film critics award for best actress of 1956 for her performance in "Anastasia."

It was Miss Bergman's first visit here since 1949 when she left to make a film in Italy with Roberto Rossellini. She and the Italian film director had a son while she was still married to Dr. Peter Lindstrom. After she and Lindstrom were divorced, she was married to Rossellini.

Miss Bergman disclosed that she had talked by telephone with her daughter, Pia, a child born of her marriage with Dr. Lindstrom. Pia, now called Jenny Ann, is 18 and a student at the University of Colorado. She did not come to New York to visit with her mother.

TWO PARTIES MERGE IN BONN

BONN, Jan. 21 (UP)—Two splinter parties in Chancellor Adenauer's government coalition merged into a single party last night to bolster the Chancellor for the general elections this fall.

The small German party joined forces with the dissident liberal Free People party in the unexpected move. The new group commands 34 of 509 seats in the West German lower house.

TWO KILLED IN AIR COLLISION

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 21 (AP)—Two naval reserve pilots were killed here yesterday when their planes locked wings, plunged to the ground and burned.

Senator Says He Will Stay Away If Yugoslav Addresses Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, said yesterday that if Yugoslav President Josip (Tito) Broz visits here and addresses Congress he plans to stay away.

Douglas said on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" program that he would not question the "Motives" of President Eisenhower if he invites the Yugoslav Communist dictator to visit the United States but said:

"Tito is a tyrant . . . an anti-democrat. I personally would not be happy being in a parliamentary body which he addressed as an honored guest."

The State Department has not announced publicly that Tito has been invited to this country, but well-informed sources say he will visit here in late April.

By the United Press.

Senator Douglas said that the Democratic party's southern congressional leadership does not represent the sentiments of the party or of the people.

Douglas said he would "be very happy" if some southern conservatives "would leave" the party, but he is not in favor of kicking them out.

He also said he thinks it is "largely true" that the Democratic leadership in Congress was partly responsible for the defeat of Adlai Stevenson in the November presidential election.

He said he respects both Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn but "they are representatives of Texas."

$68,500,000 IN U.S. ORDERS FOR SMALL FIRMS IN MONTH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (UP)—The Small Business Administration said yesterday it set aside more than $68,500,000 in Government contracts in December for award to small business.

The total was an increase of $33,700,000 over the amount set aside in December 1955. The SBA said $62,700,000 of the December total was for military orders.

Government contracts reserved for small firms in the last six months totaled $345,200,000.

U.S. HIGH COURT WILL CONSIDER FILM 'BLACKLIST'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) —The Supreme Court today granted a hearing to 23 movie actors and other film workers who sought millions of dollars in damage on a complaint that a Hollywood "blacklist" kept them out of work.

The 23 claimants said they were blacklisted by the film industry after they refused to testify in 1951 before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Each asked damages of $2,250,000.

The suit was against major film companies, film distributing companies and members of the House committee. California courts dismissed the litigation on the ground there was no showing of injury to any "legally protected interest" of the 23 because none had an employment contract. In appealing to the Supreme Court for a hearing, the 23 contended they had been denied equal protection and due process of laws.

Other Actions.

In other action today at a brief session held to hand down orders, the tribunal:

Set aside a decision that permitted transients to rent apartments in a government-financed project built prior to 1954. The court held that United States District Judge Walter E. Hoffman exceeded his authority in ruling on the issue involving a Darlington, S. C., project. The court ordered a special three-judge district court to consider the case.

Agreed to review a decision that President Eisenhower had authority to dismiss Myron Wiener as a member of the old war claims commission. Wiener was appointed by President Truman on June 8, 1950. President Eisenhower removed him from office on Dec. 10, 1953, after he refused to resign.

Pinball Ruling Promised.

Agreed to say when a pinball machine ceases to be an amusement device and becomes a gambling device. The Government said a ruling by the United States Court of Appeals in Chicago could cost the Government $3,500,000 a year in revenue. The appellate court struck down a gambling tax conviction on the ground that the coin-operated devices involved were amusement devices.

Set April 8 for argument of a Justice Department plea for an immediate decision on ownership of oil-rich submerged lands off the Louisiana coast.

Refused to review a decision calling for reconvening of a federal grand jury in Charleston, W. Va., to continue an investigation of reports of milk price fixing in that area.

The Supreme Court met for only two minutes today, then went to the Capitol for President Eisenhower's inauguration.

TWO MORE CANDIDATES FILE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Two persons filed today as candidates for the Board of Education, bring to three the number that has filed for the four seats which will be at stake in the April elections. Last day for filing is tomorrow.

Fitzgerald is secretary of the Southern Funeral Home, located at the South Grand boulevard address. The establishment is operated by his uncle, James J. Fitzgerald, a member of the school board for 20 years before he retired in 1953, and a former president of the board. Dr. Walter A. Younge, Negro physician, filed as a candidate last Friday. He is presently serving out the term of a board member who resigned.

FOUR MORE CIRCUIT JUDGES HELD NECESSARY IN COUNTY

Four additional circuit judges are needed to relieve overcrowded court dockets in St. Louis county, a panel of lawyers and county Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz agreed yesterday on a program on KWK-TV.

Robert Hoester, a member of the judicial committee of the County Bar Association, pointed out that most recent figures show county circuit judges handling an average of 905 cases a year, compared with 794 cases per judge in St. Louis and 561 cases per judge in out-state courts.

Garnholz declared that clogged dockets in the county's six circuit courts are causing delays in criminal trials and that these delays work in favor of the defendants, because prosecution witnesses become impatient and forgetful.

G. E. PLANT LAYS OFF 5200

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Jan 21 (UP)—General Electric Co. laid off approximately 4000 employes for six days today. Another 1200 were laid off for an indefinite period.

The employes all work in the television receiver and cathode ray tube departments. A slump in sales of TV sets in the last quarter of 1956 was blamed for the layoffs.

Black Measles Epidemic.

FLIN FLON, Man., Jan. 21 (UP)—An epidemic of black measles has hit more than 100 children in the tiny Indian settlement of Pelican Narrows, 52 miles northwest of here, it was reported yesterday. One child has died.

Trial in 'Party Girl's' Death Opens in Italy After Long Delay

Political Overtones in Case Rocked Government of Former Premier Scelba—Son of U.N. Delegate Accused.

VENICE, Italy, Jan. 21 (UP) —The long-delayed trial in the death of a Roman "party girl" opened today in an ancient courtroom on the famed Grand canal of Venice.

The chief defendant, 34-year-old musician Gian Piero Piccioni, is charged with "culpable homicide"—a charge equivalent to manslaughter—in the death of 21-year-old Wilma Montesi in April 1953.

The girl's half-clothed body was found on a beach near a former royal hunting lodge 30 miles south of Rome. The trial, which has stirred up great public interest, was transferred to Venice in an effort to discourage sensation-seeking "tourists."

Only some 100 spectators were permitted in the courtroom, in addition to the accredited newsmen. Judge Mario Tiberi ruled against routine defense motions. Testimony will begin tomorrow.

Piccioni is the son of Attilio Piccioni, former vice premier of Italy who resigned as foreign minister when investigation of the girl's death revealed political overtones which rocked premier Mario Scelba's government.

Also named as defendants as accessories-after-the-fact are Saverio Polito, once head of the police of Rome, and Ugo Montagna, whose hunting lodge was said to be the scene of sex and narcotic orgies which resulted in Miss Montesi's death.

The prosecution contends the jazz-loving Piccioni abandoned the girl on the beach after she apparently passed out at the narcotics party. Polito is accused of hushing up the case by listing it as "accidental death by drowning." His certificate of death said the girl apparently fainted and was drowned by the incoming tide.

All indications point to a long trial. The court must question 316 witnesses and wade through documents which have piled up since shortly after Miss Montesi's death.

The star witness is expected to be Anna Maria Gaglio, 27, nicknamed "The Black Swan" during earlier hearings. Her once-beautiful black hair is now brassy blonde.

It was testimony three years ago which connected Piccioni with Miss Montesi's death and projected the case into the sphere of political intrigue.

Montagna, a self-styled marquis, is charged with using his influence on Polito to list the death as accidental in an effort to hush up the vase.

Miss Gaglio, a Milanese of respected family, testified in the original hearing that she had a love affair with Montagna. She dramatically charged him with being "the leader of a drug gang," and described Piccioni as an "assassin."

Nine more defendants also will be called before Judge Tiberi of the local court of assizes on charges of diverting police investigation or delaying the course of justice through false testimony.

ALGERIAN REBELS LOSE 170

ALGIERS, Jan. 21 (AP) — French forces killed or captured more than 170 Algerian nationalist rebels over the weekend, military headquarters here said today.

YEMEN DECIDES AGAINST ENDING BRITISH TREATIES

CAIRO, Jan. 21 (AP) — The government of Yemen has decided against canceling its treaties with Britain, says the Yemenite minister to Egypt, Abu Rahman Abu Taleb.

He told newsmen yesterday that because "Britain has violated the treaties by attacking Yemen's territory" Yemen had the right to abrogate the 1934 and 1950 treaties fixing the border between Yemen and the Aden protectorate.

"But we do not choose to do so," the minister said. "Yemen holds to her rights contained in these two agreements and requests that Britain respect them as well as the United Nations charter."

Abu Taleb charged that British forces had penetrated 35 miles inside Yemenite territory. British officials deny their forces have crossed the frontier, saying they have been sent against Yemenite tribesmen invading the Aden protectorate.

Despite the treaties, the protectorate boundary has been disputed between Britain and Yemen for years.

THREE PLEAD NOT GUILTY IN BUS SEGREGATION CASE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—Three university students —two Negroes and one white— pleaded not guilty in city court today to charges of violating Tallahassee's new bus seat assignment law. Municipal Judge John Rudd did not set a trial date immediately.

Francisco A. Rodriguez, Tampa Negro attorney representing the three, entered their pleas.

The three who were charged were among a group of six—three of them white—arrested Saturday on charges that they refused to move to seats assigned them on a Cities Transit, Inc., bus.

Seaton Wants Time to Study Feasibility of Substituting High Project.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) —Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton said yesterday his department plans to seek more time in which to study the feasibility of a high power dam on the Snake river between Idaho and Oregon.

Seaton said the department intends to ask the Federal Power Commission to withhold approval of a private utility project in the area until further study can be made of a potential dam site at Pleasant Valley.

The question of harnessing the Snake river for electric power production has become a major political issue in the Pacific Northwest since Idaho Power Co. proposed to build three low dams along the river, one at Hells Canyon.

The power commission has granted the company a license to build the dams and one is under construction.

Opponents of the Idaho Power Co. plan contend a high dam would make best use of the river's power resources and have called on the Federal Government to do the job.

Details Not Given.

Seaton, questioned in a CBS television interview on "Face the Nation," did not spell out details of the request his department will make of the Power Commission.

However, the action would involve two other dams proposed by the Pacific Northwest Power Co. These would be at Pleasant Valley and Mountain Sheep.

If a high dam of the type being considered by the Interior Department were built at Pleasant Valley, it would flood out the site of one of the proposed Pacific Northwest Power Co. dams and those of Idaho Power Co.

Since the Power Commission has not yet given Pacific Northwest Power permission to build its dams, it was thought the Interior Department would ask that a decision on this be held up pending its study.

Seaton said he ordered a preliminary study of the Pleasant Valley site in September. He said this "showed there were possibilities for a higher dam" than the one proposed by the private utility firm.

Election Results.

Asked if his department's interest in a high dam was whetted by election returns from the Pacific Northwest, Seaton replied, "I can give you a categorical answer and the answer is 'no.'"

He said, in answer to another question, that there have been "no changes whatever in the basic concept" of the Administration's "partnership" power policy. This calls for the Federal Government to work with private and public local interests in developing the nation's water resources.

By the United Press.

The Pleasant Valley would be only a short distance from the original site of the federal high dam proposed in the Hells Canyon dispute.

Senator Wayne L. Morse (Dem.), Oregon, recently introduced a bill to go ahead with the high dam project. A similar measure was defeated last year but Morse contended congressional election results in the area last year was a "mandate" for federal power development.

Nixons Prove Main Attraction At Reception for 35 Governors

They Shake Hands for Hour and Half at Affair Attended by 6000—Vice President Poses With Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (UP) —Vice President and Mrs. Nixon shook hands for more than an hour and a half yesterday at a mammoth reception at which more than 6000 persons gathered to honor the governors of the states.

The line of guests stretched for a block around the downtown Statler Hotel, as an endless stream of inauguration visitors—there by invitation—went in and out.

The governors of 35 states, each in their own grey-bunting boxes, with military aides, had their time at greeting guests, but the big crush started with the arrival of the Nixons.

Poses With Democrats.

Frequently, the line halted as Nixon posed for photographs with a number of Democratic governors, including G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, wearing a green and white polka dot bow tie; Leroy Collins of Florida, Frank Clements of Tennessee, Edmund Muskie of Maine, and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut.

Republicans got into the picture-taking act too.

Fellow Californian Goodwin J. Knight posed with his attractive wife, who wore a champagne colored chiffon dress and matching hat. He described his handshake with the Vice President as "the Republican grip."

Mrs. Nixon, in black taffeta with a hat made of two lifesize artificial pink roses, took advantage of the photo breaks to sit down briefly. She said she shook hands for five hours Saturday.

Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois came in for a lot of attention as he held court in his box to the right of the Vice President's and in the path of the receiving line. The well-wishers shook hands with Stratton and his guests along the way.

Meets French Singer.

Representative Bill Ayres (Rep.), Ohio, got the Nixons to the side to introduce them to Frenchman Marcel le Bon, a singer from Paris, and his wife. He called the Vice President "the greatest good will ambassador we have in foreign affairs."

The ambassador of Iran, Dr. Ali Amini, was one of the few diplomats who managed to get through the mob to see the Vice President.

Two children braved the long line to get to the official box. Eleven-year-old Pam Councilor of Washington, D.C., who went to camp with the Nixon girls, and Milton Redding of Asheville, N.C., who stood in line with his father, Frank, for an hour and a half, much of the time in the street. "I got his (Nixon's) autograph," he said proudly.

$200,000 ALIENATION SUIT IS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

A $200,000 alienation of affections suit filed last July by Henry C. Heier, a commercial artist, against Fred S. Anheuser, operator of Sickles, Inc., a harness firm at 2034 Chestnut street, has been settled out of court, it was learned today.

The suit, in which Heier, of 7600 Cornell avenue, University City, alleged his wife left him Aug. 8, 1955, after Anheuser alienated her affections, was dismissed Jan. 12 in the court of Circuit Judge Douglas L. C. Jones at Clayton. A memorandum stated that "all matters have been compromised and settled."

Anheuser, who lives in Kimmswick, Jefferson county, had filed an answer denying the allegations.

Clash Follows Turkish Fire Raids on Businesses and Homes—Two Shot by Police.

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Jan. 21 (AP)—Fifteen persons were injured in a brief fight between Turkish and Greek Cypriots today. It followed Turkish fire raids last night on a number of Greek business establishments.

Shots fired by Turkish auxiliary police broke up the fight and restored order under curfew laws governing this capital city. Twe Greek Cypriots were wounded slightly by the police bullets.

Today's fighting stemmed from a raid at dawn by 100 young Turks on about a dozen Greek homes, in which they smashed furniture and set fire to bedding in anger over the bomb death of a Turkish policeman last Friday. Stones and bottles were thrown.

About 2000 Turkish Cypriots, watched by police and troops with fixed bayonets, attended the funeral of the policeman today and then dispersed.

Eleven shops and warehouses in the Greek sector were smoking ruins in the wake of torch and bomb attacks last night by bands of aroused young Turks.

Four British servicemen were injured fighting the fires. No casualties were reported in several minor clashes between Greeks and Turks last night.

Cyprus's Greek majority of 400,000, with Eoka as its fighting arm, wants this British colonial island united politically with Greece. The Turkish minority of about 100,000 opposes this move, and there are frequent clashes between them.

Soon after nightfall last night Greek church bells summoned Greek Cypriots to resist incursions of Turks who had penetrated the barbed-wire barrier separating the two sectors. The Turks set fire to Greek business places with torches and petrol bombs.

The firefighters feared at one point that the flames would spread through whole blocks of the ancient city. There was no wind, however, and the fires were finally put out. British army and air force fire brigades assisted the local mixed Greek-Turkish force.

RUSSIANS AND RED GERMANS MARCH IN EAST BERLIN

BERLIN, Jan. 21 (UP) — Soviet and East German troops marched side by side for the first time in East Berlin yesterday in a display of armed might that made it clear no resistance to the Communist regime will be tolerated.

The appearance of the Red Army in East Berlin to help East Germany celebrate the anniversary of two Communist heroes underlined the repeated threats by the East German Reds to put down any attack on the government with ruthless severity.

The parade was billed as a "fighting demonstration" against West German militarism. In staging the parade with armed workers militia, the Communists again violated four-power occupation agreements barring armed civilians in Berlin. However, western allied protests in the past have been rejected by the Soviets.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAX RISE TO HELP DISABLED WORKERS

Increases in federal social security taxes will provide benefits to qualified disabled workers between the ages of 50 and 65, T. L. Gaukel, social security administrator here, announced today.

The increases are ¼ of one per cent for an employe and for an employer, and ⅜ of one per cent for a self-employed person. This brings social security tax rates to 2¼ per cent for the employer and employe and 3⅜ per cent for the self-employed.

The taxes will help cover the cost of monthly payments to workers above 50 years of age who are prematurely retired because of severe long-term disabilities, Gaukel explained. Monthly benefit payments are scheduled to start in July.

RED CHINA SECRET POLICE REPORTED SEIZING HUNDREDS

HONG KONG, Jan. 21 (AP)— Communist China's secret police have launched a massive crackdown on anti-Red sabotage and harassment, reports reaching Hong Kong indicated yesterday. Hundreds have been arrested and tons of ammunition seized in recent months, the reports said.

The reported purge apparently stemmed from fear that East European discontent could spread to China unless swift measures were taken. The disclosures of intensified secret police activity came from Communist publications which have just reached Hong Kong.

The reports indicated the drive has moved from Shanghai into the mountain province of Shensi, longtime base of the Red revolution. In one Shensi town alone more than 100 "counter-revolutionaries" were seized in a dragnet.

Secret police in Kwantung province coastal areas south of the Nationalist bastion of Formosa seized about 600 rifles, 30,000 rounds of ammunition and 600 hand grenades, along with a few machine guns.

Barcelona Bus Boycott Eases.

BARCELONA, Spain, Jan. 21 (AP)—A week-long boycott of municipal transport today appeared to be easing. The boycott began Jan. 14 to protest increased fares on streetcars and busses. Subway and suburban train lines reported normal traffic today and bus lines were about 75 per cent normal.

FOUR SENTENCED TO DIE FOR HONG KONG RIOT KILLING

HONG KONG, Jan. 21 (AP)— Four Chinese were sentenced to be hanged today for killing the wife of a Swiss government official in the savage Kowloon riots last October.

The woman was Mrs. Fritz Ernst, 35-year-old wife of the chancellor of the Swiss consulate in Hong Kong, who died of burns two days after a mob overturned and set afire the taxicab in which she and her husband were riding.

She was the only European to die in three days of mob violence which cost 60 Chinese lives.

ANTI-REDS ACTIVE IN RUSSIA, PARTY MAGAZINE ADMITS

MOSCOW, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Soviet Communist party magazine Party Life confirmed yesterday that anti-Communist elements are working inside the Soviet Union. It demanded that they be put down mercilessly.

It accused enemies of the regime inside Russia with carelessness in discussing confidential Communist information, repeating rumors from foreign broadcasts, and ignoring threats of penetration by "imperialist intelligence forces."

The magazine said there should not be what it called a witch hunt for enemies of the regime, but it added "the dictatorship of the proletariat must be firm and merciless in regard to these anti-Soviet elements."

It also warned against "indiscriminate suspiciousness," recalling that Lavrenty Beria, executed secret police chief, sowed distrust "to raise suspicion in order to slander honest people and to establish illegality."

NEHRU PREDICTS CIVIL WAR IF REDS TRY TO SEIZE INDIA

BOMBAY, Jan. 21 (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said last night "there will be civil war" if the Communists ever try "to establish a dictatorship of the proletariat in India."

Nehru told about 250,000 persons at a political rally that Indian Communists, after wavering about the Hungarian crisis, had supported Russia.

He opposed a Red demand for nationalization of foreign-owned plantations and other businesses arguing that money needed to compensate owners could be used otherwise for development.

"If we do not pay compensation, we shall be discrediting ourselves in foreigners' eyes," he said. Nehru was electioneering in the key Bombay area.

BRITISH PAPER SAYS TRUMAN COULD HEAL SPLIT

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Sunday Express suggested yesterday that President Eisenhower send former President Harry Truman to Britain on a special mission to help restore the British-American alliance.

"There is no American alive who understands Britain better than Mr. Truman," said the lead editorial in the independent Conservative newspaper, published by Lord Beaverbrook.

"Mr. Truman knows how shocked and deeply hurt we were in Britain when America opposed our effort to stop the war between Egypt and Israel. For in Korea he once acted in exactly the same way. He did not first seek permission to restore peace. He moved straight in. And the world rightly acclaimed him."

The newspaper added Truman "is the man to sweep aside the misunderstandings. He is the man who could dispel the bitterness."

Juliana on Holiday.

ANNOUNCES BIG BUILDING PLAN FOR ILLINOIS U.

President Says Program Would Cost $124,-000,000 Over Period of 10 Years.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill—A 10-year building program involving expenditure of $124,000,000 on the Urbana-Champaign campus, the Chicago professional colleges, and Chicago Undergraduate Division of University of Illinois has been submitted to Gov. Stratton, David D. Henry, university president, announced.

Stratton proposed in his inaugural message a $246,000,000 bond issue for state buildings, principally education, health and welfare, for the period 1959-69. Henry's summary of the university's building program was made under this proposal and has been approved by the Board of Trustees.

1957-59 Requests Cut.

In line with the long-term building program, the university's capital requests for buildings in the 1957-59 biennium have been reduced from $35,-674,000 to $26,549,000, certain projects having been withdrawn from the original priority lists to be considered as future plans.

The $124,000,000 10-year plan is broken down as follows: Urbana-Champaign campus, including land, $82,500,000; Chicago professional colleges, $14,-000,000; Chicago Undergraduate Division, to provide permanent quarters for the present program and student body, $27,500,000.

Reduction of the capital requests for 1957-59 will defer beyond the coming biennium construction of a proposed Commerce building costing $2,-610,000, an Education building at $2,640,000, and a Physical Plant Service building, $1,275,-000.

The university also has reduced its request for funds for hospital and other remodeling and minor additions at the Chicago professional colleges from $3,840,000 to $2,000,000 and for remodeling, rehabilitation, and minor additions on the Urbana-Champaign campus from $1,-000,000 to $700,000.

Items for safety improvement of Green street on the Urbana campus and improvement in the Urbana-Champaign sanitary district have been deferred in the current biennial request. Total involved is $460,-000.

Summary of Proposals.

BRAZIL OKS U.S. MISSILE TRACKING STATION ON ISLAND

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Brazil was understood today to have granted permission to the United States to establish a guided missile tracking station on the island of Fernando de Noronha.

President Juscelino Kubischek, the National Security Council, cabinet and general staff representatives approved a note to the United States which Foreign Minister Jose Carlos Macedo Soares said would be acceptable to Washington.

Establishment of the joint Brazilian-United States station on the island, 250 miles off the Brazilian coast, has been the subject of long negotiations. The island is on the 40-mile wide, 5000-mile long guided missile track between Florida and Ascension island in the South Atlantic.

3 SAFES OPENED IN VAIN

The combinations of three safes in the office of the Star Coffee Co., 3044 Lawton boulevard, were knocked off by burglars Saturday night or early yesterday, but the intruders obtained no money, the owner, Peter R. Rubinelli reported to police.

The burglars climbed a utility pole at the rear and broke a window to enter the building, then knocked holes through two walls to get to the office, evidently to by-pass a burglar alarm system. A crowbar, screwdriver and cap were left behind.

CZECH SLOWDOWN IN MINES LAID TO HUNGARY UPRISING

VIENNA, Jan. 21 (UP) — Czechoslovak miners are waging a slowdown strike in sympathy with the miners of neighboring Hungary, reliable sources said here today.

The sources said the Czech miners' passive resistance already has caused a serious drop in coal production. They said the slowdown was clearly connected with the situation in Hungary where miners are producing only half of their prerevolt output.

Quoting reports received from Prague, the sources said Czech coal production fell 230,000 tons short of the target figures for the last quarter of 1956. The official Czech Communist press recently admitted the country was facing a serious coal shortage because of lack of manpower.

The Czech Government has sent party activists to the Ostrava-Kalvina district to hold meetings to "explain" the causes of the Hungarian uprising, the sources said.

TERRIER JUDGED BEST IN PUPPY SHOW

Jimmy Dee Hand Painted Doll, a Boston terrier owned by Mrs. Ellery W. Bartels, 6289 Magnolia avenue, was judged best in show at an all-breed puppy show and obedience match sponsored by the St. Louis Dog Breeders Association yesterday at Gambrinus Hall, 3631 Salena street.

The dog was winner of the non-sporting group, one of six classifications of competition in the puppy match, for which 223 dogs were entered.

First prize in the obedience match was won by a boxer, Sir Charles of Wilbur Park, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hill, 4700 Candace drive, Affton. Thirty-five dogs competed in the obedience match.

In the puppy show, the winner of the sporting group was a gordon setter, Blarney Stone's Tartan Jock, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Leber, Carmen road, Manchester. A black and tan basset hound, Chasseur of St. Hubert, was awarded first place in the hound group. It is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Bogert, 6050 Dowling avenue, Berkeley.

Winner of the working group was Chief Rain Cloud, a collie owned by Mrs. Robert L. Mosley, 9509 Echo lane, Overland. Welcome Hiya My Boy, owned by Mrs. Emery O. Cramer, 3435 Virginia avenue, was winner in the terrier group. A pug, Lady Victoria Cornwell, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Cornwell, 3 Beverly place, won first place in the toy group.

Second place in the obedience competition was awarded to a springer spaniel, Cartref Bob Bobbin, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Phillip W. Sick, 9546 Minerva avenue, Overland. Another springer spaniel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sick, Folly of Six Acres, was awarded third place and Lady Victoria Cornwell, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cornwell, finished fourth.

In the junior showmanship, a dog owned by Larry Brien, 13 years old, of High Ridge won the open competition and a puppy owned by Linda Lewis, 8, of Olivette, was winner in the novice group.

OUSTED RUSSIAN HAD NO U.S. HELPERS, BROWNELL SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell says Russian Maj. Yuri P. Krylov "did not have any American accomplices." An American from whom the Soviet attache tried to buy military secrets reported the attempt, Brownell added.

Krylov, assistant military attache at the Soviet Embassy, was expelled from the United States last week. The State Department said he had tried to buy classified military information and had purchased electronic equipment through "American intermediaries."

Yesterday, Brownell said on a television program (ABC—Press Conference) that Krylov failed to get the secret data he sought because the person he approached got in touch at once with the FBI. He did not name the person Krylov approached, but commended him for a "fine job of citizenship."

RECOVERY, INC., WILL HOLD OPEN TRAINING SESSIONS

The sixth anniversary of Recovery, Inc., in St. Louis will be observed with training sessions at Queen's Work Building, 3115 South Grand boulevard, at 9:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, it was announced today.

Philip Crane, Chicago, national executive secretary and director of training for the organization, will direct the sessions, which will be open to the public.

Recovery, Inc., is a non-profit organization which helps persons with nervous ailments. The work often prevents more serious nervous conditions which require hospitalization. Organized in Chicago in 1937, Recovery, Inc. has grown to more than 200 groups throughout the nation, including 14 groups in the St. Louis area.

Swedish Plutonium Scheduled.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 21 (AP)—Sweden will be able to make its own atomic weapons with Swedish plutonium by 1963, Hugo Larsson, head of the armed forces scientific institute, told a defense information conference.

SAUD TO TELL PRESIDENT ARABS SPURN HIS PLAN

En Route to U.S. With 4-Nation Rejection of Eisenhower's 'Vacuum Theory.'

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 21 (AP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia sailed today toward the United States to tell President Eisenhower what four of the leading Arab countries think of his Middle East doctrine.

The Egyptian Government announced that Egypt, Syria, and Jordan had commissioned Saud to tell the President they reject the "vacuum theory" in the Middle East, major premise of the Eisenhower doctrine.

The Egyptian announcement said the four countries were resolved never "to become a sphere of influence for any foreign power." They took that stand at two-day talks in Cairo ending Saturday with a decision by the other three to supply Jordan with a $36,000,000 annual grant to replace a British subsidy.

Only Basis for Arab Policy.

The announcement said the four had decided that Arab nationalism is the only basis on which Arab policy can be formulated.

King Saud and his all-male retinue of 65 boarded the American liner Constitution yesterday. Under the colorful robes of the 56-year-old King's four Arab bodyguards were submachine guns and swords. Six United States Marines and two Federal Bureau of Investigation agents also were on hand to provide security.

The Constitution is due in New York Jan. 29. The king will begin his talks with Mr. Eisenhower in Washington the next day. He is expected to stay in the United States about two weeks before returning to Cairo for further talks with Egyptian President Nasser and other Arab leaders.

Saud took with him to America two of his 40 sons, but none of his four wives. A member of the party said one of the sons, 5-year-old Prince Manshur, would undergo a medical examination of his crippled hand.

Advance Message of Welcome.

Victor Purse, assistant White House protocol officer, delivered to the king aboard ship an advance welcome message from Mr. Eisenhower. Its contents were not disclosed.

The king's press chief, Abdullah Balker, said an Egyptian official of the Arab League is accompanying the king "on part of his trip in the capacity of adviser."

At the king's request, a navigator on the Constitution keeps the royal party informed of the direction of Mecca. That enables them to bow toward the holy Moslem city in Saudi Arabia when they pray.

MONACO ROYAL PAIR SENDS CARD TO WOMAN HERE

An 84-year-old woman, long an admirer of Princess Grace and Prince Ranier of Monaco, received a birthday card from the royal pair today.

Mrs. Emma Puetz, 604 Lilac avenue, Webster Groves, will be 85 next Saturday. She has followed the career of the former Grace Kelly and the Prince avidly in magazines and newspapers, and has become a neighborhood authority on anything that concerns them.

Her daughter, Mrs. Carl Schroeder of the Lilac avenue address, wrote the prince and princess on the offhand chance they would send a birthday card. When it arrived, Mrs. Puetz was, to put it mildly, beside herself. "They must be very fine persons, "Mrs. Schroeder said," to remember an old lady like this."

Mrs. Puetz has one further desire—she hopes the baby of the princess will be born on her birthday.

BROWNELL DESCRIBES AIM OF CIVIL RIGHTS PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (UP)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. says the Administration's civil rights program this year will include a proposal for protecting Negro voting rights in primaries as well as general elections.

Brownell, who has agreed to remain as President Eisenhower's chief legal officer for the next four years, also said on the ABC television program, "Press Conference," that he is in favor of a constitutional amendment to spell out the procedures for determining when a President is disabled. He called the lack of such procedures "a real gap" in the Constitution.

He said he is against repeal of the present constitutional bar on a third term for a President.

The Administration will ask Congress to authorize the President to allow in a certain number of refugees from Communism each year, he said. The yearly total will be up to Congress.

Editor Flees East Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—Editor Walter Ulbrich has fled from Communist East Germany to Allied-occupied West Berlin and asked for political asylum, refugee officials said today. He was editor of Dresden's Saechsische Neueste Nachrichten, a newspaper of the Communist-aligned National Democratic party. Ulbrich said he had feared arrest on "political grounds."

EX-AID OF TRUMAN DREW SUBSTITUTE MIDEAST PROPOSAL

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The author of that 34-word proposed substitute for President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution has been discovered. He is Will L. Clayton, Under Secretary of State in the Truman Administration.

Clayton, who lives in Houston, Tex., scribbled the resolution on a scrap of paper in Baltimore two weeks ago while waiting for his wife to undergo some medical tests at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

He sent it on in his own handwriting to Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House. This Texan, in turn, drew it to the attention of members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The thing caused a stir.

The proposed version, which avoided mention of foreign aid, such as Mr. Eisenhower's resolution included, read as follows:

"The United States regards as vital to her interest the preservation of the independence of the states of the Middle East and, if necessary, will use her armed force to that end."

28 DROUTH COUNTIES TERMED DESPERATE

Pastures Gone, Says State ASC Head — Feed Will Run Low Soon.

Farmers in 28 counties in Southwest Missouri are in "desperate straits" because of a virtual absence of rain since early August, D. G. Monsees, chairman of the Missouri Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said here today.

Monsees, in an interview, declared than many farmers had lost their fall pastures due to the effects of the five-year drouth in the region, and would soon run low on feed. "They are badly in debt and in danger of losing their farms," he added.

Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse was noncommittal when the need for drouth disaster aid was presented to him by Missouri farmers at a conference in Wichita last Wednesday, he asserted. Monsees attended the conference, called in conjunction with President Eisenhower's tour of the drouth states.

As state head of the federal ASC, Monsees is responsible for administering federal drouth aid here. He is also a member of the state committee formed to press claims for federal assistance to drouth-stricken farmers. At present there is no federal drouth aid being given in Missouri.

The 47-year-old farm administrator explained the farmers are seeking Government subsidy of the distribution of surplus grain commodities so that farmers in the dry areas can buy grain cheaply and maintain their basic herds.

Otherwise, farmers unable to buy grain to replace grain crops lost due to drouth may have to sell their herds, eliminating the breeding stock which is their capital as dairy farmers, he explained.

Monsees, a farmer, took office Jan. 1. His looks are those of an eastern banker, but his calm, soft voice bears witness to his Missouri birth. He was born on the family farm at Smithton, near Sedalia. The farm was settled by his great-grandfather, who came to this country from Alsace-Lorraine.

He is in St. Louis attending a two-day conference which opened today at the Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson for office managers of the state's ASC county committees.

FIRST GERMANS APPEAR FOR DRAFT BOARD TESTS

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 21 (AP)—The first of 100,000 young Germans appeared before their draft boards today for physical and mental examinations.

It was the first time since the collapse of Hitler's Third Reich that Germans have been called as possible draftees for the army. By March 31, some 100,000 19-year-olds will have been examined. The first draftees are expected to be inducted early in April.

An effort is being made to rid the process of the trappings of a jack booted militarism traditional in Germany.

REFUGEE BUDAPEST MAYOR ARRIVES BY AIR IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Joseph Kovago, who served as mayor of Budapest during the recent Hungarian revolt, arrived by plane yesterday to present his nation's plight to the United Nations.

Kovago was mayor of Budapest from 1945 to 1947. In 1950 he was arrested by Communist secret police. He was released from prison last September. After the revolt broke out he was reinstated as Budapest's mayor.

He fled from Budapest to Austria last Nov. 30. Accompanying him here were his wife, Ilona, and their daughter, Katalin, 9 years old.

Emily Post SAYS:

Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or, you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

Wet Weather for Next Few Days

—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Wet weather was the outlook for the St. Louis area for the next few days, although cloudy skies brought only .02 of an inch of rain at both the city and county weather stations in the 24 hours ending early today.

Unseasonably warm weather prevailed here today. Temperatures rose last night from 38 at 9 p.m. to 42 at 2:30 a.m. today, and went from 49 at 8 o'clock this morning to 55 an hour later as a warm front passed the St. Louis area. The Weather Bureau's predicted normal maximum for this date is 41, and record high was 67 in 1843.

Weather conditions over the nation were varied today, with rain in the east central and middle Atlantic states, drizzle from western Tennessee northward, freezing drizzle in parts of Minnesota and snow in northern Minnesota, the Dakotas and upper Lakes region. All reporting stations in California recorded precipitation. A heavy rainfall of 2.63 inches in six hours was reported at Clewiston, Fla.

Minimum temperatures ranged in Missouri this morning from 37 at Farmington to 46 at Kansas City, and over the nation from 10 below zero at Big Piney, Wyo., to 69 at the Miami (Fla.) airport.

Yesterday's highs in the state varied from 41 at Kirksville and Farmington to 55 at Joplin. They were from 12 at Missoula, Mont., to 80 at Kingville, Tex.

Heaviest snow accumulations, outside mountain areas, were reported in northern Michigan, where 42 inches were on the ground at Houghton.

Success of Indian Democracy May Determine Freedom's Fate In Rest of African-Asian World

Increased Good Will Toward U. S. Apparent to Former Ambassador — Striking Changes Have Occurred in Last Four Years.

Chester Bowles is currently making a 10-week trip to India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Russia, Poland, Yugoslavia and Germany. This is the first of a series of reports.

NEW DELHI, India.

WHEN I LEFT my post as United States Ambassador to India in 1953, I resolved that I would never let two years go by without a return to this extraordinary new nation which produces among Americans such a unique combination of interest, frustration, irritation and admiration.

All Americans are now involved in India, for the success or failure of this largest of democracies, where live one-sixth of the people of the world, may determine the success or failure of free institutions in the whole half of the world stretching from Africa through Asia.

If the able leaders of democratic India, with all their unique advantages—their training under Gandhi, their respect for law, their remarkable civil service, their vast natural resources—cannot assure a satisfactory rate of economic growth with increasing justice through democratic means, other less fortunate Asian and African nations may not even make the attempt. Certainly it can be said that what India does in India is infinitely more important to every American than what India says in the United Nations. Indeed, it may well be that India is the ultimate key to peace.

The changes here since our last visit are striking. In 1953 Indians were determined but unsure of their future. By 1955 their development work was in full swing and there was an exhilarating sense of confidence. In 1957 their assurance is still evident, but now it is tempered by a sober and mature awareness of the obstacles that must be overcome.

Good Will Toward U.S.

Toward the United States there is increased good will, partly caused by the United States role in the Middle Eastern crisis once war had broken out, partly caused by Mr. Nehru's recent very successful trip to our country.

The month to month ups and downs in India's attitude toward America have never been as sweeping as most people imagine. But John Sherman Cooper made an outstanding contribution as Ambassador here, and President Eisenhower's long private talks with Nehru have created much better understanding.

Evidence of the good will created by his trip struck me as I entered the Prime Minister's home this evening for dinner. There in the outer hall was the President's picture. Upstairs in his private sitting room there were four pictures on the table—Lady Mountbatten (wife of the last British Viceroy), India's great poet Tagore, Tandon (a famous Congress Party leader), and Mrs. Eisenhower.

A more substantial sign of better understanding was the fact that after the announcement of a policy of direct United States intervention in case of war in the Middle East, Mr. Nehru waited four days before commenting on it, and then he criticized it more mildly than did many Americans.

Indians Concerned.

This does not mean that Indian leaders are unconcerned about its implications. An Indian journalist put his question bluntly: "Why do you think any Western country can any longer fill a political vacuum in Asia?" I told him that the Administration was only restating what our action in Korea should have made clear anyway; that we will oppose any armed Communist aggression against any nation in the non-Communist world anywhere. Since the Republicans had criticized President Truman for intervening in Korea without Congressional approval, President Eisenhower probably felt he had to clear his position with Congress now in case future developments required similar action.

"But the greatest danger is not so much armed Soviet aggression as the inner conflicts, poverty and instability in the Middle East itself," my Indian friend replied.

We agreed that the only sound way to "fill a vacuum" was to create the political, social and economic conditions that give the people something worth fighting and if necessary dying for — the kind of democratic and economic strength which India is trying to build on this important subcontinent.

Urged to Give Leadership.

I have long urged Indians to give leadership in getting at the roots of the Middle Eastern difficulties—to help promote democratic regional development and to bring their considerable influence to bear to ease the tensions between Arab states and Israel, to assure access to the oil and free passage through the canal.

Their answer is that they would like to, but that their conflict with Pakistan makes it impossible for them to take any action that Pakistan might use to turn the Muslim world against India. If India and Pakistan, or all the "Colombo Powers," which include Indonesia, Burma and Ceylon, could agree on a proposed Middle Eastern settlement, the Indians say they would do all in their power to promote it. Let us hope that the renewed conflict over Kashmir in the United Nations does not make this even more difficult.

Against the background of this conflict between these two neighbors, our military aid to Pakistan is causing grave misgivings here. When we build up Pakistan's military forces, the Indians feel it necessary to divert more of their own scarce funds from economic development into the purchase of arms.

This question, along with the questions concerning this whole area's attitude towards Russia and China, I want to study further here and in Pakistan, for the problems of this region are as complex as they are crucial.

Who's Who On Bowles

CHESTER BOWLES is one of the foremost Democratic spokesmen on American foreign policy. After a successful career in advertising, he turned to politics in his home state of Connecticut. He was a Roosevelt elector in 1940 and held various high positions in the Roosevelt New Deal administrations. A former governor of Connecticut (1949-1951), he was President Truman's ambassador to India and Nepal (1951-1953). He has made many public speeches and written several books in the field of foreign policy. He will be 56 years old in April.

Eisenhower Standing Pat on Cabinet; Has Made Only 3 Changes Since '52

Only One Shift on Security Council — Several in Diplomatic Positions.

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER carried into his second administration a White House, Cabinet, and National Security Council "team" very little changed from January of four years ago.

Like most of his predecessors, Mr. Eisenhower has assumed that his second presidential election was a mandate for continuity, and therefore has rejected almost all the major resignations which automatically reach his desk at the end of a first term.

There have been no changes in the statutory Cabinet since the election and only three in the last four years. The general feeling here is that these three have strengthened the President's official family. They are:

2. Marion B. Folsom replacing Oveta Culp Hobby as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

3. Fred A. Seaton, replacing Douglas McKay as Secretary of the Interior.

State Dept. Changes.

Since the November election, there have been more changes in the personnel of foreign affairs than any other. Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts has been selected to replace Herbert Hoover Jr. as Under Secretary of State—a job originally held in the first Eisenhower Administration by Gen. Walter Bedell Smith.

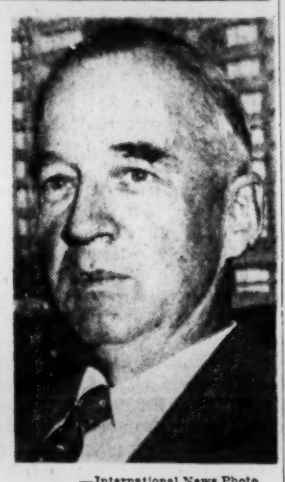

C. Douglas Dillon, United States ambassador to France, has been appointed Deputy Under Secretary of State for economic affairs in place of Herbert V. Prochnow, now resigned.

The only change in the National Security Council, which is the President's principal committee for recommending policy in the field of national security, was brought about by the resignation of Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, who is returning to his post as president of Ohio Wesleyan University. His successor has not been chosen.

Dillon Anderson, who was special assistant to the President for national security affairs and as such the principal administrative officer of the National Security Council, has resigned. He has been replaced by the man who originally held the post under Mr. Eisenhower in January of 1952—Gen. Robert Cutler of Boston.

Changes have been made since the election in the major diplomatic posts in London, Paris, Rome, Tokyo, and New Delhi, and quite a few others are under consideration in other United States embassies, but elsewhere in the Government the President has kept the team very much as before.

For example, the principal officers in the White House and in the other principal arms of the presidency remain the same. The assistant to the President, Sherman Adams, remains the key link between the Chief Executive and the departments of the Government. James C. Hagerty, the press secretary, and Andrew J. Goodpaster, the staff secretary, retain these key posts.

There has been some talk of bringing former Under Secretary of State Smith into the White House as an adviser to the President on foreign affairs, but for the present, this idea was on the shelf. Nor is there apparently an intention at the moment of replacing William H. Jackson of Princeton, N. J., who partly filled this post while also assuming important responsibilities in the National Security Council and the Operations Control Board. The latter is a committee formed to see that all departments carry out the recommendations of the NSC which are approved by the President.

Incidentally, while the idea of making Vice President Richard M. Nixon chairman of the OCB has drawn objections from the State Department—Gov. Herter will be chairman—this does not mean that Nixon will not assume larger responsibilities in the executive branch in the second term than he did in the first.

He will be available to represent as a member of the OCB whenever the President wants him to—C. D. Jackson, Nelson Rockefeller and William H. Jackson have represented Mr. Eisenhower there in the past—and when the President wants Nixon to see that some specific policy is carried out, he will be assigned the job.

One important change high in the government is the elevation of Under Secretary of Labor Arthur Larson to be head of the United States Information Agency. He is the man who wrote Mr. Eisenhower's acceptance speech at the Republican nominating convention at San Francisco and he has come up in the President's favor.

He will sit in all Cabinet,

Some Amazing Testimony by Dulles Friend

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.

IT attracted little attention, but Arthur Dean, law partner of John Foster Dulles, gave some amazingly frank testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Dean said it was known in advance that a Korean truce would release Red Chinese troops to attack French Indochina. Dean served for many months as Korean truce negotiator for the Eisenhower Administration.

Dean indicated to Senators that he was under pressure from his law partner, Secretary of State Dulles, to get the Korean armistice signed.

Here are the salient parts of his testimony:

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, asked: "Did I understand you to say that the Communists wanted an armistice in Korea, or accepted one, in order to be free to move into Indochina?"

Dean: "From an examination of the data and from an examination of the evidence, that is my personal opinion."

Got Reports on Indochina.

Humphrey: "Was that a matter of discussion at the time you went to Korea? Did you ever hear any of our military officers comment on this? Did they have similar thoughts?"

Dean: "When I was there the latter part of June, 1954, we used to get the reports of what happened to the French in Dien Bien Phu and what Ho Chi-minh was doing and the types of supplies he was getting from the Communists. It seems rather logical that they were able to divert a large amount of military supplies that they otherwise would have used in the war in Korea down to the Burma border, and were able to help Ho Chi-minh . . . I don't think there was any question that they were very anxious to get the armistice."

Senator Symington (Dem.), Missouri, asked how Dean happened to be going to Korea with his former law partner.

Detaching His Friends Could Cut Nasser to Size, Nutting Believes

By ANTHONY NUTTING

(LAST OF SIX ARTICLES)

I AM convinced that President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt can be cut down to size if we go the right way about it. We did it with Mossadegh in Iran and he was no less tough a nut than Nasser. True, Mossadegh had not the dreams of empire that Nasser has, but a desire for empire-building does not of itself bring strength. On the contrary, it is one of Nasser's weaknesses—for his intrigues against his neighbors and his smash and grab policy towards the West has created much bitterness and suspicion between him and his Arab brothers, and shaken rather than strengthened his system of alliances.

If we want to reduce Nasser to the ranks of ex-Prime Ministers, we must concentrate on detaching his friends and not on attacking him by frontal assault.

In my dealings with him, Nasser struck me as a man of iron nerve, ruthless and ambitious but greatly lacking in political judgment. Often in my negotiations with him over the Suez base, he would tell me how little popular position he had with the masses and how much he depended on the army. There was a lot of truth in this; and the tragedy is that far from reducing Nasser's stature, we have lately increased it by placing on his swollen head the twin crowns of martyrdom and heroism.

By the failures of British and American policy, he can now claim to have fought Israel to a draw until the Western imperialists stabbed him in the back; to have defeated the British-French invasion with the aid of the United Nations, and to have obtained at one and the same time the sympathy of the United States and the support of Russia. Smart work! And the Arab masses believe it.

Would Welcome Fall.

Nevertheless, almost every Arab ruler, including King Saud, would welcome his fall. As the rows over the intrigues of Egyptian officers in Saudi Arabia showed before the Suez crisis, there is much bad blood to be made between these uneasy allies. It would not take too much to detach Saudi Arabia from the Egyptian maw.

It would require three things. First, settlement of the dispute with Britain over Buraimi. Second, the promotion of the already growing rapprochement between King Saud and King Faisal of Iraq. And third, the positive achievement of the fertile crescent and the elimination of Syria as a threat to Jordan and, thence, to Saudi Arabia.

None of these things is impossible. All of them are necessary if we are to neutralize the threat of Nasser and his Soviet sponsors. An empire-builder with no empire cuts a contemptible figure on the world stage. I doubt that Nasser could long survive the detachment of his present allies and the destruction of his future hopes.

Meanwhile we have to get the best settlement we can of the Suez Canal problem. Before the Israeli attack on Egypt, a basis of negotiation had been established in the U.N. I am no prophet, but my belief is that we could get Egypt to accept an agreement whereby a users' association collected its members' canal dues and so held the purse strings, without prejudice to the sovereignty of Egypt as local landlord.

Possibility of Deal.

I do not think it impossible either to get Israeli ships and cargoes accepted as part of the deal. Previously, the Arab League has insisted that this issue cannot be settled in advance of a general settlement. With strong U.N. pressure we might be able to pry these problems apart. But we are merely fooling ourselves if we think it possible to do more towards an Israeli settlement right now.

The Suez crisis has unhappily set back by several years any hope of getting an Arab-Israel settlement. We must allow Arab passions to cool before we broach this thorny problem. Meanwhile, we should build up the U.N. force now in Egypt and get it onto the frontiers of Israel where it can be a buffer against attack from either side. This is the only good which the ill-wind of Suez has blown us. We must not let it perish through cynicism and neglect.

BRITAIN MAY SEEK U.S. MISSILES AS ATOM DATA PRICE

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Three newspapers predicted today that Britain will offer next week to trade the secrets of its nuclear weapons research for supplies of United States guided missiles.

The News Chronicle, Daily Herald and Daily Express said this is the main purpose of Defense Minister Duncan Sandys's flying trip to the United States next weekend.

"He will not as has been hinted, be going cap-in-hand," declared the News Chronicle. "He will negotiate through strength. For Britain is far ahead of the United States in nuclear research for war as well as for peaceful purposes.

"Our scientists know—and American scientists have acknowledged—that their still-secret weapon projects will outclass anything the United States forces have.

"But Britain lags when it comes to production. The manpower and money needed to speed up these projects are so great that Britain cannot produce them quickly enough if she must also face the burden of more conventional weapons and forces."

MOROCCO TRIBES SUPPORTING REBEL CHIEF SEIZE ROADS

RABAT, Morocco, Jan. 21 (AP)—From 2000 to 3000 armed Berber tribesmen, supporting a defiant provincial governor, were reported today in control of two main highways leading into the province from this capital.

Elements of the Royal Moroccan Army, supported by armored vehicles, were in the area, but no engagement has been reported.

The governor, Addi Ou Bihi, was deposed earlier today by the palace in Rabat and replaced by Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef's top military aide. But the replacement, Maj. Ben Larbi, was unable to get to his post.

The brown-robed tribesmen from the Atlas mountains were said to be in position between Midelt, principal city of the Tafilalet province, and Itzer, at the northern boundary of the province.

The rebellious governor, Addi Ou Bihi, refused to take orders from the central government dominated by the Istiqlal (independence) party. He locked up a judge and police assigned to the province by the government.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Additions to the Senate

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Periodically the American people become concerned about the lack of institutional arrangements in our governmental system for utilizing the unique experience and capacities of former Presidents.

In recent years, this concern has been reflected in proposals, which we indorse, that these elder statesmen be given the privilege of serving in the United States Senate as Senators-at-large for life.

At the same time, many Americans have been increasingly troubled by the fact that our existing machinery of government makes no provision for using the talents and national prestige of the most recent runner-up candidate for President.

During the past two decades, occasional attempts have been made to remedy this anachronism by asking the losing candidate to serve as Presidential emissary on a good-will tour abroad, or, reportedly, to serve on the United States delegation to the United Nations. But these generous offers have necessarily been very limited in scope, and hence ineffectual.

Moreover, they raise very difficult problems of relationship between the man elected President and the defeated opponent.

We propose, therefore, that the runner-up candidate for President also be given the opportunity to serve in the Senate as a Senator-at-large for the four-year period following the Presidential election. This would give the runner-up an effective and helpful voice in the nation's councils.

We believe that both former Presidents and the most recent runner-up candidate who would serve in the Senate under this proposal should be entitled to all rights, privileges, compensation and allowances of regular Senators except that they should not be given a voice in the organization of the Senate and the appointment of committees.

These new Senators-at-large, in sum, will contribute to the Senate and thus to the nation the unique knowledge and experience of the ex-Presidents, and the responsible criticism of the most recent national campaign spokesman of the opposition party.

Believing that these are objectives worth the support of all Americans, we urge that the Congress consider and formally propose to the States at the coming session a constitutional amendment along these lines.

Legislated Out of Business

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

On Feb. 1, the I.C.C. will have to enforce a law which has been passed prohibiting "trip leasing" of trucks from owner-operators. The new regulation provides that trucks must be leased for a minimum of 30 days.

For 11 years we have been in this business. Our small savings from the Army and much hard work went into it. Now we find we not only are going to be without a job — we couldn't even give our trucks away.

And not a soul interested!!

We feel we are being unjustly discriminated against; in fact, that our rights of enterprise are being denied us. MARY M. KRUZICK.

When Diplomacy Fails . . .

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It takes two to make peace but only one to wage war. The American people are beginning to awaken to this fact. They have dreamed of peace by some magic charm and have not faced the fact that peace has a price and can only be maintained by paying the price.

We have accepted the idea that past wars could have been avoided if we had not been willing to fight. Past wars might indeed have been avoided if we had been stronger and wiser, but other alternatives would have meant slavery.

World War II followed our disarmament treaties of the '20s. The Korean War followed reduced arms expenditures after World War II because it was said our economy could not stand the cost of adequate defense.

Following the Korean war we have again reduced arms expenditures in the face of increased Russian arms appropriations. This is being reflected in diplomatic reverses. Wars occur when diplomacy fails. The stage has been set for the third world war. JOSIAH SIBLEY.

Labor-Spending Machine

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I could not help but notice how wonderful the "machine age" has turned out to be as I came through Forest Park the other morning.

Just a few years ago when a tree had to be cut down they would send out two men with an ax to cut it down and cart it away.

This morning I saw them at work cutting down a tree. There were six men and a foreman. The six men handled the mechanized gas-powered chain-saw and then a gas-powered lift picked up the cord and put it in a truck.

This took only 10 men to do what two men used to do before the wonderful "machine age."

O Tempora!
JAMES F. LAUGHLIN.

For the World's Peace

The break in congressional hearings, occasioned by the inauguration of Mr. Eisenhower for a second term, provides an opportunity to review the situation with respect to the White House's request for a Middle East standby resolution.

More than two weeks have passed since President Eisenhower went in person to Capitol Hill to pledge economic aid to the Middle East and, in the event of Communist aggression, the use of United States military forces if deemed necessary.

In the intervening fortnight, Secretary of State Dulles has appeared before the committees of both House and Senate that deal with foreign affairs. In the Senate the leadership showed the excellent judgment of having the important Armed Services Committee sit with the Foreign Relations Committee.

In addition to the head of the Department of State, the congressional committees are hearing outstanding military leaders. Adm. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the House committee that passage of the proposed Middle East resolution would "practically eliminate the chances of war" in that area. Gen. Gruenther, recently retired after a distinguished military career which culminated in his command of NATO forces, described the President's program as necessary to halt Soviet troublemaking. He said that unless the Kremlin's tactics were challenged, the free world, including the United States, will pay a cost beyond measure.

This delineation explains why an outstanding Democrat such as Speaker Rayburn is giving the President full support. To split the resolution into parts and thus separate economic assistance from a declaration of standby military intent would be to weaken the President's proposal in the eyes of the world.

Already the Communists have begun their propaganda warfare at the Middle East target. The manifesto of Premier Bulganin and Chou En-lai on behalf of the Soviet Union and Red China respectively "condemns" American policy in that area. Its obvious purpose to try to fix the imperialist tag on the United States, nonsensical as that would be.

Our proper course is just what it was before the Bulganin-Chou communique. It is to proceed carefully, wisely and firmly to develop a strong policy that may well prove decisive in working out this serious international problem.

The Post-Dispatch view of this situation can be simply stated. We regard the Communist threat to the Middle East as a potential threat to the peace of the world. We believe that the United States must have an adequate, well-defined policy to cope with that threat. We see in the President's request a means for deterring the penetration that otherwise might take place.

Since the White House makes a most serious request of Congress, the members of the appropriate committees are doing what they should do when they hear the witnesses and discuss the issues and the means with them earnestly and responsibly. After that will come the time to serve notice that the United States means business when it says it supports peace in the world.

If a Flag Is Wanted

With no College of Heralds to guide them, the Freeholders may have their troubles if they get deeper into the redesigning of municipal symbols. With the city seal being eyed askance, City Art Museum Director Charles Nagel came to its defense, suggesting it would be far better if the Freeholders gave St. Louis a new flag.

Since history and tradition are even more important than sheer beauty where emblems are concerned, the flag is more vulnerable than the seal. It is not nearly as old. And if one follows Mr. Nagel's logic that the flag should more nearly represent the city's origins, one is reminded that there is an orphan flag, and a handsome one, available for adoption. This, of course, is the old French lily-banner, the flag of St. Louis the King, which was supplanted by the Revolutionary tricolor.

Covered with golden fleurs-de-lis, it not only has the advantage of singular beauty but comes complete with a fine anthem by Master Francis Villon by way of "The Vagabond King." Oh, the words would have to be doctored a bit since there is no enmity between St. Louis and Burgundy, but there is nothing wrong with the martial air of "Forward, forward the lily banners go." In fact, they are Municipal Opera favorites.

But please do not get the idea that we are making recommendations. The problem is strictly for the Freeholders.

Hidden Under the Billions

The size of President Eisenhower's new budget shocked many people, including the Cabinet member responsible for explaining it, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. How many more people would be shocked if they knew that the summaries which the general public saw actually understated the true figures?

How many people know that Government outlays projected for the 1957-58 fiscal year are not the generally announced figure of 71.8 billion dollars, which seemed quite high, but actually 82.9 billions instead?

This 11-billion-dollar understatement, amounting to a hefty 14 per cent of the nominal total, comes about as the result of a tricky little business known as trust fund accounts. Social security taxes, payments into the railroad retirement fund, and the proceeds of special taxes levied to finance the 13-year highway program go into special trust funds instead of into the Treasury's big hopper. Likewise payments for social security retirement benefits, unemployment compensation, railroad pensions and the new highway program come out of the special funds instead of from general taxation.

So far so good. But why should not these transactions show up in the summaries of the budget which are all that most of the public sees? There is no good reason so far as we can see. A Government expenditure is a Government expenditure, no matter how it is financed, and the public ought to be told what all of the expenditures, as well as all of the revenues, amount to.

There might have been some excuse for segregating these expenditures so long as they referred only to social security. A social security retirement benefit is not an optional Government expenditure, but a property right which a person has earned by payments into the trust fund.

But we can see no excuse whatever for failing to list highway expenditures simply because under the new program they will be paid for by specially earmarked taxes. And it will become increasingly important to list them as the program grows year by year.

For the next fiscal year, the "regular" budget figures given to the general public showed non-military expenditures of around 28.5 billion dollars. However, the trust fund account shows highway expenditures of 1.7 billion additional. This in itself may be an understatement, for estimates published at the time the highway act was passed last year put the 1958 expenditures at 2.5 billion. In any case it is clear that the budget "total" used by the President in his message is not an accurate total—not by a long shot. We hope future budgets will put all the expenditures in one basket. The people are entitled to know the worst.

The Key to Home Rule

If St. Louisans ever are to enjoy "home rule" over their school system and over their "county" level of government, they will need plenty of help from the Missouri Legislature.

Home rule for the school system could be achieved with a simple act of the General Assembly permitting the School Board to organize its administration in whatever manner it deems necessary.

As things stand now the state requires the St. Louis system to support a cumbersome and costly overhead that includes four independent executive departments—instruction, building, finance and auditing, not to mention a captive architectural office. This is needlessly expensive. Every dollar put into it is a dollar that might be used to improve education.

Home rule for the city's "county" layer of government will require amendment of the State Constitution. The Missouri Supreme Court ruling that the city enjoys home rule only over its municipal government—not its "county" offices—makes this clear enough. A Constitutional amendment spelling out the city's authority over these offices ought to be adopted in the Legislature and submitted to the people.

Unhappily, it is much easier to talk about these needs than it is to get action on them. The key to home rule is the city's delegation to the House and Senate. In the past these legislators have been dominated by politicians who have a special interest in things as they are—that is, in the patronage in the county layer of government and in the School Board's building department.

Even so, the picture is not completely bleak. At least a few important labor leaders realize that educational opportunities are being limited under the present system. If they could persuade the leaders of the Building Trades Council to go along with them, home rule over the schools might arrive.

As for the "county offices," they are no longer exclusively a protectorate of the city's legislative delegation. The St. Louis county legislators have a right to demand the most efficient government operation possible in St. Louis on the basis that those of their constituents who work in the city contribute to its support through the earnings tax.

Good Sense on the Mansion

The voice of good sense made itself heard in the discussion of the Executive Mansion at Jefferson City when Charles Van Ravenswaay, director of the Missouri Historical Society, suggested that the building be remodeled and then permanently maintained in good condition.

Sympathetic as many Missourians are with Gov. Blair's reluctance to move into the Mansion as it stands, they cannot forget that here is a fine and distinguished structure which ought to be preserved and ought to be used.

It is shocking to learn how years of neglect have made the Mansion so uncomfortable and unsuited to modern living. But every one of the defects can be corrected by intelligent rehabilitation, and the result would be a home in which Gov. Blair and his successors would be proud to live. The Mansion is too splendid an example of nineteenth-century architecture to be allowed to fall into decay.

Delaying a Needed Inquiry

A legalistic snarl is being woven around the investigation of possible labor-union irregularities by the Senate Government Operations subcommittee, the former McCarthy committee now headed by Senator McClellan of Arkansas.

Some witnesses have refused to answer questions on the ground that the investigators are exceeding their authority and are invading that of the Senate Labor Committee.

Senator McClellan insists that his group has a right to determine whether union officials filed false statements with federal agencies, avoided the payment of taxes and the like, and he hints that he may seek a judicial determination of the issue.

The jurisdictional dispute, if it may be so called, is unfortunate. But it would be far worse if repeated charges of the use of union funds for private purposes, notably in the case of Dave Beck and the Teamsters' union, were not fully aired. Union members themselves would be the worst victims.

So it is to the credit of George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, that he has pledged his co-operation in determining whether union officials have cheated the Government or formed underworld alliances.

Robert Kennedy, subcommittee counsel, said he received such a pledge directly from Mr. Meany, and that should mean that the AFL-CIO top leadership acknowledges the group's jurisdiction.

The facts must be brought out because that is the only way the public interest can be served.

Ever Since the Madisons

President Eisenhower's four inaugural balls show that, like everything else in our country, the inaugural ball is growing.

Early editions of this historic occasion were housed in saloons, and another famous general, Ulysses S. Grant, limited himself to one inaugural dance for each term, though the Grant inaugural balls were such as President Eisenhower could not expect—or wish—to equal.

At the first, space was so inadequate that dancing was impossible, women fainted, and many persons lost their wraps. Revelers stayed all night trying to find their coats and hats among the unclaimed.

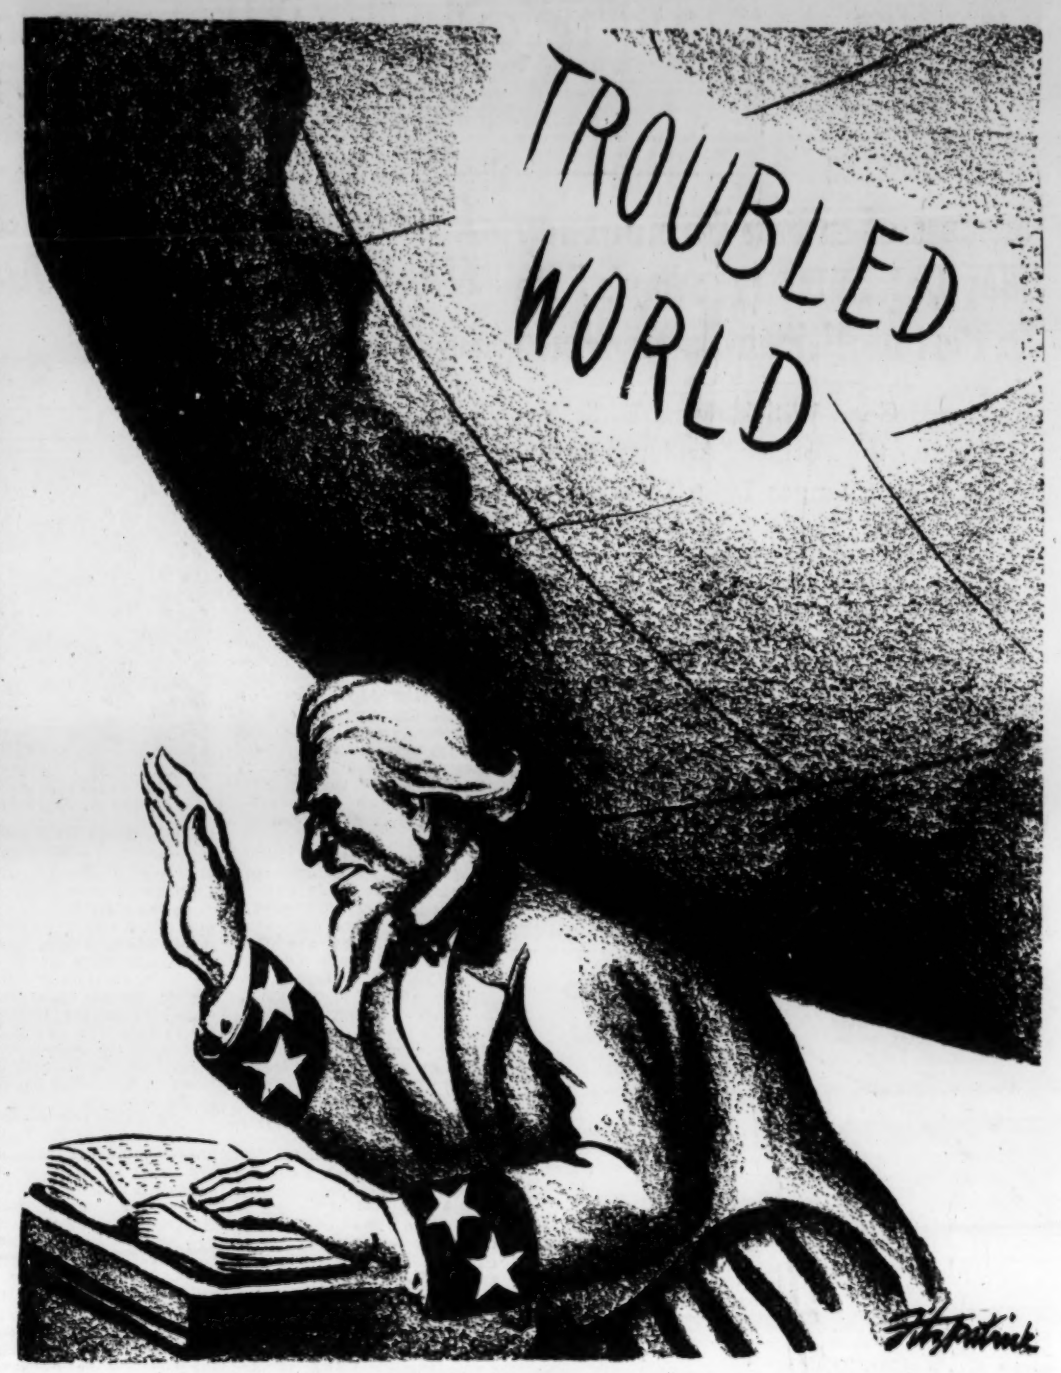

The second Grant inaugural ball was if anything more remarkable; tickets were $20, the hall was wooden and unheated, the temperature was zero, and the refreshments froze solid.

For that matter, crowding—which many present-day Washingtonians consider a peculiarly modern nuisance—has been going on since the first inaugural ball in Washington, when Dolly Madison swept in wearing a buff velvet gown and President James Madison wore silver buckles on his shoes. Guests were so crowded they knocked windows out for air, a bulletin of the National Geographic Society reminds us.

President James Buchanan's inaugural ball was more the one we would like to have attended. There were gold stars twinkling in a white ceiling. Guests ate 400 gallons of oysters, 75 hams, 125 tongues, 500 quarts of chicken salad, and 1200 quarts of ice cream. Thus fortified, they danced till morning.

There they are, all the inaugural balls of 148 years of our history, and the second Eisenhower inaugural going into the history books along with them.

Liberation via Neutralization

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Applying Austrian formula to Germany offers best hope of bringing about Soviet withdrawal from Eastern Europe, writer holds; united but disarmed reich would open way to full liberation at later date; Moscow driven toward such a solution.

James Burnham in the National Review

Eastern Europe, where the first two world wars had their origin, is the main axis of the struggle for the world. If the Communist hold on that deciding area is finally consolidated, then Communism will win world domination.

But if the Communist hold there is broken and Eastern Europe rescued for the West, Communism will fall in the end no matter what temporary advances it makes among the masses of Asia and Africa.

James Burnham

By what has happened in Austria, in East Germany, Poland and Hungary, we now know that Communist control in Central and Eastern Europe rests on, and only on, Soviet armed might.

If the Soviet troops get out of the now captive nations, and if there is a fair assurance that they will stay out, then these nations will move away from the Soviet-Communist orbit. The conclusion follows: the supreme present objective of Western policy should be to get the Soviet troops out of Central and Eastern Europe, as far back as the 1939 Soviet boundary.

'The Next Great Steps'

But the status quo in Eastern Europe is sealed by and rests on the division of Germany. For the Soviet troops to get out of Eastern Europe entails "a solution of the German problem"—that is, the reunification of East and West Germany, and a negotiated agreement among Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia on the East German (Oder-Neisse) boundary.

These, then, are the next great steps in the journey toward liberation and the defeat of the Communist plan of world conquest: the reunification of Germany, the negotiation of the East German boundary, the withdrawal of Soviet troops from East Germany and the captive nations.

But how could these steps be taken, granted the Western decision against a direct risk of war? Fortunately an actual test suggests the answer: by applying and generalizing "the Austrian formula."

That is, by the military neutralization of Central and Eastern Europe, including all Germany: withdrawing therefrom all Western along with all Soviet occupation troops, guaranteeing against their re-entry, and restricting the nations of the area to police and defensive armament.

Latent Fear of Germany

Neutralization is not only an obvious precondition for a Soviet agreement to withdraw. It is also required from the point of view of the East European nations themselves, in order to remove what they inevitably see as "the German threat."

A latent fear of a rearmed and aggressive Germany slows their movement away from Moscow, and even prompts a voluntary wish that Soviet troops remain. A German boundary settlement and military neutralization go integrally together.

The lead in a campaign for these objectives would have to be taken by Germany, backed presumably by the United States and preferably by all the major NATO powers. Several German measures would become immediately relevant, and it is significant that during the past three months Bonn has made tentative moves toward some of these, as if driven by the imperatives of the new fluid situation.

Unquestionably Bonn would have to reverse its established attitude toward the East German government. The West, by choice and by default, has ruled out a German reunification imposed by superior strength or war. Therefore, if reunification is to come by some other route, negotiation between East and West Germany cannot be avoided, whatever the formalities at stake.

In an additional drastic reversal, West Germany, with the NATO powers' consent, would have to be ready to give up its rearmament program within the NATO structure — provided, of course, that the objectives of reunification and Soviet withdrawal were attained. There is reason to believe that most Germans would accept this condition without any great regret.

Policy and Political Realties

The policy here proposed is not an abandonment of the general strategy of liberation (conceived as the means to counter the Communist threat of world conquest), but an application of that strategy to political realities and specifically to the fluid condition arising from the break in the seven year stabilization of the European front.

If this policy were successful, then the captive European nations (outside the 1939 Soviet boundary) would have been partially liberated, however Communist their governments in the first stage. As Hungary proves in reverse, they would be in a position incomparably more favorable than at present for completing the transition to full liberation.

The West would have a chance to reconstitute Europe, which does not exist under the present division.

But why should the Communists accept a proposal from which the West gains and they lose? In the first place, the loss is from their point of view neither unmixed nor irrecoverable.

Under the proposal, the Soviet Union would be insured, at least for a period, against a German military threat of which Russians are always aware. On the western Soviet border there would be a line of nations which, if they did not remain friendly or docile, would be unable to do direct military harm. Central and Eastern Europe would become for a period a buffer zone.

Soviets in Grave Trouble

The chance of a general nuclear war (which the Kremlin knows that it would be sure to lose) would be still further diminished. Along with a greater freedom of maneuver in non-European parts of the world, Moscow might hope to get a badly needed moral credit.

Such real or seeming factors would sweeten the withdrawal. However, the chief reason for thinking that Moscow might accept the combined proposal rests on the fact that the Soviet Union is in trouble, grave trouble, first of all in Eastern Europe but inside the home boundaries as well.

The Kremlin's failure to solve the problems of the succession following Stalin's death has badly cracked its internal structure. The Soviet Union is over-extended, economically, politically and militarily. It needs to shorten its lines, literally as well as figuratively; to draw back in the hope of recuperating for wider thrusts tomorrow.

An Optical Illusion

"Mirage" is king-size in everything except taste. This dream of the Nile apparently has been conjured up by desire—for the fleshpots of Egypt, Mammon and De Mille. Never was any fiction more obvious, nor obviously aimed at the movie lots.

If mush can have enough body to have a plot, here's "Mirage"—Remi follows Napoleon and his golden girl, Corrinne, to the Egyptian adventure of Bonaparte. "The Lady of Zennoobeh, the beautiful young princess of Egypt, is dazzled by his smile and his good looks. Corrinne Rouvroy, the golden-haired reigning beauty of Paris, finds in him a suitor whose ardor has had no equal in her experience." And that "experience" is wide, if not handsome.

Miss McKenney, who has written amusingly of her sister Eileen and staged "The Loud Red Patrick" to Broadway plaudits, introduces her novel with its own epitaph. She quotes from Webster's International: "Mirage: an optical illusion, in its extended sense applies to a dream, a hope, or the like, which one accepts as true, not realizing it is an illusion." A bad dream, yes, with only the illusion of a diseased imagination. COLLIER FORD.

It Pays to Be Funny

Prof. Settel has succeeded in corraling the cream of NBC and CBS comics under one roof but an evaluation of their net worth depends on the brand of jokes you prefer. Among the luminaries represented in the laughter field are Jack Benny, Danny Thomas, Gary Moore, Martha Raye, Sam Levenson, Steve Allen, Ozzie Nelson and Perry Como. Recognizing that it's difficult to be sparkling each and every week, the author has selected the choicest comedy scripts.

This book will not be of especial interest to the general public. It is important, however, to would-be gag-writers, students of television, collectors of humor and fans of the individual comics. Behind each mirth-maker on TV is a crew of gag or comedy writers, as they prefer to be called. Perhaps the best known of this fraternity is Goodman Ace, who earns a reported $9000 per week for injecting laughs into the Perry Como Show.

The complete humor writing technique is unfolded in this volume, ranging from situation comedy to variety show and descending to the depths of the pun. Also the more sophisticated satire is evident. A short biography of the stars explains how they reached the golden heights. Conspicuous by his absence is Sgt. Bilko (Phil Silvers) whose "You'll Never Get Rich" has captured many awards.

JACK BERNSTEIN.

A Drive Down the Fairway

THE GOLFER'S OWN BOOK, edited by Dave Stanley and George G. Ross. (Lantern Press, Inc., New York, 342 pgs., $4.95.)

Here's something of interest for everyone who likes golf and quite a lot for anyone who wants to improve his—or her—game. There are chapters of "how-to" on the proper grip, stance, swing and all phases of play by such big-time pros as Bobby Jones, Carey Middlecoff, Johnny Revolta, Byron Nelson and others. The incomparable "Babe" Zaharias encourages women to concentrate on their short game and let the drives fall where they may; there is information about the cost of golf, etiquette and rules, municipal courses, country clubs, and an explanation of the mysteries of handicapping. P. G. Wodehouse, Paul Gallico and other sports and fun writers take a crack at the elusive gutta-percha and just about anything you want to know about golf is covered in one way or another. Some of the pros play better than they write, which, perhaps, is not surprising.

Why Eisenhower Budget Is So Big

WASHINGTON.

LOOKING AT THE BIG BUDGET which the President has just submitted to Congress, the obvious question is why with Mr. Eisenhower in the White House, with a stalwart like George Humphrey in the Treasury federal spending has risen so much.

There can be no doubt about what Mr. Eisenhower meant to do when he took office four years ago. He promised then that in two years he would reduce the last Truman budget, which reflected the Korean war and rearmament, down to sixty billions, a reduction of some fourteen billions, and he certainly hoped that the reduction would "steadily continue." In his first two years he did reduce expenditures by some ten billions, mainly by savings on national defense. But since then he has felt he had to ask for more and more money. The new estimates are not much below the high Truman budget of 1953 and, if expenditures for federal highways are included, they are higher by nine billions than the first Eisenhower budget.

Humphrey

The bulk of the increase is for defense. But there is a not insignificant increase of three billions in what are called "civil benefits," a term which covers the veterans, agriculture, housing and natural resources.

What Would Humphrey Do?

All this has happened under Eisenhower and Humphrey, and in the face of an Eisenhower landslide, which removes any need to bid for votes. Secretary Humphrey makes no bones about his personal unhappiness at the size of the expenditure. What, if he had had his way and not been overruled by the President, would he have done to reduce the budget?

He has not said plainly what he would have done. But reading between the lines, it appears that he would have altered our present military policy on the one hand, and on the other, he would have resisted sternly the various demands for federal aid.

In the military establishment he would, it appears, have concentrated on the new big strategic armaments, and he would then have made substantial economies in the conventional sea and ground forces.

Against Welfare State.

This would mean an establishment designed to deal only with overt Russian aggression, but unprepared to do much about local and limited disorders.

In the field of "civil benefits," he would have fought off the advance of the welfare state.

In other words, the substantial reduction in the Eisenhower budget, which Mr. Humphrey regards as so necessary to our economic health, could not be made without fundamental changes in policy.

It would mean a change in the Eisenhower foreign policy, which is one of containment on a global scale, and requires the support of conventional forces. It would mean an abandonment of the Eisenhower domestic policy, at least that part of it which is called the New Republicanism.

For the new budget is big because of the big policies to which the President has committed himself.

Growth in Population.

Yet, apart from the various items which of course need to be scrutinized by Congress, is it fair to measure the over-all size of the 1958 budget by the smaller size of previous budgets?

Since the Eisenhower Administration came to power in 1953 the population of the United States has increased by 10,000,000 persons. This country is, in fact, having an explosive expansion of its population. The labor force has increased by about 5,000,000.

The total national production is larger by more than $50,000,000,000. Surely the President is right in saying in his message that "the budget must also reflect the general responsibilities of government which will be serving 172,000,000 persons in the fiscal year 1958."

Compared not with other budgets but with the growth of the nation and of the economy, the present expenditures have not increased even proportionately.

Cost of City Living.

Short of a miracle, that is to say a peace settlement of the cold war, it is vain to expect expenditures to be drastically reduced. These big expenditures reflect the two basic facts—that the population is growing prodigiously, and that there is a race of armaments proceeding at a rapid rate.

The prospects are that growth of the American population will require increased government spending. For when the population grows and becomes concentrated in the great metropolitan centers, the need for public expenditure is bound to rise.

Masses of people living in cities and in suburbs need all manner of public works and facilities which are not necessary when they live in country villages.

We speak of the American way of life. In a material sense we have a rapidly expanding population with a way of life which is new in our generation. This great human change is reflected in all the governmental budgets, federal, state and local; throughout the land.

THREE SYMPHONY RECORDS INTRODUCED

Party Celebrates Release of Columbia Disks Under Golschmann's Direction.

Three new St. Louis Symphony Orchestra recordings made last spring at the St. Louis House, 2345 Lafayette avenue, were introduced last night at a party attended by 225 persons at the St. Louis House.

The occasion was a preview to celebrate nation-wide release of the recordings, made under direction of Vladimir Golschman, conductor, on the Columbia Records Masterworks label and advertised as having the "St. Louis Sound."

Golschmann, members of the orchestra, Columbia Records officials and others were guests of Morton D. May, president of May Department Stores Co. and chairman of the symphony's music committee.

Excerpts of St. Louis Symphony recordings made in previous years in Kiel Auditorium Opera House were played for comparison with the new records, which were made at St. Louis House, an old structure, because it was thought to have superior acoustical qualities.

The three new long-play records are: Shostakovich's Symphony No. 1, with Kabalevsky's "Colas Breugnon Suite, Opus 24"; Debussy's "La Mer" and Ravel's "La Valse" and "Valses Noble et Sentimentales," and Golschmann's arrangment of "The Romantic Music of Chopin," coupled with "Rossiniana" by Respighi.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker cut a large cake shaped like a double bass. He spoke briefly, praising the orchestra's contribution to St. Louis and observing that the wide dissemination of records made by the orchestra had the effect of extending its influence over the world.

Present for the occasion were David Oppenheim, director of artists and repertory for the Masterworks label, Mitch Miller, director of popular artists, and other Columbia officials.

Mrs. Eisenhower Fights Back Tears Of Pride as President Is Sworn In

She Watches Ceremony Intently, Then Joins Her Husband in Waving to Crowd.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (UP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, fighting back tears, proudly watched her husband inaugurated today to his second term as President of the United States.

She never took her eyes from her husband's face as he repeated the oath after Chief Justice Earl Warren.

As the President Concluded, "So help me, God," she swallowed hard to keep back her tears.

She wore a heavy mink coat over her new violet inaugural suit, and sported a perky violet taffeta cloche hat atop her famous bangs.

Mrs. Eisenhower listened intently to her husband's inaugural speech that followed the oath-taking. Soon her happy smile was back in place.

After the applause for the speech had faded, she joined the President and Vice President and Mrs. Nixon at the railing for a cheerful wave to the crowd.

Mrs. Nixon wore a handsome fitted coat of black Afghan lamb, made from pelts given her by the Queen of Aghanistan during the Nixons' tour of Asia. Her rose-red ostrich hat, matching the new suit under her coat, ruffled in the gusts of wind.

Next to Mrs. Nixon sat Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, then the President's son, Maj. John S. Eisenhower; his wife, Barbara, and their three children, Barbara Anne, 7; Susan, 4, and David, 8.

Baby is Absent.

Missing from the family gathering was the youngest Eisenhower grandchild, 13-month-old Mary Jean Eisenhower. She was left behind at the White House today, but stole a march on bigwigs in the nation by witnessing her grandfather's private swearing-in at the White House yesterday. For that, she was held in the arms of Deloris Moaney, wife of presidential valet John Moaney.

It was at her grandparents' insistence that Mary Jean—all dressed up in a new yellow dress—saw the ceremony yesterday. They argued that even if she didn't remember it, she would be able to say in the future that she was there.

Then she retreated to her nap on the third floor soon after the White House ceremony, while her sisters and the two Nixon girls arranged their own little party away from the adults. David maneuvered in the White House playroom with "darn near a corps" of miniature West Point soldiers.

Nixon Girls Remain.

"Now, don't you worry," Mrs. Eisenhower told them. "When they get tired we'll send them home."

By the Associated Press.

Mrs. Eisenhower did a quick costume change yesterday from church-going attire to a special black taffeta dress for the private oath-taking ceremony.

She wore a two-piece black gabardine suit with pleated skirt, topped by a silver mink stole for the 9 a.m. appearance with the President at the National Presbyterian Church.

When the presidential party returned to the White House after the hour-long church service, Mrs. Eisenhower within half an hour switched to the V-neckline black taffeta, designed by Jonai of New York. With it she wore a three-strand pearl choker which she wore to the 1953 inaugural.

Mrs. Nixon had no chance to switch from the two-piece green wool suit and white fur beret she wore to church. Mrs. Nixon also wore, for the first time, a princess style coat of black lamb made from pelts given her by the Queen of Afghanistan.

Eyewitness Account.

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1957.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, gave reporters an eyewitness account of what went on in the White House.

Hagerty started with a description of what the President and the Vice President wore. This was easy. Short morning coat, striped pants, homburg hat.

Then Hagerty plunged bravely into a description of what Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Nixon wore.

After that he went on, "the Nixon children, Patricia and Julie, were there," Hagerty said.

"Patricia wore—"

One reporter interrupted at this point and said, "Isn't this going too far, Jim?"

Hagerty squared his pugnacious jaw and said: "I wrote 'em down and you're going to get 'em."

There followed a description of the children's clothing.

MRS. ALVINA SCHATTGEN DIES

RECORD 2,947,000 COLLEGE STUDENTS ENROLLED IN FALL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) —A record 2,947,000 students enrolled in United States colleges, the Government announced today.

Lawrence G. Dethick, Commissioner of Education, said total enrollment, already 10 per cent above last year's previous high, are expected to reach 3,250,000 with additional entries during the year. The fall enrollment survey of 1852 institutions of higher education showed an increase for the fifth consecutive year in nearly all categories.

Some highlights of the report:

The number enrolling for the first time in a college or university reached a record 723,000 —7.1 per cent above first time enrollment in 1955 and 53.2 per cent more than in 1951.

Teachers colleges enrolled 13.5 per cent more than in 1955, technological schools 13.4 per cent more and theological schools 2.3 per cent more. However, theological schools showed a 5.5 per cent decrease in first-time enrollments, technical schools a 14.4 per cent increase.

The University of California led the field in total enrollments with 40,788 on all campuses, excluding extension work.

Buds Hold Falstaffs to 136-Pin Lead in National Meet

FREE THROWS

by Robert Morrison

Word From the Wise.

BECAUSE of the schedule, Guy Lewis and his Houston University team have been around more in Missouri Valley Conference action than any other team so far, so the coach was in good position to make a prediction and give a warning.

"Wichita, Oklahoma A.&M. and St. Louis still figure as contenders with Bradley," he said.

Lewis gave some good reasons. Significantly he pointed out that the Bradley schedule will require the Braves to go down the late-February and early-March stretch in away-from-home games against St. Louis, Houston, Detroit and Wichita.

The Bradley team, currently enjoying a 5-0 start in the 14-game conference schedule, thus could run into trouble in a hurry.

"And don't forget it still has to play at Drake where it frequently has had difficulty," Lewis added.

Another factor includes Oklahoma A.&M. in Lewis's reckoning. That is the Aggies will pick up two experienced players in the second semester and could suddenly become much tougher.

The additions for the Aggies are 6-6 center Henry Kemple and senior Ron Fisher, and they'll be playing in the Aggies' next start, against Wichita Thursday.

"Hank Iba wasn't getting enough help out of his big boys who are sophomores," Lewis said, "and Kemple really will help the Aggies. You can't count A.&M. out of the race."

As for Wichita, Lewis had to count the Shockers in title contention. They had beaten his Houston team twice, before and after Houston defeated A.&M.

St. Louis U. has the first of its traditionally tough games with the Aggies at Stillwater Jan. 29—a week from tomorrow night. The Billikens, whose semester examinations run through this week, will play their next game Saturday night, facing Tulsa at Kiel Auditorium.

Other league contests this week have Tulsa at Bradley tonight and Drake at Wichita Saturday. Washington U. has a Wednesday night game at the Field House with Centenary and then doesn't play again until Feb. 4 here against Iowa.

Pro and Amateur.

WHERE will the National Basketball Association go when it expands? Fort Wayne already has indicated its eye is on Detroit. . . . Louisville and Baltimore have excellent chances of coming into the league in the next couple of years, it's reported. . . . Philadelphia's EDDIE GOTTLIEB tells New York Post man Leonard Koppett that the inclusion of Los Angeles and San Francisco is an out-and-out certainty within five years. . . . In Pittsburgh, it's a question of time until a new building is put up.

The idea is presented that some owners would like to have six new teams come into the league at the same time so that added to the eight in operation now, there could be a two-league set-up as in baseball, with a minimum of interleague competition and a world series at the end of the season. . . . That certainly would give more definition to championship play than obtained in the two-division set-up which still permits six of eight teams to go into the playoffs and shoot for the top prize.

DON OHL, 6-3 Edwardsville sophomore on the University of Illinois team, was running sixth in the latest Big Ten scoring list with an 18-point average. . . . The Illini return to action Saturday night at Chicago Stadium against Notre Dame. . . . Charley Bellatti, Illinois publicity man, recalls that present Illinois teammates TED CAIAZZA of LaGrange and HARV SCHMIDT of Kankakee were fierce rivals only four years ago. . . . Their prep teams were rated first and second in Illinois prep basketball that season and when they met before 5000 fans at Joliet, Caiazza's LaGrange team won, 83-74, and went on to gain the state title as Caiazza scored 121 points in four state tournament games to establish a record that still stands.

St. Louis University's one-time freshman coach, BUDDY BREHMER, has bagged 200 victories in eight years with freshman and varsity teams. . . . Currently coach of the Rockhurst College (Kansas City) team, Brehmer got his 200th win a week ago. . . . That made his varsity record 90 and 42 at Rockhurst where Brehmer is in his fifth season. . . . His freshman team at Rockhurst had won 44 games and lost seven. . . . In three seasons at St. Louis U. (1949-50-51), Brehmer's Billiken freshmen won 66 and lost nine. . . . Brehmer was an East St. Louis Central Catholic product.

After almost 14 years of high-scoring basketball the 40 points produced by ANDY PHILLIP of the Whiz Kids stands as a one-game record for U. of Illinois players. . . . He scored 40 in a 92-25 Illini romp over Chicago in 1943.

Sanders Wins Title.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Jan. 21 (AP)—Doug Sanders of Cedartown, Ga., shot a sub-par 67 to win the Colombian open golf championship with a 72-hole score of 269. Sanders finished eight strokes ahead of Argentine Fidel De Lucca, who had a four-round total of 277.

Joe Conrad, former British amateur champion now playing as a pro from San Antonio, Tex., and Bob Wattson, also from the United States, each had final 73s to tie for third place at 279.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—Now that the Budweisers have run the gauntlet in Chicago, it is the Falstaffs' turn to try their luck on the Buds' new layout in St. Louis—the Bowl-Mor Lanes.

The Buds came out of their experience on the rugged Gateway Alleys in Chicago in fairly good shape, as they held the Falstaffs to a 136-pin victory in the first half of a 24-game duel for the National Team Match-Game bowling championship. The final 12 games will be shot at Bowl-Mor this Saturday and Sunday.

For the 12 games at Chicago the Falstaffs totaled 12,037 pins to the Buds' 11,901. That's an average of 1003 to 991. Total pin count for the 24 games will determine which team will take the title held by the Budweisers since last January.

Yesterday's games were the important ones for the St. Louis stars and they bowled like Champions. Falstaff got off to an uncertain start Saturday, despite the fact that the club had six weeks of practice at Gateway, but the Chicagoans did accumulate a lead of 51 pins in the first six games.

Buds Remain Cool.

Though the Budweisers naturally wouldn't make an estimate, it was generally felt that if they could hold the Falstaffs to a margin of a few hundred pins in Chicago the Buds could make up the difference next weekend. Thus, when the Buds stayed cool throughout several Falstaff outbursts yesterday and finished just 136 behind, it was a good day's work.

More than anything, the Budweisers' performance was a team affair as they pooled their talents to overcome the extremely difficult alleys. Tom Hennessey was high for the St. Louisans with a 204.8 average. He was the only Bud above 200 for the 12 games, with the others ranging downward to—of all people—Don Carter, who averaged 193.4.

Falstaff's hottest shooter was Carl Richard, the square-shouldered Kansan who joined the team in October. Richard had a 212.2 average for the home club, while Bill Lillard had 209.7.

The biggest disappointment for Falstaff was the Saturday showing of Capt. Buddy Bomar, who went into his sixth title event with the highest average on record, 216, but who had Saturday totals of only 502 and 563. Bomar did come out of his slump on Sunday, but finished with the lowest twelve-game total of either team, just 2243 pins.

Falstaffs Fall Behind.

Sunday afternoon the Budweisers threatened to actually outscore the Falstaffs on their own alleys. They whipped the Chicagoans, 3008 to 2946, and had an 11-pin advantage at the dinner intermission.

Falstaff regained some lost-face as the night session got under way, however, by beating the Buds, 1061-991 and 1011-961, in the opening games. That gave Falstaff a 109 lead.

So abruptly did the tide turn, in fact, that late in the third game it appeared that the Falstaffs might pile up more of a lead than the Buds might cope with. After seven frames, the Chicago team led by 12 marks, or approximately 120 pins, and the home crowd was roaring for more.

The Buds turned them back, however. Carter doubled, Bluth got three strikes in a row, Patterson five, Hennessey four and Weber finished out with spares. The total on the game was just 27 pins in Falstaff's favor, 1040 to 1013. In three frames the Budweisers had picked up nearly 100 pins.

And on that note the Buds packed up their uniforms and headed for St. Louis—and some happy hitting grounds on the Gravois.

Soccer Filibuster Hits Snag

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Reserves Lead Kutis to 4-2 Triumph Over Pattersons in Amateur Cup Game

By Dent McSkimming

The depth in reserves that should make Kutis a formidable contender for two national soccer championships proved important in the team's 4-2 victory over Pattersons in the local final of the U.S. Amateur title tournament yesterday.

This triumph at Public Schools Stadium was a verification of the recent 5-1 victory of Kutis over Pattersons in the U.S. Open Cup competition. It marks a complete reversal of the development of two years ago when Patterson players, then known as the Simpkins club, knocked Kutis out of both the national tournaments.

Injured Bill Looby (sprained ankle) and Tom Julius (sprained knee) looked on approvingly as reserves Jim Murphy, Dick Meiesemann, Bob Whitehead and Russ Murphy filled the gaps with honor to themselves.

Two Goals for Cook.

It was the scoring power of tall left winger Elwood (Butch) Cook that subdued a really good Patterson team. In scoring the first and third goals for Kutis, Cook ran his skein to six for the last three starts, all national Cup matches. These two gave him the lead among Kutis players with 10 for Cup games and tied him with Bob Rooney at 17 goals for the team's 17 games.

Kutis will now oppose the Schwaben club of Chicago in the Open Cup competition, probably in St. Louis, and will face the El Fenix club of Dallas in the Amateur competition, probably at Dallas. The game with Dallas was offered to Nick Jost, manager of Kutis, for presentation in St. Louis, but he insists on taking his team to the Texas city.

Free kicks awarded for fouls led to two of the Kutis goals in this exciting Amateur final.

In both cases, Freddy Vasquez, outside right, was the player fouled. It was an offense by Charley Colombo, near the sideline and not far from the center, that opened the way for the first score, 18 minutes after the start. Bill Eppy's free kick was just tipped by Jim Murphy's head to Cook who, close to the goal, blasted the ball past Goalie Frank Borghi.

White's Goal Ties Score.

Then, after Pattersons had quickly tied the score on Jim White's fine shot, a penalty kick was awarded Kutis for John Traina's charge into Vasquez. At the moment, Goalie Borghi was on the ground near the edge of the penalty area, recovering a loose ball. As Vasquez tried to harass Borghi, he was knocked down by Traina. Referee Les Hatchard pointed to the penalty spot and the whole Patterson team protested. Harry Keough drove home the free kick and the score was 2-1 at half time.

Throughout the first half, Patterson players enjoyed real success with their passes and maneuvering. Only in finishing off the attack were they weak. Most shots by Bob Kehoe, Pete Traina and Frank Wallace were from outside the penalty area. They couldn't find the key to open that penalty area door so well guarded by Herman Wecke, Harry Keough and Russ Murphy.

Cook's second goal resulted from one of the few mistakes made by Halfback Harry Desmuke. At midfield, Desmuke, in close quarters, headed a ball toward his own goal, intended for Colombo's foot. But a fitful south breeze carried the ball past Charley and before he could recover, Cook had taken possession and was off on a solo dash of 40 yards. Cook won the race with Colombo and rammed in a spectacular shot.

A courageous bit of headwork by Rooney put the ball on Bob Whitehead's foot at the 20-minute mark. He hooked the ball past a diving Borghi for another noteworthy score, 4-1. Ten minutes later a Frank Wallace pass to Kehoe brought the score to 4-2.

Although he was held scoreless, Wallace played one of his greatest games. John Traina and Desmuke also were up to their highest standard. The Pattersons may bounce back to win some honors in the Soccer Federation's annual district championship tournament, but it is unlikely that the same combination of players will ever do so well again.

Numi's Men Outspeed Rivals.

The speed with which Joe Numi's team worked the ball in the first half brought out the slowness of some of the Kutis players, particularly Jim Murphy, Bill Eppy and Russ Murphy. Cook seemed the only really fast Kutis forward, even the younger Vasquez finding trouble out-running a defender.

In this game as in the previous meeting of the same teams, the Kutis attack leader, Rooney, sacrificed his own scoring chances by making a decoy of himself. He rarely tried to go through the center and was continually moving toward one wing or the other, trying to draw Colombo out of the center. In neither game did Rooney score a goal, but his maneuvering enabled other forwards to score eight goals. He will go up against some difficult center halfbacks in the coming intercity games, but most of them should be easy for him after his bruising duels with Colombo, one of the best "stoppers" in the country.

In a preliminary match, Southwest Kiwanis Juvenile team defeated Fifth District, 3-1, to make their coach, Joe Carenza, happy. Bob Nawrocki scored twice, Denny Corcoran once for the winners; Jim Sullivan for the losers. Goalie Charley Caria of Fifth won applause for his stop of a penalty kick. . . . About 1500 watched the program. . . . The field was in remarkably good condition in view of the Sunday morning rain. . . . Pete Traina looked real G.I. in his new Army haircut. . . . He was in from Fort Leonard Wood for the game, at outside right for Patterson. . . . Ex-Simpkins center forward Bill Bertani and Hatchard performed well as a referee team, although Patterson fans thought the penalty kick was unwarranted.

Major, Minor Officials To Meet in Colorado

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP)—The executives of major and minor league baseball will hold their annual meetings this year in Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 2-6.

Time and place were picked yesterday at a session of the executive committee of the minors—the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Minors and majors voted at their December meetings to get together on time and place for future league meetings, with the minors selecting locations for odd years, and the majors for the even.

Colorado Springs got the nod today over two other contenders—Omaha and Mexico City. The selection was announced by George M. Trautman of Columbus, Ohio, president of the minors.

President Warren C. Giles of the National League sat in on the executive committee session was an observer for the majors.

Others present were Herman D. White of Eau Claire, Wis., president of the Northern League, and Ed Doherty Jr., of Denver, head of the American Association. Dick Butler of Dallas, president of the Texas League, was not present, but voted by proxy, Trautman said.

Mars Wins 220 In Milwaukee Skates Meet

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 21—Jon Mars carried St. Louis's colors to victory in the junior boys' 220-yard event of the Great Lakes skating championships here Sunday. His time of :21 was commendable considering the ice which was softened by an early morning thaw.

Jon couldn't match the long strides of champion Tom Weisel of Whitefish Bay, Wis., but managed to collect eight points in to tie for second. He added a third in the three-quarter mile after winning his heat. Saturday Mars was fourth in the 880.

Joan Kristof gave St. Louis points in the junior girls' division. After taking second in the 220 heat, Joan finished fourth in the final. She fell on rough ice in the back stretch of the 880.

Ken Bartholomew, 10-time national champion, gained his third senior men's title. The Minneapolis, Minn., star took permanent possession of the Fred Miller memorial trophy by amassing a total of 18 points capped by a first place in the two-mile race.

Bartholomew sped over the two-mile course in 5:53.7, followed in order by Chicago's Charles Burke and Phil Elliot.

Marcy Ann Polk of West Allis, and Mary Maland of Minneapolis shared the women's senior title by tallying 15 points apiece.

Miss Polk paced the 220-yard event in :23.7, ahead of Karen Smith of Minneapolis. Miss Maland finished third. Then, Miss Maland won the half-mile race in 1:39.5.

Dave Arends, defending intermediate champion from Cedar Rapids, Ia., lost his crown to Ron Eikaas of Minneapolis, who finished with 15 points to 13 for Arends. Eikaas won the 440, 880 and mile, with Arends taking a second in the mile and falling in the two other races.

Remember? 5...15...25 YEARS AGO

1952 — George Mikan's 61 points were just two shy of Philadelphia's Joe Fulks' league record as Minneapolis defeated Rochester, 91-81, in two overtime periods. . . . Bob Maddock quit as assistant football coach at Missouri for a similar job at Indiana. . . . Buddy Marshak's goal gave the Simpkins a 2-to-1 National Open soccer victory over the Spicas.

1942—Frank (Butch) Loebs, whose two Washington U. football teams won only seven of 18 games, losing twice to St. Louis U., was fired as coach. Basketball Coach Bob Kinnan was named supervisor of intercollegiate athletics. Said faculty representative Dr. Frank H. Ewerhardt, "We're not in the field for a Rose Bowl bid." . . . Fans threw chairs onto the ice at Minneapolis during a 3-3 tie between the Flyers and Millers because Referee Bob Trapp banished Harry Dick of the home team for "drawing blood" against St. Louis' Fred Herbert.

Canadiens' Win Streak Broken By Blackhawks

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (UP) — Montreal's 10-game unbeaten string was at an end today and to make matters worse, the Detroit Red Wings were serving formal notice on the Canadiens that their first-place lease in the National Hockey League may expire soon.

Detroit spurted to within two points of the league lead by beating the New York Rangers, 5-2, last night, while the last-place Chicago Black Hawks ended the Canadiens' seven-game winning string and unbeaten string of 10 games with a 4-2 victory.

The Red Wings broke their game with the Rangers open with a three-goal barrage in the final period. With Detroit leading, 2-1, Gordie Howe, Dutch Reibel and Ted Lindsay all scored within the first six minutes of the third session to give the Wings an easy triumph. Parker MacDonald and Camille Henry, recently recalled from the minors, scored the Ranger goals.

The Black Hawks notched their victory before 11,143 fans, largest crowd to see the tail-enders at home this season. Chicago jumped to a 2-0 lead on second period goals by Eric Nesterenko and John Wilson and although Maurice Richard also counted for Montreal in the same session, the Hawks clinched the contest on third period tallies by Pierre Pilote and Glen Skov. The loss was Montreal's first since Dec. 29.

Sid Smith's third-period goal gave the Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-2 triumph over the Boston Bruins at Boston.

Second Division Clubs Win.

BUFFALO, Jan. 21 (UP)—Springfield, Buffalo and Rochester, league "whipping boys," gave the topsy-turvy American Hockey League tournament another spin today.

The league's lower echelon reared up to defeat Cleveland, Hershey and Providence, the top half of the league, last night. The turn-about prevented both Cleveland and Hershey from taking first place. Providence's loss left the Reds with a fragile one-point first place lead.

A frenzied five-goal first period offensive by Rochester enabled it to defeat Cleveland, 7-3. Ab McDonald, with two goals, and Brian Cullen, with one and three assists, starred for the Americans.

Larry Wilson's score at 9:46 of the final period climaxed an uphill Buffalo drive that gave it a 5-4 win over Providence. Springfield's Bob Sabourin put on a one-man show, scoring two goals and assisting on the other score to lead the Indians to a 3-2 victory over Hershey.

Sweden Tennis Winner.

PARIS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Sweden won the final two singles matches to capture the King Gustav V tennis cup by a score of 4 to 1. Sven Davidson defeated Robert Haillet, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1 and Ulf Schmidt conquered Pierre Darmon, 6-1, 10-8, 6-3. Darmon scored the only French victory of the series on Friday when he upset Davidson.

National Open Event May Be Next in Tennis

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (UP)—Amateur tennis today began what may be a long look into the problem of amateurism.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association agreed to set up a special committee to explore possibilities of creating a national open. The association, holding its seventy-sixth annual convention here Saturday, had never before officially looked into the open question.

"What's the use of kidding ourselves about the matter?" U.S.L.T.A. re-elected President Renville H. McMann asked. "We'd better start taking a realistic point of view about amateurism before it becomes too late to take any point of view at all."

McMann, who refused to concede that amateur sports are dead, did concede they are "in a coma." He said international tennis officials had confided to him that "there is no such thing as amateur tennis on the continent."

McMann went out of his way to point out that he did not necessarily advocate a tennis open, which would mingle professionals with amateurs, but merely wanted the question brought into the open.

"Nothing ever was solved by evasion," he said.

U.S.L.T.A. officials also discussed methods of trying their youth development program to President Eisenhower's physical fitness program.

"Just picture how wonderful it would be if we could interest some 40,000 youths across the country in playing tennis for recreation," one official said.

St. Pius Knocks Ambrose Out of C.Y.C. Tourney

There's gloom on The Hill today. Not only has the Patterson team been eliminated from both national soccer tournaments, amateur and open, but the younger St. Ambrose club has been knocked out of the C.Y.C. championship playoffs.

For the second time in the tournament in progress at Fairground Park, St. Ambrose suffered a 1-0 shutout yesterday, losing to St. Pius. The earlier loss was at the hands of St. Agatha. Center Halfback Ed Quigley's goal scored from a free kick, two minutes before final time, was the point that dropped the defending champions out of the Senior division meet.

St. Edward, a 3-1 victor over St. Agatha, goes into the tournament final, to be played Feb. 3. The other finalist will be the survivor of next Sunday's match between St. Pius and St. Agatha. In their Jan. 13 game, Agatha nosed out St. Pius, 3-2.

All three goals for St. Edward were scored by Center Forward Harold Roberson, and all in the first half against St. Agatha. A penalty kick scored by Dick Mueth was the only tally for the losers. St. Edward is now a hot favorite to win the tourney.

Two goals by Bob Endler gave St. Engelbert a shutout victory over Our Lady of Sorrows in the C.Y.C. Junior division final at Cherokee Park. In the Midget division semi-final, St. Paul was a 1-0 victory over Ascension on Tim Knox's goal.

Club Wins 4th Game In Last 5

By Harold Flachsbart

A sports switcheroo in which a winning coach, Slater Martin, stepped down today in favor of 32-year-old Alex Hannum, was somewhat overshadowed by a come-from-behind overtime victory the St. Louis Hawks scored over the Philadelphia Warriors, champions of the National Basketball Association, in a Sunday matinee.

The change had been in the making for 72 hours and Hannum has been the nominal coach of the club for a week.

Martin insisted that the change be made, saying "I don't feel I can do both, coach and play and I feel I can be of much more value to the club as a player."

Hannum said the boys are loose and playing well together.

"I think we have a real good chance of finishing on top."

Martin, smallest player in the circuit at 5-10 and a clever backliner, made it official at an early-afternoon luncheon to which representatives of the press and radio were invited by Owner Ben Kerner. Slater replaced Red Holzman as coach two weeks ago.

Hannum, fiery 6-foot-7½ veteran of nine seasons of play-for-pay basketball—one of the loudest "holler guys" in the eight-city circuit—has been calling the plays and shots for the Hawks since Jan. 12. And the weary St. Louis club, victim of more than one extended losing streak, caught some of the Sarge's ebullition and victory fever and now has won four of its last five games, played in as many days. Four were on the road.

Martin Favors Change.

The coaching situation, in which Martin feels that playing almost full time in the back court is enough for any rugged hardwood professional, was hush-hush in a noisy Kiel Auditorium dressing room late yesterday afternoon after a tip-in shot by 6-foot-11 Charley Share provided the winning points in a 104-102 victory over Philadelphia.

Kerner over the weekend had quipped that he had "nine coaches and Bob Pettit" on his club but in the dressing room there were 10 stalwarts who shared congratulations on a "team victory." It was the Hawks' third game in 42 hours, counting a 117-point losing effort ending past midnight in Boston Friday, and their first victory over the Warriors in five meetings this season.

Told of the tight Western Division race in which all four clubs now are separated by only half a game, with the Hawks still tied with Minneapolis for third but only one victory away from first, Jack Coleman, Share and Jack McMahon chorused:

"We don't care what anybody else does—we know where we're going—to the top!" And that sentiment was echoed all over the crowded room.

A triumph over the leading Fort Wayne Pistons at Fort Wayne tomorrow night could put the Hawks into the lead.

Easy Ed Passes 10,000.

Easy Ed Macauley, former St. Louis U. All-America, popped in 22 points against the Warriors, thus passing the 10,000-point total in a professional career started in St. Louis in the 1949-50 season with the Bombers. The ball with which he scored his fifth and sixth points (the field goal which put him over 10,000) was given to Mac as a souvenir.

Martin Hawks were sluggish from a rugged road schedule in the early going and trailed by 18 points in the second quarter. They were nine down at the half and nine behind, 75-84, going in to the final regulation period. But that's when the fired-up Hawks tallied 11 points to 3 for Philly in about three and a half minutes and put St. Louis only one behind.

Pettit, probably the most fatigued of all the tired Hawks, scored five points of those 11 and then Martin and Share brought a tie at 88-88, with almost eight minutes to go. It went from 93-90, Hawks, to 97-95, Warriors, and there was 1:06 to go. On one-shot foul-shot opportunities, the Hawks twice purposely missed, to try for the field goal. On the second, spot player Cliff Hagan came through with a rebounding lay-up shot to tie the game, 97-97, as only five seconds remained.

The struggling Warriors twice had leads in the extra five-minute period, once on a shot by Paul Arizin, and again on one by Joe Graboski, but Pettit was not so bad as his record of eight field goals in 31 tries would indicate. He scored five points to keep the Hawks alive at 102-102.

With 20 seconds left on the floor clock, or enough time for the Hawks to take a shot, they called time out for a strategy conference.

"If you want a sure bucket," said Jack McMahon, who had played 38 grueling minutes, "take me out and put in Hagan. Jack George has been jumping out to try to intercept passes to Pettit and if we can get Hagan under for that one shot, he's a strong man and can lay it up there."

Winning Tip-in by Share.

Coach Hannum took his suggestion. The Hawks dallied with the ball until time was nearly running out and Hagan, tipping for a lay-up, put the ball to the backboard but his shot was partly blocked by Johnston, Share's man. That left Charley free for the winning tip-in and he came through with one of his neatest of the season.

There were four seconds left. Philadelphia had the ball, called time out, got the ball in midcourt and the pass went to Johnston, who, incidentally, was high scorer with 33 points. McMahon, a whirling dervish, purposely fouled the jut-jawed Warrior, because that would give the rival only one free-throw try.

Johnston, a three-time league scoring champion, wanted to miss, too, for the rebound and field goal possibility. But in his eagerness he stepped over the white line before the ball hit the rim on a line drive and both referees whistled simultaneously to give the ball to the Hawks out of bounds.

Four Hawks were in double figures in rebounding, in which St. Louis had a 74-48 edge over the Warriors.

50 FREE THROWS HELP LAKERS WIN

In other games Sunday, George Yardley scored 35 points for Fort Wayne, which lost to Syracuse, 101-98, and Minneapolis sank 50 of 60 free throws to beat Rochester, 114 to 107. It was the sixth straight defeat ofr the Royals and the fifth triumph in six contests for the Lakers.

Hitting on 12 of their first 21 shots, the Nats jumped to a 34-26 first-quarter lead and remained in front most of the way, although the Pistons tied it at 48-all.

As the Celtics stretched their lead in the Eastern Division to five games, Cousy got off to a fast start with 12 points in the first period. Meanwhile, the Knicks were limited to three field goals and trailed, 37 to 12. Jim Loscutoff added 21 points and Tom Heinsohn 19 as Celtic Coach Red Auerbach gave his reserves plenty of work.

Trade Talk at Chicago Is Just Talk, Says Lane

Talk of any multi-player deal between the Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia is without much foundation other than wishful thinking, according to Frank Lane, general manager of the Redbirds who returned home from Chicago today.

The Chicago report included the names of Harvey Haddix (as coming back to the Cardinals) Richie Ashburn, Gene Baker, Dee Fondy and others. Lane said he had talked with John Holland, the Cubs' general manager, and Bob Scheffing, manager, about possible trades, but has had no conversations with Roy Hamey, general manager of the Phillies. Therefore, there is no three-cornered deal in the making at this time.

"Sure, we would be glad to have Haddix," said Lane. "Who wouldn't. I'll talk with Hamey when I see him at Philadelphia, Wednesday. The Cardinals could use Richie Ashburn, too, just like the Cubs could." Lane's trip East is not for the special purpose of seeing Hamey. He is on his way Wilmington, Del. to make a speech.

"But this thing is just conjecture at this point. After all, you can't go into three-cornered deals without consulting the third party (Hamey)," added Lane.

The Cubs want a top flight centerfielder and have been dangling Baker as bait. Fondy, who batted over .300 in 1953 and 1954, dropped off to .269 last season and is in the Cub doghouse.

Yanks Sign Richardson.

Second Baseman Bobby Richardson, the rookie most likely to make the grade with the Yankees this year, signed his 1957 contract today and possibly set into motion a drastic turnover in the world champions' infield, the United Press reported.

The pint-sized, 21-year-old Richardson, the best double play maker in the business, according to Casey Stengel, will report to the Yankees from Denver of the American Association where he batted .328 last season.

Stengel has indicated Richardson easily could win the Yankees' regular second base job, in which case pepperpot Billy Martin undoubtedly would be moved to third base on a regular basis. Richardson, a resident of Sumter, S.C., has had two brief trials with the Yanks before. He is the ninth Yankee to sign his contract.

The Giants increased their total of satisfied players to 17 with the signing of Pitchers Alan Worthington and Gordon Jones. Worthington had a 7-4 slate with the Giants last year while Jones, a former Cardinal who reports to New York as part of the Red Schoendienst-Alvin Dark deal, won 13 games and lost eight with Omaha of the American Association.

The Baltimore Orioles announced the signing of Bob Caffery, 27-year-old rookie second baseman-shortstop who batted .270 in 151 games with San Antonio of the Texas League last season. Caffery is the thirteenth member of the Orioles to agree to terms.

It's Sentiment That Delays Signing of Musial, Says Lane

WHO says there's no sentiment in professional baseball?

Frank Lane, Cardinals' general manager, in a telegram to the Post-Dispatch, explains that the delay in signing Stan Musial to his 1957 contract is due to the absence, on vacation, of club secretary Miss Mary Murphy.

"Miss Murphy has officiated at all 15 of Musial's contract signings and we would not think of closing with Stan without her present," said Lane in his wire to J. Roy Stockton.

So, when Miss Murphy returns to the office at Busch Stadium, Musial probably will be called in for signing.

Sawchuk Says Illness Forced Him to Quit

DETROIT, Jan. 21 (AP)—Terry Sawchuk told a news conference today he quit the Boston Bruins Hockey Club because "my nerves are shot," but he left the door open for a possible return to National Hockey League action within a month.

The Boston goaltender read his statement in front of a battery of newsmen, photographers and television cameramen to clear up his abrupt retirement last Tuesday at the peak of a brilliant career.

Sawchuk, 27, said he believes his nerve condition was brought about by an attack of mononucleosis, a blood disease. He was stricken several weeks ago and spent 12 days in a Boston hospital, missing seven games.

"I couldn't sleep, I lost my appetite and my nerves were just shot," he said.

"I took everything into consideration—the Boston organization, my teammates, myself and my family—and decided I was not in condition to continue at this time," Sawchuk added.

Sawchuk said he had informed Bruin coach, Milt Schmidt, that he would consult with the Boston club "in about a month on my future with the Bruins."

Sawchuk said he was under the care of a physician here.

"I had many moments when I wasn't sure I could finish a game," he said.

In December when the disease was first diagnosed, Sawchuk said, a specialist recommended he take at least a month's rest.

"This has been the toughest decision of my life," he added.

Laval, Famous Football Coach, Is Dead at 72

COLUMBIA, S.C., Jan. 21 (AP)—Billy Laval, one of the most colorful figures of the South Carolina sports scene for half a century, died last night of a heart ailment. He was 72 years old.

The small, poker-faced three-sport coach, who dominated the college athletic scene in South Carolina almost half his career, had been ailing in recent years. Death came at the home of a son here.

Laval coached at five colleges, had marked success in football at three and in basketball at one. He was an outstanding baseball coach; and managed minor league teams and scouted for major league clubs.

He broke into college coaching at Erskine in the early 1900s, having four state champions in five years while handling the baseball team. R. C. Grier, later president of the college until three years ago, was shortstop on one of his teams.

He began college football coaching as a Furman assistant in 1915, became head coach the next year and stayed through 1927. His record was 81 wins, 32 losses, four ties, and eight state titles in 11 years. He moved to South Carolina where his record was 38 won, 27 lost and six tied in a seven-year span.

After spending the 1935 season as coach at Emory and Henry, Laval went to Newberry where he coached until a few years ago.

Laval once managed the Columbia entry in the old South Atlantic League, then had the franchise moved to Asheville. He also played and managed at Richmond in the Piedmont League.

Laval was famous in coaching circles for offensive innovations in football, and was generally referred to as "The Fox" for his cleverness at preparing original plays.

Laval never played football or basketball.

He coached basketball for several seasons while at the University of South Carolina and his 1932-33 team went undefeated. The team had a stretch of 34 games without a defeat over two seasons.

He was a native of Columbia and attended Furman University and Trinity College (now Duke) in North Carolina.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Betsy Rawls's 298 Gives Her Tampa Victory

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 21 (UP)—Betsy Rawls is the latest winner on the woman's golf tournament trail, but look out for Fay Crocker in next weekend's tourney at Lake Worth if the weather turns warm.

Miss Rawls, Spartanburg (S.C.) professional, won the $5000 Tampa women's open with 298 yesterday, but she had to score a par-five on the final hole to beat Miss Crocker's record finish over the tightly-trapped Palma Ceia course.

Miss Crocker, former United States open champion from Montevideo, Uruguay, broke the women's course record by combining eight birdies and eight pars for 67, six strokes under women's par.

To beat her 299 total, Miss Rawls needed a par on the 475-yard eighteenth hole after scoring shaky bogeys on the sixteenth and seventeenth. She played that last hole with painstaking care down the middle and safely two-putted from 11 feet away to wrap up the twenty-third tournament victory of her career with a closing 74. Miss Rawls was awarded $880 top prize and Miss Crocker collected $616 for second place.

Third place and $528 went to Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., with a 305.

20-Second Rule to Be Enforced in the Texas League Games

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 21 (AP)—Earlier starting times, the 20-second rule for pitchers and optional dragging of the infield were approved by the Class A Texas baseball league directors yesterday in an effort to speed up the game.

Houston, Fort Worth, Austin and Oklahoma City agreed to try starting their single weekday games at 7:45 p.m. rather than eight. Shreveport, Tulsa, San Antonio and Dallas started the practice last year.

Houston will start doubleheaders at 6:30 p.m. rather than 7 p.m.

League directors voted to make dragging of the infield at the end of the fifth inning optional rather than mandatory.

President Dick Butler said his umpires would be instructed to start enforcing the new national 20-second rule for pitchers in spring training.

Butler said he planned to explore all possible methods of speeding up games.

Gonzales Takes 4-1 Lead Over Ken Rosewall

BRISBANE, Australia, Jan. 21 (UP)—United States tennis professional Pancho Gonzales beat Australia's Ken Rosewall, 3-6, 6-3, 11-9, 1-6, 15-13, here tonight to lead Rosewall four matches to one in their professional series.

The six-foot Gonzales showed both powerful service and accurate ground strokes Sunday in beating Rosewall here, 9-7, 7-5, 9-7. Rosewall won the opening match in the series but Gonzales, the defending pro champion, has taken each since then.

So far the tour has been a tremendous financial success. It drew a capacity crowd of 12,000 for the opening match in Melbourne and the second match in the same city drew 6500 despite rain and cold weather. The two matches here have each drawn a capacity crowd of 10,000 at White City Stadium for a four-match total of 38,500 fans.

In addition to Gonzales and Rosewall, Aussie Davis Cup star who recently turned pro, others competing in the tournament will be Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, O., Pancho Segura of Ecuador and New York, and Australians Frank Sedgman, Rex Hartwig, Ian Ayres, Dinny Pails, and Ken McGregor.

Furgol Wins Caliente Open in Playoff

Besselink In Second Position

TIJUANA, Mexico, Jan. 21 (AP)—The 1957 $15,000 Caliente open golf tournament was a matter of record today, with Ed Furgol—the courageous professional with the withered left arm—the winner in an exciting sudden death playoff.

The former United States open titleholder, formerly of St. Louis, now playing out of St. Andrews, Ill., dusted off big Al Besselink for the $2000 top money.

It lasted for two holes, with the 33-year-old Furgol shooting a steady par four and Besselink a bogey five on the second extra hole.

Today Furgol headed toward Palm Springs and the $15,000 Thunderbird invitational. Besselink also pointed for the California desert resort, but only, he joked, as a tourist.

Battle Down the Stretch.

For the last seven holes of the regulation 72-hole distance Furgol and Besselink battled on even terms, and they ended tied at 280, eight under par for the Tijuana Country Club's par 72 test.

Furgol, Canada's Stan Leonard and young Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass., started out in front by one stroke over Eric Brown of Scotland, and Besselink, who plays out of Grossinger's, N.Y. As the baseball writers say, none except Furgol and Besselink was around at the finish.

Instead, Mike Souchak charged up to tie Leonard a stroke behind Ed and Besselink; Harney took 75 to tie for sixth at 284 with Jay Hebert, Jack Burke Jr., and Dow Finsterwald. And Brown disappeared into the 287 group with 77.

Going into the last nine holes Furgol was in front by two strokes. Besselink birdied the next two holes to pull even, and the battle began.

It turned wintry cold and began to sprinkle as Furgol and Besselink went into extra holes.

$2000 to Winner.

Furgol, who in 1954 knocked off the renowned Cary Middlecoff in a playoff in the Phoenix Open—and went on to win the National Open and a firm place as a top golfer—picked up the $2000 winner's purse.

Besselink settled for $1500 and Souchak, the winner here a year ago, and Leonard for $1100 apiece.

The sidelight incidents of this tournament just south of the border were several. Included:

On Saturday, Tommy Bolt, chairman of the PGA Conduct committee, fined himself $100 for throwing a club twice, both for good distance. And on Sunday Mr. Bolt penalized himself a stroke for unintentionally moving the ball as he addressed it.

Subsequently, he ended with a 76 for 287, losing about $150 for his self-reproach. This, plus his $100 fine, compared with the $308 he won, left him with about $58 profit for the week.

Creve Coeur Girl's Dog Captures Stake

Mr. Personality, a male pointer handled by Charles Jahn of Creve Coeur, and owned by his teen-age daughter, Elaine, won the Winston Donnell Memorial shooting dog stake held at the Busch Wildlife Area at Weldon Spring Saturday and Sunday. The winner, 19 months old, found two bevies of quail and handled them perfectly.

Leawood Satilla Susan, a female pointer owned and handled by Harry Jennings of Farmington, was the best of the out-state Missouri dogs.

North Carolina's 15-0 Record Makes Picking of Kansas as National Champ Look Premature

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—North Carolina, which spent the first half of the college basketball season chugging along in the very long shadows of Wilt The Stilt Chamberlain and his Kansas teammates, has found its own place in the sun.

Kansas, practically awarded the national championship before the season even started, has been stopped, so has Wilt the Stilt.

As of now, only mid-year exams have stopped Frank McGuire's Tar Heels. Their record stands at 15-0—the only undefeated team in the Associated Press top 20—and it is becoming more and more apparent that finishing the season with an unblemished record is not beyond their talents.

The road is lined with booby traps, it's true. They don't get back into action until Feb. 5 against Maryland. Then it's Duke, Virginia, Wake Forest, North Carolina State, South Carolina State, Wake Forest and Duke again and the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament.

Three May Give Trouble.

Neither Wake Forest, which has won 11 of its last 12 games, nor Duke are pushovers, and North Carolina State could cause McGuire some sleepless nights. The Tar Heels polished off State, an old Nemesis and the perennial conference winner, last week, but that's no consolation.

State Coach Everett Case, who is in the unusual position of looking up from the depths of the cellar, hopes to get back four of his "lost" operatives before the end of the month. John Richter and Nick Pond have been injured and Bob MacGillivray, and Marvin Kessler have been sidelined because of scholastic difficulties.

But this is the year McGuire has been building for. It was no great secret that last season's frosh often beat the regulars. So McGuire knew what he had — height, experience, shooting potential and a good bench. He just had to sit back and wait for Kansas to waver.

Buckeyes Lead Big Ten.

Here is how the major conferences shape up at the mid-season intermission:

Big Ten — Ohio State (4-0) heads the pack with Illinois, Purdue and Michigan (all 3-1) tied for second. Ohio State plays two second division teams—Wisconsin tonight—before the other three return from their breaks.

Atlantic Coast — North Carolina in front with 6-0, followed by Duke (4-1) and Maryland (6-2).

Ivy League — Princeton (5-0) has been having a lot of close calls, but 5-9 substitute, Artie Klein, has been pulling them out. Yale and Columbia (each 3-1) are tied for second. Princeton will be hard to catch.

Southeastern—Tulane (4-1) is at the top of the heap, but the odds are riding on Kentucky (3-1).

Southwest—Southern Methodist (4-1) and third in the nation was stopped last week, but got a break when second place Rice (4-2) and third-place Baylor (3-2) also were defeated.

Southern—West Virginia (5-0) the leader, as expected, but might have a battle on its hands Saturday with third-place Furman (5-2).

Pacific Coast—California (5-0) and U.C.L.A. (4-0). They play each other March 1 and 2 and that could decide the champion.

Big Seven—Kansas (3-1), despite being stopped by Iowa State (2-1) stayed in front, but the red-hot Cyclones would pull into a tie if they beat last-place Missouri Thursday. Missouri upset Iowa State the first time they met this year.

Missouri Valley—Bradley (5-0) heads the league followed by St. Louis, Wichita and Tulsa (all 3-1). Tulsa has games with both Bradley and St. Louis this week which could make for chaos.

Skyline—Brigham Young (3-1) leads Montana and Utah State (each 3-2). Utah State, which hung the only league defeat on B.Y.U., meets the Cougars again Friday. Utah, the favorite, is 2-2.

Canisius (12-2) and Louisville (11-2) appear to be the class of the non-conference teams.

Connolly, Olympic Winner in '96, Dies

BOSTON, Jan. 21 (UP)—James Brendan Connolly, who "hopped, stepped and jumped" to become the first Olympic champion in modern times, died last night at a veterans hospital.

The 87-year-old Connolly, later known as the "dean of American sea story writers," left Harvard University in 1896 to compete in the first modern revival of the ancient games.

His win in the opening event, the hop, step and jump at the Olympics held that year in Athens, was the first victory in Olympic competition in 1500 years. He later set a world record of 49 feet, ½ inch, a mark which stood for 13 years.

DuBowl Bowlers Win.

The DuBowl teen-agers lost the second half of their home and home bowling match to the Nelson Burtons on the Burton alleys, 2490 to 2428, but won the series, 5113 to 4982. Ray Orf paced DuBowl, with 541, while Nelson Burton Jr. again topped the Burtons, with 633, giving him a 213 average for the six games.

Venice Upset, Muny Race in Three-Way Tie

The Collegians upset defending champion Venice, 89-70, yesterday to throw the Muny Open basketball league into a three-way tie for first place with only next Sunday's games left on the regular schedule.

Venice, which showed up at Sherman Park with only five men and two of them eventually fouled out, now has a 6-3 record, the same mark held by Fix Mix and the Scotts. Next Sunday Venice plays Fix and the Scotts meet the Collegians (4-5).

To get in on the tie, Fix beat Leon's, 91-85, and the Scotts routed the St. John Hawks, 76-60.

Don Stanton scored 26 for Venice before fouling out and Ruben Fairfax with 23 and Ben Bumbry with 17 paced the Collegians. Charley Sims scored 21 for Fix, Don Dippold 29 for Leons and Bob Ladd 19 for Scotts.

Bowdry and Chicagoan To Meet on Kiel Card

Jesse Bowdry, an outstanding St. Louis prospect, has been matched with Sylvester Armstrong of Chicago for a six-rounder on Promoter Hans Bernstein's boxing card at Kiel Auditorium Jan. 31. Virgil Akins of St. Louis and Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., will meet in the main go. They are lightweights.

Bowdry, a former Golden Gloves champion, will be appearing as a light-heavyweight here for the first time. Victor in six of seven bouts as a professional, Jesse was impressive in beating Sonny Ray of Chicago in a four-round fill-in match on national TV recently.

Armstrong, a hard hitter, has had 15 pro fights. He scored knockouts over Foneda Cox, Leroy Miller and Cal Vernon.

the policeman on this beleaguered beat. Nor has any nation tried harder for a peace settlement with less success. These tasks—of policeman and peace-maker — must be taken over by the United Nations. When the time comes to settle this problem, it must be settled through the U.N. Countries like India and Pakistan, men like Nehru and Suhrawardy, can help through their influence with the Arab world. But no agency, national or international, has in Arab minds the title of impartiality of the U.N. to do the job.

Meanwhile, the U.N. should get to work to capture the imagination of the millions in the Middle East. In an area where illiteracy numbers in almost every country between 75 per cent and 99 per cent and average annual income is $40, the U.N. has a vast opportunity to cast its bread upon the waters of underdevelopment. A lot is being done already; but this should be co-ordinated into a special operation for the area.

Special Project.

If the oil companies and the oil countries would help with funds, a special Middle East development project could be set up under the U.N. Technical Assistance Program which would draw upon the resources, financial and technical, of the International Bank and the Food and Agriculture and World Health Organizations.

This project would take over such schemes as the Aswan dam and the Johnston plan for the more equitable sharing of the Jordan waters. It would promote irrigation, locust and other pest control, animal and plant welfare; it would assist in social as well as economic development, encouraging population control, family health, hospital building and staffing; it would train teachers and technicians. In a word, it would help the people to help themselves.

All this may be expensive. Yet it would be far less expensive than the loss of the Middle East to Soviet Communism. And that is the loss we shall suffer if we fail in imagination and generosity to make good our opportunities at this turning point in history. But if we grasp the occasion, we shall not only bring new wealth to millions in misery today, we shall help them to acquire for themselves a new dignity and a new hope. We shall have met and mastered the challenge of nationalism. We shall have brought a little nearer the day

Be each man's rule, and universal peace
Lie like a shaft of light across

G.I. HOME LOAN DENIALS IN RURAL AREAS CRITICIZED

House Committee Charges Discrimination, Questions Wisdom of Interest Boost.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The House Veterans Committee said yesterday that there has been discrimination against veterans seeking G.I. home loans in rural areas and the government has done little about it.

The committee also questioned the wisdom of increasing interest rates on such loans and said the program should not be used as a prop for the "building and lending industries."

Submitting a 162-page report on functioning of the World War II program, chairman Olin E. Teague (Dem.), Texas, said the housing program "was created as a readjustment device for veterans" and added:

"The program was not originally contemplated as an aid to builders and lenders and it should not be viewed as such at this late date."

The report was released in advance of hearings at which Administration proposals for a higher interest rate on G.I. loans will be discussed.

The committee report said the veterans housing program has operated to discriminate against veterans living in rural areas where mortgage financing is scarce.

It stated that for every three veterans financing a home purchase in big city areas, only one veteran has been able to obtain a G.I. home loan in small towns and rural districts.

The report also said the program of direct government loans enacted by Congress to correct this "inequity of opportunity" has bogged down, with the result the government has $300,000,000 which has not been used or made available to veterans.

The committee said it could find little evidence that previous boosts in interest rates for government-backed housing programs did much to attract additional mortgage money.

The report was openly critical of a number of administrative functions and some practices of commercial lenders.

Given particular criticism was the practice of some lenders of levying discount charges against home buyers and sellers. This is a cash premium amounting to a certain percentage of the total loan being obtained.

The committee said the discount practice has tempted home builders—who often pay part of the discount—to "cut corners" in construction, so the buyer fails to get full value and the government's security on the loan is reduced.

Mr. Dulles always told me that he thought it was highly advisable to get the armistice signed, that he didn't feel it was profitable to continue the war in Korea . . . Syngman Rhee always wanted to break the armistice and move north . . . We all felt that we might bring in both Communist China and Communist Russia. We might be precipitating World War III."

Symington: "The agreement was signed in July, 1953. In August, 1953, Mr. Eisenhower spoke to the governors in Seattle. He wanted $400,000,000 more for Indochina. On the other hand, when you signed the agreement, you released the Communist forces to fight in Indochina. Why then, you are not helping to save Indochina, are you?"

Dean said Maj. Gen. O'Daniels went to Indochina to survey the situation, and he thought our aid would permit the French to hold out, "but the situation worsened in the fall of 1953 and the spring of 1954."

NATION MUST HAVE ALLIES, GEN. GRUENTHER ASSERTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, recently retired supreme commander of NATO forces, said yesterday that "no nation, even the United States, can defend itself unaided."

Gruenther, now head of the American Red Cross, told a meeting of Medal of Honor winners: "The problem of security today can only be achieved by an alliance system."

GIRL SAVED BY DEEP SNOW

DETROIT, Jan. 21 (AP)—Carol Traumann, 2½ years old, can thank a nine-inch snow fall for her escape from death.

Carol fell under the back wheel of her father's car as he backed out of the driveway of their suburban Birmingham home yesterday to take the family to church. The wheel passed over Carol's abdomen, but at a nearby hospital, doctors said she wasn't hurt except for a slight cut. Police said the child's body, protected by heavy winter clothing, sank into the soft snow as the car rolled over her.

Business Outlook

AGAIN, THAT 70 BILLION DOLLAR BUDGET

By J. A. Livingston

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.

ON THE SURFACE, President Eisenhower's 1957-58 budget is "disinflationary." It seems to counteract the forces that boom-and-bust sequences are made of.

Receipts are put at $73.6 billions, expenditures at $71.8 billions in the year ending June 30, 1958. Corporations are people—you and I—would pay over to the Treasury $1.8 billions more than the Treasury pays out to us. That's the surplus. And a surplus is what governments are supposed to have during prosperity; To restrain the boom, to stretch out good times.

But in a seventy-billion-dollar budget that's a piddling surplus. About 2 per cent. It doesn't represent real restraint. Instead of easing its demands on the short supply of men, materials, and money, the government bids for even more. Expenditures go up, thus:

| Fiscal Year | Outlays (Billions) |
|---|---|
| 1956 | $66.5 |
| 1957 (est.) | $68.9 |

Eisenhower Vs. Humphrey?

That's why Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey told a press conference that the budget was "too big," a statement which led many newspaper men to conclude that he was at odds with the President.

From Humphrey's point of view, the government's fiscal policy doesn't support its monetary policy. We've had an unprecedented run of pressured prosperity. And the government adds to the pressures.

You and I and the family next door have been gaily buying automobiles, homes, new kitchens, places at the seashore. We've been borrowing money to do so. We've been worried about whether we'd be able to use these new cars we've been buying. So we want roads and streets widened or new throughways constructed.

We're concerned about the education of our children and grandchildren. Schools are crowded. So we want schools. And when Aunt Sadie got sick and had to go to the hospital, we couldn't get a room right away. So we want more hospitals.

War, Aid and Ttomic Energy.

On top of all that, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson is responsible for seeing that the Russians are sufficiently in awe of our military power that they don't start a war; or, that if they do start a war, we're prepared to retaliate promptly, forcibly, and effectively. So, defense outlays go up two billions, to 38 billion dollars.

The State Department is worried about Soviet Russia's "state-craftiness" — seduction of underdeveloped nations into the Communist camp. So foreign economic aid goes up from $1.6 to $1.8 billions. And any new war will be an atomic war. And the new world of technology requires more and more atomic knowhow. The Atomic Energy Commission budget rises from $1.9 to $2.3 billions.

No Real Disagreement.

So the budget balloons. The farmer gets increased help. The roadbuilding program, which is treated as a trust fund outside the budget, calls for grants of $1,150,000,000 in the current fiscal year and $1,690,000,000 in the 1958 fiscal year. Eventually, it will eat up cement, steel, sand, rock, etc. And, of course, it will absorb manpower.

That's why President Eisenhower said: "In view of the present active competition for labor, materials, and equipment . . . I have asked the head of each Federal agency to watch closely the timing of construction and to postpone work which can appropriately be put off until a later date." And in his State-of-the-Union message, the President promised to "search out additional ways to save money and manpower" and urged Congress to be "equally watchful in this matter." Which hardly indicates that he's at odds with his Secretary of the Treasury.

The problem is one of demand. Too many people, corporations, and Government agencies are trying to do too much too soon. To curb prices, inflation, the Federal Reserve Board has kept a rein on the money supply, which has remained level for a year.

But turnover of bank deposits has increased from 19 times a year in 1953 to 22 times. What money we have, we make work harder. That's why Humphrey argues fiscal policy hasn't supported monetary policy. In the Budget, the Government further adds to the demand, which already is overtaxing our economic capacity, our supply of men, money, and materials.

PRESIDENT WILL RETAIN CABINET, OTHER LEADERS

NSC and OCB meetings and will devote more time than his predecessor at the USIA—Theodore Streibert—to the substance, as distinguished from the administration, of American propaganda overseas.

Criticism Ineffective.

There is no evidence that Mr. Eisenhower has been impressed with the criticism that his Cabinet is too old, that his principal appointments in the field of foreign policy do not reflect the talent or the congressional responsibilities of the Democratic party, and that he has men in top jobs who are not very enthusiastic about some of his policies.

The three principal members of the Cabinet are over 65—Secretary of State Dulles, 68, and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Wilson, both 66. The average age of the statutory members of the Cabinet is just under 60.

On the question of the use of Democrats in carrying out the bipartisan foreign policy, the Democrats here have charged that the President promised to bring to Washington the most talented and experienced Americans in the field of foreign policy regardless of party, but that most of his appointments in this field have hewed very closely to the Republican line. The Democrats have been watching his appointments very carefully since the election and they still insist that the President's appointments policy follows the partisan rather than the national point of view.

Herter Sympathetic.

Gov. Herter is more sympathetic to the President's foreign aid policy than Hoover, but the International Co-operation Administration, which administers foreign aid under the State Department, is still under the control of John B. Hollister, who has the reputation of being unenthusiastic about the program.

There has been some talk here for months about creating a new personnel recruiting office in the White House to produce a roster of young men who can begin to create the image of a young and vigorous Republican party in Washington before the 1958 and 1960 elections.

For the time being, however, the President, while clearly co-operating in giving new responsibilities to the 44-year-old Vice President, is going along with virtually the same team.

In this, however, he is doing what most of his predecessors in this century have done.

OKINAWAN WOMEN OBSERVE EMANCIPATION BY PARADING

NAHA, Jan. 21 (AP)—Women's rights have won out over feudalism and Okinawan women celebrated emancipation day yesterday with a victory parade through the streets of Naha.

Carrying small paper flags bearing the Japanese character for "celebration," 1000 women marched along International street to observe the establishment of a new civil legal code.

Under the new code, which came into effect with the new year, any Okinawan adult can marry or divorce without the permission of the head of his family. The new law also gives the wife the same easy access to divorce that the man in the family has always had.

PASTOR DENOUNCES BILL TO LEGALIZE DOG RACING

If the dog racing bill currently before the Missouri Legislature is passed, it will legalize a form of entertainment that is demoralizing and spiritually wrong, Rev. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of the Third Baptist Church, 620 North Grand boulevard, told his congregation yesterday.

Recalling his stand against a similar bill introduced in 1933 and vetoed by the Governor, the Rev. Johnson said that the forces in favor of dog and horse racing in the state feel they may now have a more "favorable" man as Governor than in 1933.

SOVIET ATTACHE EXPELLED FROM THE NETHERLANDS

THE HAGUE, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Netherlands Government has expelled Soviet press attache V. D. Drankow for trying to bribe a Dutch civil servant into giving him military data.

A Foreign Ministry communique said the Government informed Russian Ambassador S. P. Kirsanov on Saturday that Drankow was considered "persona non grata." Drankow left by train, presumably for the Soviet Union.

Drankow is the second Russian to be expelled from the Netherlands. L. Pissarev, correspondent for the Tass agency, was declared persona non grata in January 1953 for the same reason.

FORMOSA CLAIMS DAMAGE TO RED CHINA WORSHIP

TAIPEI, Formosa, Jan. 21 (UP)—A Nationalist Chinese naval patrol "seriously damaged" a Communist Chinese warship in the Matsu strait last night, Nationalist naval headquarters announced tonight.

The strait is between the Matsu islands and the China mainland

The announcement said the Communist vessel was damaged in a seven-minute fight. It did not disclose the number ships in the Nationalist patrol. Neither did it mention the size or type of the Communist warship, which it said suffered direct gunfire hits and burst into flame.

DAUGHTER OF CHURCHILL AND HER HUSBAND SEPARATE

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Diana Churchill Sandys, daughter of Sir Winston Churchill, said yesterday she has separated from Duncan Sandys, Britain's new defense minister.

Mrs. Sandys said they had not decided whether to be divorced.

"We have parted, but I cannot say yet exactly what we will do," she told a reporter.

Mrs. Sandys is Churchill's eldest daughter. She married Sandys in 1935 after her first marriage, to John Dailey, had been dissolved. She and the defense minister are the parents of a son and two daughters.

Post Office Dynamited.

GREENFORD, England, Jan. 21 (AP)—Burglars dynamited a suburban post office yesterday and stole $89,600 in cash, postal orders, bonds and stamps. Within a few hours police announced the arrest of one man and the recovery of most of the loot.

SHARP STOCK BREAK, A SHARP COMEBACK

Session Ends a Bit Lower—Big Losses Pared, Some Gains Made.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—The stock market staged a series of sharp declines and partial recoveries today, ending the ession a bit lower but with big losses pared and some gains established.

Leading issues showed gains or losses ranging from fractions to around a point or so.

The market was lower from the start in active trading. Some recovery followed but the list was hit by a selling wave shortly before noon. The high-speed ticker tape ran about a minute late for nine minutes.

Alternate sinking spells and recoveries followed. The market was improving at the close. Steels, motors and aircrafts took the brunt of the selling at its worst. But aircrafts were on the upside most of the time.

Of 1,171 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 589 to 349. There were 66 new 1956-'57 highs and 14 new lows.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 1.56 points lower at 475.90 at the close. The 20 rails dropped 1.68 to 149.45, while the 15 utilities rose .15 of a point to 69.37.)

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 50 cents to $175.50 with the industrials down 70 cents, the rails down 80 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Volume totaled 2,740,000 shares compared with 2,400,000 on Friday.

The performance was regarded as a continuation of late Friday's sell-off following the joint Russian-Chinese declaration. Slowness in confirming cutbacks in steel orders by automakers and reports General Motors is slowing its expansion program were factors in the decline.

G.M. down around a point at one time in active trading. Ford and Chrysler also lost ground.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Gulf Oil each dropped about a point, at one period.

Losses of a point or so were also taken at times by General Dynamics, New York Central, American Telephone and Goodyear. Caterpillar advanced more than a point and Goodrich a fraction. Du Pont fell about 2.

SHORT-TERM BORROWING COSTS LOW FOR 2 MONTHS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—The corporate bond market moved irregularly in late trading today as gains by some rails and utilities were offset by lower prices on some industrial issues. Trading volume was moderate.

Government bonds crept up 2-32 to 4-32 in quiet over-the-counter trading.

The Treasury's short-term borrowing costs declined to the lowest level in two months. The latest issue of 91-day bills was sold at an average interest rate of 3.085 per cent. Last week a similar issue drew a 3.223 per cent rate. Interest rates generally ease at this time of year, market analysts said, after the heavy demands for credit during the Christmas shopping season.

Day's Review Of Business And Finance

COTTON TEXTILE MARKET was quiet Monday. The lack of aggressive converter demand induced some further concessions in the print cloth section. This was indicated in sales of the popular 80 square print cloth premium quality on spot at 18½ cents a yard at the mill level. This price is generally quoted by mills on average makes, but it was believed that some business was done at lower levels by mills. Meanwhile, one mill in the Southeast announced the curtailment of its weekly operating schedule because of poor market conditions.

In wool goods, additional mills announced their official opening of fall 1957 lines. The Brisbane wool market was slightly higher, according to private Australian advices.

BAKER & CO., A LEADING refiner of platium, announced price cuts of $4-$5 for the metal. The price for bulk quantities was cut to $98 an ounce from $103 and that for retail lots to $101 from $105, replacing prices in effect since last May 14. The cut reportedly came because of increased offerings of foreign platium in this country and abroad, with part of the increase attributed to Russian sources, an important producer of the metal.

NATION'S STEEL INDUSTRY has scheduled operations this week at 97.5 per cent of capacity to produce an estimated 2,496,000 tons, the American Iron & Steel Institute said. Output last week came to 2,467,000 tons or 96.4 per cent of capacity. A spokesman for the institute said severe weather had curtailed production in some areas.

MANUFACTURERS' SHIPments of passenger car tires during November amounted to 6,496,017, a slight increase over October's 6,470,814, the Rubber Manufacturers Assn. reported.

R. H. MACY & CO. SAID it would file with the Securities and Exchange Commission an issue of $12,281,100 20-year convertible subordinated debentures. They will be offered to stockholders in the ratio of $100 of debentures for each 14 shares of common stock held, the company said. The proceeds will be used primarily to furnish increased working capital needed for merchandise inventories, equity in customers' accounts receivable and other working capital requirements of new store units.

SELLING IN WHEAT ON MOISTURE FORECAST

CHICAGO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Grains retreated steadily under persistent selling pressure on the Board of Trade today.

In active dealings losses ranging to more than 2 cents were recorded at one time in soybeans and rye and to nearly 2 cents in wheat. Feed grains held their declines to fractions.

Except for momentary firmness in soybeans at the opening, the market never showed any strength. A forecast for moisture in parts of the winter wheat belt, heavy receipts of cash grain and lack of export business were behind the downturn.

Morbid Fascination In New Quiz Show

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.

IF you have to watch giveaways—and these days you have to or turn the set off—I can only recommend "Twenty-one," the only wheel in town that reminds me of the big table at Cannes. That is, the contestants stand to lose big dough as well as win it. Of course, they're losing house money—but still it's money that would otherwise be in the bank—and they're matched evenly against another contestant rather than playing against the house which adds a certain morbid, and altogether fascinating allure to the proceedings.

CHARLES VAN DOREN ... UP TO $99,000.

The current winner is Charles Van Doren, the son of Mark Van Doren, the author, who has run up his score to $99,000. Young Van Doren, an English instructor at Columbia University, may reopen the whole argument about progressive schools which I thought we had safely behind us. He is a product of progressive schools, having attended City and Country School and St. John's College before taking his Ph.D. at Columbia. However, the breadth and variety of his interests, which have been fairly awe-inspiring, are the result, intimates say, not so much of formal schooling as the fact that he is Mark Van Doren's son and was reared in a family of lively intellectual curiosity whose members were incessantly running to the encyclopedia to make sure they had it exactly right.

"TWENTY-ONE" (KSD-TV, 8 p.m. Mondays) demands wide general knowledge, not specialized information, as do most of the others. The emcee, Jack Barry, simply throws a category at the contestants without their advance knowledge or consent and consequently Van Doren has had to be very nimble-witted about the United States Government past and present, Shakespeare, kings and queens, the Air Force, the theater, opera and heaven knows what else.

On "Twenty-one," two contestants are acoustically sealed off from one another in isolation booths, the manufacture of which must be one of the growing industries of our hemisphere, and are asked to pick a number from one to 11, the size of the number determining the difficulty of the question. Frequently, they pick either 10 or 11 and consequently the two contestants get the same questions on, say Lincoln. There are two sets of questions and you can, if you're bright enough, win 21 points which are paid off per point at a rate which jumps $50 every time a contestant surmounts each set. Everyone straight on that?

WELL, WHETHER YOU ARE or not, Van Doren last Monday was playing for $2000 a point against a rival, Miss Ruth Miller, who had already got her 21 points. Consequently, Van Doren stood to lose $40,000 of the $46,500 he had built up over the weeks and the tension, as he hesitated over Lincoln's two secretaries of war and two vice presidents was something terrible. Still, he got it right and went on to demolish Miss Miller on a question pertaining to World War II and run his winnings up to $99,000. Miss Miller had to walk off with a mere $2500 and she looked as if she had just lost a two-mile race, not only beaten but exhausted.

NBC seems confident enough of its entry to throw it up against the perennial champion "I Love Lucy" and it may put a dent in that show's rating.

'The FBI Story'

Hoover and His 9 Top Assistants

Key Men Worked Up Through Ranks, Operate Agency as a Team

By Don Whitehead

Thirteenth installment in a series from the best-selling book, "The FBI Story," published by Random House.

Through the years, the FBI was shaped in the image of this man's ideas and ideals. No other agency in the Federal Government bears the imprint of a single personality as clearly as the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hoover is the FBI. But his position of strength—and the strength of the FBI—isn't merely a matter of one man's personality. The real secret lies in the fact that Hoover has around him a group of top-flight executives who climbed from the ranks of the FBI's special agents.

They came up the hard way, by merit and not as somebody's political pets. Hoover trusted them to make decisions. In turn, these men have repaid the trust with loyalty and fierce pride in the FBI. They accept without question the FBI policy of anonymity. Their names are not widely known beyond the doors of the FBI's headquarters. And yet they hold in their hands much of the responsibility for the nation's safety.

This inner circle is composed of nine men of whom Hoover has said, "You can't buy the kind of energy and devotion they have given to the FBI."

Hoover's top lieutenants gather each Monday and Wednesday and if need be each weekday in what is known as the FBI Executives Conference. The presiding officer is Clyde A. Tolson, 56, who came to the Bureau on April 2, 1928.

Tolson is "the man who came to dinner" at the FBI. He intended to stay just long enough to get a little experience and enough money to start practicing law at Cedar Rapids, Ia., where he had gone to business school.

Several months after joining the FBI as a special agent, Tolson was brought to headquarters as chief clerk, and then he moved up fast. He became an assistant director in 1931 and in 1947, Hoover gave him the title of associate director—formal recognition that Tolson was the No. 2 G-Man.

Tolson, like Hoover, is a bachelor. The two men have become such close friends over the years that their intimates say they have even reached the point where they think alike. Tolson carries much of the administrative load which Hoover handled himself for many years, and serves in effect as Hoover's chief of staff.

Third in the line of command is Louis B. Nichols, 50, a big and affable man who handles a tremendous number of chores for the director in addition to running the Records and Communications Division and representing the FBI in matters not handled personally by Hoover. Nichols is an assistant to the director, a title also held by the No. 4 man, Leland V. Boardman, 47.

BELOW Tolson, Nichols and Boardman, the six assistant directors who are the operating chiefs of the divisions are: Identification, C. Lester Trotter, 41; Training and Inspection, Quinn Tamm, 46; Administrative, John P. Mohr, 46; Domestic Intelligence, Alan H. Belmont, 49; Investigative, Alex Rosen, 51; Laboratory, Donald J. Parsons, 47.

These men did not reach their positions by being yesmen. They arrived by being willing to accept hard work, make decisions and take on responsibilities while submerging their own personalities in the FBI. They push themselves harder than they do their subordinates. It isn't unusual for them to work 12 or even 15 hours a day. They do it because there is work to be done—and their work comes first.

In the conference room, each executive is expected to say what he thinks, whether the problem deals with his own work or the work of someone else. But he had better be ready to defend the position he takes, and have his reasons ready. These are strong-willed men and there are, at times, clashes of opinion.

But when these men walk out of the conference room, they walk out as a team. The decisions have been made and each man knows where he is going and what he is to do. Their shoulder-to-shoulder teamwork is one of the keys to the FBI's reputation for unity and efficiency.

Employes would find fewer pressures, easier work and often more money if they left the FBI and took other jobs. But despite the strict discipline, constant supervision and demand for better-than-average performance, the FBI has an amazingly low turnover in personnel. More than one fourth of the almost 14,000 employes have been with the Bureau 10 years or longer. And more than one third of the special agents have been employed for at least 10 years.

Since March 25, 1918, Helen W. Gandy has been Hoover's secretary and in 1939 she was designated Executive Assistant to the Director. Awarding Miss Gandy a scroll at the end of 35 years of service, Hoover called her "the truly indispensable person in the FBI."

NO FBI agent comes to the office in the morning wondering "What shall I do today? He knows what he is going to do because he laid out his work schedule the night before. If it wasn't done the night before, then he must get to the office early and get it done.

There is no such thing as a 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. day in the life of an agent, because criminals and subversives work around the clock. No agent's life is ever quite his own, because he must be ready to go anywhere he is ordered, at any time.

There is no problem in recruiting either special agents or clerical help. From all parts of the country and from the territories comes a flow of applications from those who have read of the FBI or have been influenced by movies, television, radio or reports from friends. Many recruits are recommended by men and women already working for the FBI. Many fathers and sons, brothers and sisters, mothers and daughters are FBI—and now the grandsons of former employes are entering the service.

More for Your Money

IF you're building or modernizing a home, a new light-selecting glass block may be worth looking into. Prisms on the inside faces of the block bounce back sunlight and heat rays trying to enter at intense angles but let in gradually increasing amounts of light at other less intense angles, and take in all cool ground light. There's no glare. In addition, the block transmits 75 per cent less heat both ways than ordinary clear glass block and, in skylights, reduces sun heat gain during the day and loss of heat at night. In one successful test house, the block has been used for skylights; in place of windows in bedrooms; above kitchen work counter; and in clerestory of living room.

CARWISE: Would a station wagon solve your second, or even first car problem? Growth in popularity has been phenomenal; from 5 per cent of cars sold in 1953, to 13 per cent last year, with 1957 production expected to hit 750,000 and almost all car lines offering them. Average cost: about $200 more than sedan of same line. Trade-in value: excellent. Most owners buy for the extra space. A three-seat wagon can tote nine adults, many more children. With rear seats down, cargo capacity rivals that of small panel truck. Twenty-six per cent of owners in one survey haul furniture, boats, skiis, bicycles, bricks, etc., in their wagons. Sums up one business journal: If you have a family of five or more, like picnics, take long trips, go in for do-it-yourself projects around the house, "you're a station wagon prospect."

TRENDS AND TIP-OFFS: One of biggest life insurance companies has just joined growing number offering automatic premium payment plan. You authorize company to draw automatic monthly premium check against your bank account, save more than 2 per cent. . . . Fastest gaining home appliance now is automatic drier with close to $500,000,000 worth sold in 1956. . . . Big new trend in appliances—refrigerators, ranges, freezers, washers and driers—is to straight, rectangular lines instead of conventional rounded edges and curves. The trend, one maker notes frankly, will do a lot to obsolete existing models.

PUSH INSTEAD OF SHOVEL: A simple, inexpensive new snow remover, good for other uses as well, will help you clear away snow faster and easier than it can be shoveled. The steel blade at the end of 54-in. handle, slides along on sled runners and works on bulldozer principle to throw snow in front of it. Only a pushing motion is needed; no lifting. Especially easy for women and older people to use without strain, it's said to clear deep accumulations, and can be used also to remove snow from roof tops. It's equally good for leveling and grading dirt, sand, gravel and other materials.

ELECTRIC TOOTHBRUSH: Said to bring professional dental hygiene into the home, a new electric toothbrush is designed for safety as well as efficiency. While its rotary brushing action cleans thoroughly, the responsive motor automatically stops when excessive pressure is applied so there's no danger of injuring sensitive gums. In addition, a turn of the starting knob reverses the drive, permitting transfer from upper to lower teeth, with the brushing action always away from the gums. One unit, with interchangeable heads in different colors, can serve the whole family.

Afraid of Love

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

ONE of the common complaints of husbands is that their wives are not affectionate enough. This may surprise some women, who suppose that it is always the wife who makes that complaint about her partner. But the fact is that many women are unable to give themselves completely to their husbands.

DR. PAUL POPENOE

Some are equally unable to give themselves to their children or to anybody or anything else. Yet they are astonished if told that they are not living up to their responsibilities.

HERE IS a letter from Mrs. L., typical of hundreds that I receive. She complains that her husband neglects her and doesn't seem to be interested in his home and family. "I keep myself neat and clean and attractively dressed without being extravagant," she assures me. I provide him with good meals, maintain an attractive home, and take good care of his child." Still he doesn't appreciate it, she feels.

All the virtues you mention are good, Mrs. L.; good for you just as much as for him. Can you give him anything more? Your long letter indicates that you can't. A housekeeper or even a boardinghouse might do all that you describe.

EVERYONE NEEDS LOVE, but many people go through the world unable to give it and are therefore unlikely to receive it. Many a wife is afraid of love because she was brought up by a mother who was also afraid of love.

For the next four months, Mrs. L., try acting as if you loved your husband. Giving him good meals is not sufficient evidence. Let yourself go. By the end of four months you'll probably find that you do love him to a degree that you never before thought possible.

AT A DINNER in honor of David Sarnoff, of RCA, Howard Cullman told this anecdote: Years ago, when he was running the Roxy Theater, Cullman visited Sarnoff's office to see what movie he could book there.

Sarnoff, an expert telegrapher in his youth, tapped out this dot-dot-dash message to his secretary: G-E-T M-E L-I-S-T O-F M-O-V-I-E-S A-V-A-I-L-A-B-L-E R-O-X-Y T-HE-A-T-E-R.

"I've got her trained beautifully," chuckled Sarnoff. The secretary arrived in jig-time carrying a glass of water and an aspirin.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1.

YES, according to the Fraternal Order of Police, especially if you try it behind the wheel of your car. Fatigue and drowsiness cause many highway fatalities. This is especially true at holiday times when stepped-up pace tends to make us more tired and less cautious. To keep yourself on the highway and out of the obituaries, the Fraternal Order of Police recommends "three C's for safety": Coffee to keep you alert; caution when driving; and common sense enough not to drive at all if you are overtired.

Answers to Question 2.

One is sure to agree with that wise philosopher Harry Overstreet after reading his fine book, "The Mature Mind." People who wouldn't criticize the way others handle their knives and forks, he says, will often freely criticize their ideas. They can't extend courtesy to any idea different from their own. Yet, courtesy, says Dr. Overstreet, is recognition that the most real thing about people is their minds. Mental courtesy is the mark of a mature mind.

Answer to Question 3.

Not if he is a true scientist. Many people say, "Surely 40,000,000 Frenchmen or 100,000,000 Americans can't be wrong, and only one be right." Billions of people believed the earth was flat until one or two men proved it was round. A million men guessing the distance from here to the moon would probably all be wrong. Thomas Huxley said, "To a scientist the opinions of all the world and the traditions of a thousand years sound like the hearsay of yesterday."

The Wild Life

By Stan Delaplane

SAN FRANCISCO.

THIS BEING the time of year I take stock of my flocks and herds, I will report everything seems normal.

My herd of cats has been reduced to the same old producer cat. We have dispatched the kittens to other homes with our heartiest good wishes for a Happy New Year.

STAN DELAPLANE

The Siamese has regained her figure and several gentlemen cats call on us at intervals. They are a better looking bunch than the last gang of bums that caterwauled under the windows.

The boxer dog whose name is Carmichael has been fighting off a nasty cold all winter.

For many years this dog slept in the garage. He did not care for it and warned me time and again that it might injure his health. He had amazing health, being able to wrap up two pounds of horsemeat in two gulps and look like a starving refugee five minutes later.

IT SEEMS, THOUGH, that Mike is not as powerful as he used to be. He came down with this cold and the vitamin pills I had to feed him cost 25 cents each.

Another siege like that and we will both be sleeping in garages.

He senses that things have changed and, now that he sleeps before the fireplace, he puts on all sorts of invalid airs. I am constantly having to go around and plump up the pillows and lower and raise the shades to his taste.

This dog seems to be delicate in the morning but a ball of fire at night.

JUST ABOUT THE TIME I am ready for bed, this dog is up and mincing around.

"I do believe I'll just step out for a breath of air," he says, pawing the door. "Probably do me a world of good."

Ten minutes later I can hear him roaring like a lion at every dog in hearing distance.

"I can lick any dog in the house!" he barks.

All the other dogs in the neighborhood wake up and bark back:

"You and who else?"

Since we live in a canyon, the barking funnels out like music out of a bass horn. It carries for miles. The night is shattered with dogs barking.

There is positively no response from the invalid. The weather may be freezing. But this delicate animal who cannot sleep in the garage is nowhere in sight.

No, it is not until I am sound asleep that we get the noisy pawing on the door. The sad whining at the portals.

And at this point I must rise and fall over the chairs and stumble down over the cold floors to let this dog enter. Whereupon he falls exhausted by the dying fire and doesn't get up again until long after I have had breakfast and am hard at work. He gets up and takes a little warm milk with an egg and 25-cent vitamin pill in it. Then he goes back to sleep.

'Good Secretary'

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I have been married to a fine man for about two years. During the past few months I have been getting extremely nervous because our marriage has not been running smoothly. There have been arguments and arguments. I've taken tranquilizers with the hope that I could prevent them. But no use. Lately we have both come out and mentioned divorce. Even the thought of it has made me ill.

DR. PETER STEINCROHN

A friend who had read your book, "Live Longer and Enjoy It," told me it also had some commonsense advice for husbands and wives. I got a copy. You will be interested in the few words which I think—and hope—have changed the course of my life. Here they are: "Be as good a wife as you were a secretary! Do you remember how you got around your boss? Sometimes he was grumpy and hard to handle—but you managed! Sometimes he 'sounded off,' but you placated him. Remember how you took dictation—in more ways than one? Why not now, from your husband, once in a while?

"You are not working for him—that's true. But it's even more important to take dictation (occasionally) as a wife than as a secretary.

"You could quit when you worked in the office. But you're stuck now. All the more reason for making life more bearable. Remember what the general said: 'It's better to lose the battle and win the war.' It's better to give in to your husband once in a while and win a happy marriage."

THERE THEY ARE. I hope you print them in your column. I'm sure they'll do for many unhappy married women what they have done for me. I've thrown away my sedatives. My husband and I haven't had an argument in almost a month (they used to be almost daily occurrences). Whenever I felt myself ready to fly off the handle I would think of the key word "Good Secretary" and in a few seconds the imminent danger of emotional upheaval has passed. I used to try counting to 10 and using all sorts of tricks to keep my temper. None ever worked. Somehow the two magic words "Good Secretary" do the trick for me.

If there are women who have never worked in an office I suppose they could invent other key words to help them as these two have helped me. MRS. B. S. J.

ANSWER: We doctors see many nervous young women in the office. They come in as tragic figures. In their minds their prince has become a villain. The first year of marriage takes a large toll in bickerings and misunderstandings. Quite often I have found that a good, long talk does more to straighten them out than just prescribing bottles of sedatives.

In most instances these clashes between young husbands and wives (and older couples are not excluded) are due to minor obstinacies and downright stubbornness. There is an unwillingness to "give in" on some lesser disagreement. There are no sexual maladjustments; no major problems. Just the little ripples that people allow to build up

I tell the wives that the home is their citadel. It is their job to keep it safe from attack within. The only way that is possible is to ward off any internal dissension. Often they can do so by learning how to "lose the small battles."

If you were ever a secretary, try the formula that helped Mrs. B.S.J. so much. As for you women who are getting ready to write me: "Husbands aren't angels!" I agree. In the book I "talk turkey" to them, too.

A New Life in U.S. for Dutch Family

East St. Louis Church Group Decided to Act, Not Just Talk, and Aided Parents, 5 Children

By Mary Kimbrough

THE BARENDREGT FAMILY FROM ROTTERDAM, NOW LIVING IN EAST ST. LOUIS. SEATED IN FRONT ARE LEO AND ADA. ON SOFA, FROM LEFT, ARE LEENDERT BARENDREGT, THE FATHER; TONNY, MRS. BARENDREGT, BEA AND ROEL.

BECAUSE an East St. Louis church leader was called upon to lead a program in her Women's Association last March, a Dutch family of seven is happily at home in America and students at Hawthorne School in East St. Louis are receiving a daily lesson in the good neighbor policy.

It was sort of a chain reaction. The story really began last spring when Mrs. C. J. Kurrus, chairman of Social Education and Action for the Women's Association of East St. Louis's First Presbyterian Church, was assigned to lead one meeting and given her choice of subjects. By chance she chose the problem of bringing families from other lands to the United States as the theme, but the more she thought about it, the less sense it made to her just to talk about the subject and do nothing.

So that day, after the program, she suggested to the association that it consider bringing a family from Europe to East St. Louis. The association approved the idea and it went to the minister, the Rev. Arthur Smith, and the church fathers. With their indorsement and active participation, the tenous threads of good will began to weave themselves into a bright future for an unknown Dutch family, to be selected by Church World Service.

While the church people were preparing to receive a family they had never seen, thousands of miles away, in a suburb of Rotterdam, Leendert and Alyda Barendregt were dreaming of coming to America. It would mean a better life for their five children, they reasoned, and anyway, wasn't the Dutch Government encouraging such moves.

So the Barendregts began to talk and dream and plan. And the East St. Louis church people were talking and planning. And somehow, through the Church World Service, those dreams and plans were fused together.

"We wanted a family with several children," said Mrs. Kurrus, "because we knew each child would have something to contribute to our children and we wanted our new family to be represented in various age groups."

And that's how it happened that in November, nine months after Mrs. Kurrus presented her program and her proposal, the Barendregts came to East St. Louis, Leendert, Alyda and their five rosy-cheeked, wide-eyed children. They had only a little money in their pockets when they stepped off the train to find friendly faces in an alien land. They knew not a word of English.

But that was nearly three months ago. Let's bring our story up to date. The four older children are in school, over their first language hurdles and gradually learning to keep up with their classmates. Leendert and Alyda are being tutored in English at home. Leendert has a job and Alyda has already had guests for dinner—on Christmas, at that.

The children's names have been simplified for American tongues. Roelof Jacob, 13, has become Roel (pronounced Ruhl); Antoinette Johanna Jacoba, 12, is Tonny (pronounced Tony); Leonard Frits Margriet, 10, is Leo; Alyda Louise, 17, is Ada, and Berta, 4, the round-face, bright-eyed baby of the family, is Bea.

Roel, Tonny, Leo and Ada entered Hawthorne School, walking the long blocks from their apartment in Roosevelt Homes. Roel should have been enrolled next door in junior high school but because of the language difficulty won't catch up with his class until next semester.

AT FIRST, teachers and their fellow students conversed in sign language but the Dutch children quickly caught on and now they speak English with remarkable facility, although their Netherlands accent is rich and distinctive.

"The teachers have been very patient with them and the children are progressing at a fast rate," said C. V. Fulkerson, the principal. "The other children tutor them at recess or before school and all the students in each room feel a responsibility toward them.

"That first day, the teacher in Tonny's room called another little girl to her and introduced her and asked her to see that Tonny found her way around the school. The little girl put her arm around Tonny and Tonny had found a friend.

"They know that here are people from another world. They have accepted them happily."

But for awhile, it looked as though the students were taking their role of good neighbors a little too seriously.

"The teachers did so well in preparing the pupils to be hospitable that the Dutch children were almost lionized at first," said one of the instructors, Miss Clarice Baldwin. "The children were giving the newcomers so many things that we had to slow them down a little so that the Dutch youngsters could make a normal adjustment.

"But the new children are no longer oddities. They have made some good friends and they are taking part in school activities. Tonny even appeared in a school play and came out on stage to wish everyone a Merry Christmas."

She could put her heart into those strange words because they had a new meaning for her and her family. It has been Christmas morning for them ever since they arrived.

The church obtained a two-story, four-bedroom apartment in the public housing project and paid one month's rent. It was furnished with used, but still good, donations, down to the pictures on the living room walls and the cups in the kitchen. A job was obtained for Leendert by Stanley Tate, a business man and church member, at Walworth Co. It's not a complex assignment yet, but it provides a large enough paycheck to support his family and it offers chance for advancement.

"Once we knew they were on their way, we moved very fast," said Mrs. Kurrus. "Everyone wanted to help and it became an all-church project. Each organization was assigned a different room to furnish, and that meant everything from a living room sofa to clothespins for the utility room. The young people provided all the staple groceries and the cupboard was well stocked.

"We had only a 24-hour notice, but we couldn't move the furniture in until they actually arrived because Leendert had to sign the lease himself. But we were ready and when they came, they were taken to the home of one member for a good supper and to spend the night while the committee members worked for hours moving furniture and preparing the apartment for them.

"They were delighted when they saw it, of course, but we had quite a time trying to converse and explain things. You should have heard me trying to tell Alyda what was in that can of hot tamales someone had given her."

WITHIN a day or so after the family got settled, Mrs. Kurrus took Alyda to explore the wonderful mystery of shopping in a supermarket. But just before Christmas she thought she'd better check up and make sure there would be a Christmas dinner. Alyda said she usually had rabbit, but agreed to an American-style dinner when Mrs. Kurrus offered to help her prepare a frozen turkey someone had given the family.

"I told her how long to bake it and I made a pumpkin pie and mincemeat pie for their dessert," she recalls. "The day before Christmas, I found out that another Dutch family had called and, because she is so hospitable and kind, Alyda had invited them out for a 5 o'clock Christmas dinner. She called me that night to say the turkey was wonderful and everything had gone beautifully."

But with the Barendregts, it is not a matter of only receiving and not giving. They have become active in the life of the church, although, as members of the Dutch Reformed congregation, have not yet changed their church affiliation. They attend services faithfully, Alyda helps in the Women's Association and has served in the kitchen, one boy is on a church basketball team and a boy and girl are members of the youth choir.

"It has been a wonderful thing for our church people," said the Rev. Mr. Smith. "It has certainly enlarged our thinking about the world and its problems.

"We have had a magnificent lesson about what it means to be a good neighbor. We have given to them, but they in turn have given to us."

How well they have given is proved in one story told by a teacher. One small pupil has become Leo's good friend and he was supposed to help teach him English.

"One day," said the teacher, "the little boy's mother called to say the children were getting along fine and liked each other. But then, she told me with a laugh, her little boy has now started to speak Dutch!"

Secrets of Charm

Perfection in Lipstick

BE VERY choosy about the color of your lipstick. Be certain that the color you select harmonizes with your skin coloring as well as with the costume you are wearing. If you change costumes often and wear many colors, it will be necessary to have a number of different shades in lipsticks.

For a soft, interesting lipline, use two complementary shades of lipstick—dark and light. Outline your mouth with the dark shade. Then fill in with the lighter hue. Men will be fascinated, and women will ask you the brand name of the lipstick you're wearing. And, the best part of it all . . . no one will be able to guess your secret.

Be sure and have your mouth absolutely dry of all moisture when you apply your lipstick. Always use a lip brush to apply lipstick. Outline the lip first—the highest point of the lip, which is directly under the nostril. Then draw out to the corner of the lip on one side, then from the center out to the other corner. Keep the mouth in a relaxed, normal position (never open) as you outline this upper lip. Then when you are ready to fill in the color, open the lips and apply the color with left to right strokes.

APPLY YOUR LIPSTICK WITH A LIP BRUSH.

To get an equal fullness on the lower lip, roll the upper lip on it and blot off the surplus lipstick by biting down on absorbent tissue. You should repeat this until you see no mark of lipstick on the tissue.

Bride's Dress

A handsome dress for the bride is of ivory tinted pure silk peau de soie enhanced by filagrees of lace that are added to the tiered skirt and the shoulders of the bodice. The dress has a basque waistline with dipping panel at front and back. A shirred section over the hips stresses that Parisian silhouette with rounded lines.

Broiling Hint

Contract Bridge

By Sam Fry Jr.

ON Saturday's quiz it was your choice of an opening bid as dealer with vulnerability immaterial. You held:

1. ♠K864 ♥A5 ♦Q83 ♣AK62

Answer: One club. This admittedly is controversial. With that 16 point balanced hand we can't exactly sneer at those who prefer one no-trump. But the texture of this hand—no intermediates at all—would make us shy away from the no-trump opening. One likely occurrence is that partner passes a no-trump and we go down a trick or two; on the same hand he'll find a spade bid over one club and bring in two or three odd in that suit.

2. ♠AQ103 ♥K5 ♦AKJ ♣AJ92

Answer: Two no-trump. An ideal two no-trump call. Twenty-two points and combinations galore which we want led up to. If game is in spades partner can get us to it via the Stayman convention.

3. ♠AJ10 ♥KJ9 ♦Q1092 ♣KJ8

Answer: One no-trump. With all those 10s and nines we like the one point "cheat" in bidding no-trump with only 15.

4. ♠AJ ♥Q74 ♦AQ1062 ♣KJ3

Answer: One no-trump. Again the type of hand leads us to our decision. The right strength and tenaces to be led up to clearly gives the no-trump bid the nod over one diamond.

5. ♠KQ9 ♥Q109 ♦AJ4 ♣AK107

Answer: One club. Nineteen points and a couple of 10s and nines is just too good for one no-trump. We bid a club and over partner's expected one-in-another-suit response we can rebid two no-trump.

6. ♠A5 ♥AQ ♦KQJ9 ♣AKQ103

Answer: Two clubs. This hand is clearly too good for any other action. One club is surely out; avid point counters who may prefer an opening of three no-trump can easily find themselves going down at that contract with five or even six cold in one of the minors.

7. ♠K1063 ♥A1094 ♦J5 ♣AQJ

Answer: One club. We don't like short clubbing when we have other choices but don't think much of the other choices here. Our major suits are too shabby, bidding spades and then hearts would give a distorted picture. The doubleton diamond precludes one no-trump with only 15 points. The club opening gives our partner an easy fling at either major.

8. ♠Q106 ♥A10 ♦KQ52 ♣AQ83

Answer: One no-trump. We've suggested so many no-trump openings on this quiz that along about this point we're sure we're being accused of thinking we're playing with our wife. Despite such dastardly insinuations we still maintain on this one that 17 points, two 10s, 4-4-3-2 distribution, etc., make no-trump superior to "approaching" with either minor suit.

Dixie Johnson Engaged To David M. Lipscomb

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made in White Plains, N.Y., of the engagement of Miss Dixie Lea Johnson, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Johnson, to David M. Lipscomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Lipscomb of Lincoln, Nebr.

Miss Johnson, who has often visited here, is the granddaughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. Oscar Johnson of the Gatesworth Hotel. For 27 years Dr. Johnson has been pastor of Third Baptist Church.

The wedding will take place June 28 at the American Baptist Assembly in Green Lake, Wis., where the couple met two years ago.

Both Miss Johnson and her fiance are students at the University of Redlands, Redlands, Calif., of which both her parents are graduates. The bride-elect, majoring in physical education, is a former president of Grossmont Hall on the campus and holds office in the Christian Activities Council, the Women's Recreation Association and the Roger Williams Fellowship. She belongs to Spurs, a college organization.

Mr. Lipscomb, a senior majoring in speech, is chairman of the Christian Activities Council, a letterman and a member of Alpha Gamma Nu fraternity. After his graduation in June he plans to return to Redlands for his master's in speech. He will then train at Southern California Baptist Seminary, Covina, for the ministry.

The Ralph Johnsons will move to California in July and Dr. Johnson will assume his duties as president of the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School, a post to which he has just been elected.

Program on Early St. Louis Automobiles.

MISSOURI HISTORICAL SOCIETY members have received invitations to a preview at 8:15 o'clock Friday night of an exhibit of 200 photographs of early St. Louis automobiles and their owners. The exhibit will open Saturday in the society's Pictorial History Gallery in the west wing of Jefferson Memorial and will be on display to the public from 9:30 to 5 o'clock daily and Sundays for 60 days.

The program will open with a talk, "The Horseless Carriage in Missouri," by George P. Marsh, vice president and secretary of the Automobile Club of Missouri. The photographs, originally the property of a long-extinct organization, The St. Louis Society of Automobile Pioneers, were given to the society by the Automobile Club. Pictured with the cars, which range from the first St. Louis-manufactured automobile of 1893 to models of 1914, are many prominent St. Louisans of an earlier generation. Refreshments will be served in the Steamboat Room.

Patricia Mooney Married in Kansas.

THE marriage of Miss Patricia Mooney to Edward E. Wasinger of Hays, Kan., took place this morning at St. Joseph's Church in Hays with the Rev. Joseph McIntyre of St. Louis officiating.

The bride has been living with her grandmother, Mrs. John E. Mooney, 130 South Price road, Ladue. She was attended by her sisters, Miss Joan Mooney as maid of honor and Mrs. John Robinson Hunter and Mrs. G. W. Schene as bridesmaids. Mrs. Hunter was married earlier this month.

Mr. Hunter, a classmate of the bridegroom, served as best man. Both the Hunters and the Wasingers will live in Milwaukee while the bridegrooms complete their studies at Marquette University.

The bride wore a ballerina-length white faille gown with a fitted bodice topped with a lace yoke. More of the lace formed three-quarter sleeves. A half-hat embroidered with sequins secured the bride's tulle veil and she carried a prayerbook marked with orchids. Miss Joan was in pink peau de soie while the bridesmaids wore similar dresses in pale green. Their hats matched their gowns; their flowers were white roses.

In Hays for the ceremony and the subsequent breakfast and reception were Miss Keren Jones, godmother of the Mooney sisters, and Mr. Schene, St. Louis.

The former Miss Mooney, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Rader Mooney, is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy. She attended Maryville College and St. Louis University.

Early February Wedding Planned.

Long Range Needs for Drouth Area

By Eleanor Roosevelt

SPOKANE, Wash.

I HAVE just made a trip through the Middle West, at the time that the President was visiting the drouth areas. I noticed one newspaper photograph which showed Secretary Benson in a farmer's field, leaning over and sifting some of the parched earth through his hands.

I am sure that the interest being shown in these areas will be deeply appreciated and probably give renewed courage to the farmers who must struggle through these difficult years. At best, they cannot remedy the damage in a short time; but they may get loans to tide them over, and they may even get rain which will help them in the immediate situation.

THE LONG-TERM solution, however, is a Federal program which makes a study of the whole area and decides what needs to be done for the future. Otherwise these drouths will continue, the winds will come and blow away the topsoil, and when heavy rains do come there will be water erosion which will cause more damage.

Some of this land should probably go back to the type of grass for grazing which once covered a large part of the area. In some places, shelter belts of trees should be planted.

This should not be left to the individual farmer, but should be carried out in the same grand scale as was done before in another area of our country. The individual farmer must consent to have the trees planted on his land, but the work must be a Federal project.

IT WOULD HELP a great deal if we again had a labor force similar to that available in CCC camps in the depression years. I have often wondered if some of our difficulty with teen-age delinquent boys could not be solved by fewer correctional institutions and the establishment instead of a new CCC camp organization. This would only be of value for boys from 15 to 20, of course, but if they did a good day's work and had a good educational program in connection with it, it would be difficult for them to have enough energy left to be seriously involved in any type of delinquency.

Such a program might be especially valuable for youngsters in our big cities, building them up physicially, mentally and morally. It would help them to gain respect for the size of their country, and give them a feeling of satisfaction in the work they are doing to help meet a grave situation. They could make over the landscape of the drouth areas of this nation.

It does not make sense that a country which has the knowledge of what should be done cannot find a way to do it, particularly when it might be possible to solve at the same time a part, at least, of a problem that is equally important to the nation. For every teen-ager who becomes a juvenile delinquent is a loss in manpower we can ill afford.

Webster Groves Activities in Mid-January

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS P. KOHLBRY, 463 Lee avenue, will depart Feb. 4 for California. They will visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Martin R. Kohlbry, in Monrovia, and the younger Mrs. Martin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Griffith, in San Mateo. The Griffith's moved to California from Webster Groves several years ago.

Mrs. W. T. Rutherford, Mrs. Kohlbry's mother, who is visiting here, will return soon to Chicago.

Of interest is the wedding Feb. 2 at Ann Arbor, Mich., of Miss Mary Elizabeth DeTar to Donald Paul Roth, whose parents, Mrs. Paul A. Roth of Burlingame, Calif., and the late Mr. Roth, formerly lived in Webster Groves. The wedding will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church after which Dr. and Mrs. John S. DeTar of Milan, Mich., parents of the bride-to-be, will give a reception at the Ann Arbor Women's City Club.

Among those going from here will be Mr. Roth's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Roth, 441 West Jackson road, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Roth, 1505 Bridle road. Louis A. Roth will be a groomsman for his cousin. Carter Roth will be his brother's best man.

Others who will go from St. Louis include Mr. Roth's aunts, Miss Alice Roth and Mrs. William K. Roth, his cousin, Mrs. John O. Price, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Stahlberg. Another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arnold Roth of Cape Girardeau, Mo., will accompany the group to Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hardin, 221 Baker avenue, and their children, Bill and Betsy, have returned from St. Petersburg, Fla., where they spent several weeks.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Dear Martha:

WE HAVE four small children, two of pre-school age. We have visited back and forth for many years with some friends and have always enjoyed each other's company. But the husband of my friend swears before our children saying some pretty strong words and one of the pre-school children has picked them up. Must I give up this friendship, which I shall do before my children have absorbed more of this or shall I bluntly ask the man not to talk that way before my children?

WORRIED PARENT.

Readers are requested to keep their letters short when writing to Martha Carr. For a personal reply inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope with the letter you send to Martha Carr, in care of the Post-Dispatch. Letters of a medical or legal nature cannot be answered.

You should certainly try talking to him first before breaking up a friendship of long standing. Undoubtedly, he doesn't realize how much of his conversation is picked up by the children. Ask him pleasantly but firmly not to use those words before your children. If he refuses or insists on his right to speak as he pleases regardless of how many persons he offends, then you and your husband may have to seek more courteous company. I think you also might talk to the children when they start to pick up these words, not to scold them harshly—because, after all, they don't realize the significance of what they're saying—but to explain to them that although some adults do speak in that manner, children are not to do so, not only because the practice is wrong and discourteous in itself, but because it reflects on their home. Point out that their own parents don't use those words and you want them to be careful of their own conversation. Even young children can be made to understand that there is a difference between adult and child behavior.

Dear Martha:

WHEN I READ THE LETTER from "Another Mother-in-Law," it made me furious. So it was hard work laundering your son's clothes and saving money to educate him. That was your duty so why complain about it? I am a daughter-in-law and my mother-in-law worked hard laundering her son's clothes and saving money to educate him but she never complained about it. She reared him to be a good husband and told him his wife should always come first. Now I launder his clothes and we are trying to save money for our children's education but I don't think it is such hard work. I love them and doing something for the ones you love isn't hard. I don't expect to get anything in return.

ANOTHER DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

I don't think any good mother minds the sacrifices she must make for her children. That is a parent's role. But when a child grows up to marry someone who seems to resent her—as in this case—the memory of those sacrifices becomes a little bitter.

Dear Martha:

DUE TO FINANCIAL CONDITIONS I was unable to finish high school. I know this will always be a mark against me. Is it possible for you to recommend a correspondence school of high standing so that I could work and get my high school diploma too?

Many persons have obtained their high school diplomas by taking a recognized equivalence examination. Mrs. Susan Simrall, director of the Adult Education Council, Chemical building, St. Louis, can give you some information on this. You are right in that your inability to complete high school will affect your progress and it would be a good idea to seek a diploma.

Write today for Martha Carr's free leaflet of party plans for the small fry, "Let's Have a Party." Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

About Women

By Ruth Millett

THERE are some things men don't generally understand about women.

For instance, although women talk glibly about the day when their husbands will be able to retire, most secretly dread it. They know that a man with nothing to do is underfoot around a house.

RUTH MILLETT

That when a woman criticizes her best friend in talking to her husband she isn't, in her mind, being disloyal. She is just building herself up by mental comparison.

That what a man marks down as cattiness about other women is often just the plain, unvarnished truth a woman is afraid a man won't see for himself.

That a woman is as annoyed by a husband's criticizing the way she runs the house as he would be if she went down to his factory or office and criticized the way he handled his job.

That what a man gives a woman for a gift doesn't matter very much so long as she knows he gave it a lot of thought and picked it out himself. What infuriates a woman is having a man run out at the last minute and buy just anything in order to have a gift for a special occasion.

That any woman enjoys being told she is a good cook, but no woman would rather have a compliment on her cooking as on her looks.

That one sure-fire way of riling a woman is to comment on another woman's stupidity with the masculine remark, "If that isn't just like a woman!"

That a woman not only wants to know a man loves her, she wants to have him say so—and often.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A YOUNG woman writes: "My best beau (we are not engaged) has a very charming mother and an equally lovely sister, who is married. Both have had me to dinner with them. Is an unmarried person who lives at home with her family expected to return such invitations from a man friend's family? My own father and mother are strangers to them."

No, not necessarily. All older or even young married people invite younger or single ones to their houses without any idea of ever having those invitations returned.

DEAR MRS. POST: My daughter was married last summer at which time I bought a very pretty pink silk dress. I have been invited to the wedding of the daughter of a friend of mine which will take place in two weeks. Would this dress be suitable to wear at this season of the year? My daughter thinks it will look out of place because of the color.

Answer: This depends upon the weight of the silk rather than the color. If it has a heavy body it would be all right, but if it is of really summer lightness it would be out of place.

International Designer Pattern

THE bloused back gets more and more talked about and this handling by Charles Montaigne is one of the most effective interpretations to come out of Paris.

The bloused back is actually separate, tying in front at the neckline, attached to a waistband which passes through side slots in front. For indoors, or under a fitted coat, the sheath can be worn alone. With a perfect neckline for jewelry, and shirring in the front and back skirt panels, it is a wonderful basic dress.

Make this exclusively sized pattern, with accurate perforations for easy matching, in jersey, lightweight wools, faille, ottoman or peau de soie. From this chart select the one size best for you.

|---|---|---|---|---|

The Quality of Forgiveness

By Adele Starbird

A LETTER asking me to write about forgiveness suggests that the person who needs and receives forgiveness for an injury he has done is therefore humiliated, and begins to resent the person he has wronged. Isn't there a danger in extending forgiveness?

Dean Starbird

The writer undoubtedly has a point. To be forgiven and to forgive are equally difficult for ungenerous hearts; the passive voice of the verb is just as exacting as the active voice.

Forgiveness does not require the services of a certified public accountant. It is extravagant, hearty, generous and warm, or it is nothing. At the same time it is unobtrusive, modest and healing. It is given in love and it is accepted in love. It is a warm current flowing between two people—perhaps as if they had just one circulatory system for the two of them.

THE ABSENCE of vindictiveness does not constitute forgiveness. You may say, "Well, I wish him no harm. In fact, I actually wish him well. I have no desire for revenge. I'd even be willing to help him out of trouble. Isn't that enough? What more is expected of me? Can I help it if I wish to avoid him, now that I know what he is?"

No, that is not enough. It is a correct and cold attitude, not a forthgiving. It fails to re-establish the relatedness. You are permitting the web to be broken, and having broken one mesh, you yourself cease to be a part of the web. You are in a bad way.

William Temple said that there is a condition we must fulfill if we are to be able to receive the forgiveness which God freely offers us. And that condition is not, as we think, repentance for our sins. "The one thing that is mentioned, and that with a most solemn reiteration, is our forgiveness of those who have injured us or are in our debt."

THE FIRST TIME that I found myself forgiving without any effort or struggle was a big surprise. Someone I loved hurt me. Instead of flaring with resentment, as I should have done if another had hurt me in that way, my only feeling was grief for the offender. "That isn't like him," was my instant reaction. You see I was not separated from him, even at the moment of stunning shock; I was not against him, I was over on his side. Unconsciously I had gone out of myself to identify with him. My forgiveness wasn't calculated or reasoned; It wasn't writing "Paid" at the bottom of an account. I didn't even want him to know, and he never did know.

Then I understood that all forgiveness should have that quality. But why is it hardest for us to forgive our nearest and dearest? Because we love them for ourselves, not for themselves. We don't really love them. Or rather, we have taken just the first step on the long stairway that leads to real love.

Where that kind of love exists, forgiveness is like a fountain. Without it, forgiveness becomes the central problem of our lives, an absolute need which can destroy us. We want to forgive, we want to love. But how is it done?

There is a way, a recipe, a technique which can be discussed next time.

What Type of Pattern?

By Elizabeth Hillyer

THE room needs patterned fabric, but what type of pattern should it be? Here are four popular types of patterns that not only provide decoration and color, but serve other different specific purposes.

DIFFERENT PATTERNS SERVE DIFFERENT PURPOSES.

The branching quince tree design helps to make a room look larger. It shows plenty of background, which matched to the walls gives the room background the one-color look that helps so much to create spaciousness.

Bright little figures of roosters and hens are an example of pattern that belongs especially in certain rooms — here the kitchen and a small breakfast area.

The design of rectangles is excellent for tailored upholstery or slipcovers, and also to match drapery to upholstery because it looks much the same hanging as flat.

The richly colored picture pattern—called Thousand and One Nights—is the type that's wonderful to use when the fabric can dominate the decoration. The room needs little else in it to fascinate the eye.

MRS. K. B. Y. "Would it be wise to put away or sell two oriental rugs that I now have in a small library with a black and white marbelized block floor—and replace them with white wall-to-wall carpet?

A sharp color scheme in the room might be suited better by the white carpet, but since it is a library and a small one, a scheme of softer colors is preferable, and softer colors scheme well with oriental rugs.

Pork Sausage Can Make a Quick Meal

By Edith M. Barber

PORK SAUSAGE was long considered a breakfast dish. It has not lost any of its popularity for serving at this particular meal, but it is more often considered a Sunday or a holiday treat, when we have plenty of time to enjoy it.

We do not reserve sausage for breakfast time. We like it for lunch and are quite content when it is offered at dinner time either in link or cake form or in combination with other foods. For a quick meal, there is a special link sausage that just needs to be browned quickly.

It is not necessary to prick the usual type of link sausage if it is cooked in a covered skillet. This prevents bursting of the skins. If you have plenty of time, oven baking is a good method and pricking is not necessary. The bulk sausage should be formed in cakes and cooked rather slowly in an uncovered skillet or in the oven.

Another suggestion for a quick meal is to combine bulk sausage with a can of refrigerated biscuits that need but to be separated and flattened before they are spread with the sausage. Then the dough edges should be pinched together. These sausage "pasties" are crisp and delicious.

Cooking Sausages.

Method I—Pan-Fried Link Sausage.

Separate sausages and place in heavy frying pan. Cover and cook over low heat 15 minutes. Remove cover, turn sausages, increase heat, and cook until golden brown. It is not necessary to prick sausages when this method is used. Allow two to four links per serving, depending upon size.

Method II—Baked Link Sausage.

Separate sausages and place in heavy frying pan or in baking pan. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes, until golden brown. Allow two to four links per serving, depending upon size.

Sausage Bake.

Ingredients: One-half pound pork sausage, one-half cup finely chopped celery, two tablespoons finely chopped green pepper, two tablespoons finely chopped onion, salt, pepper, one can (4-ounce) refrigerated biscuits.

Fry sausage, celery, green pepper and onion until golden brown and tender. Drain off fat and season to taste. Open can of biscuits and separate each biscuit. Flatten out and place a teaspoon of meat mixture on one-half of each biscuit. Fold dough around the meat, moisten ends of dough and pinch together so that meat is entirely enclosed. Place on baking sheet and bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 10 to 15 minutes or until biscuit dough is done. Serve with mushroom sauce. Yield: Four to five servings.

Shiny Surface

Loaves of homemade yeast bread will have a shiny light surface if you brush it before baking, with an unbeaten egg whites mixed with a couple of tablespoons of water.

Silk Fabrics

Dressmaker swim suits and maillots are being made of silk materials. Such fabrics as silk alpaca, slubbed silk interwoven with lastex and the big checked silk broadcloth are among the types of fabrics being used extensively. There also are many flowered or striped silk separates for classic shirits and matching skirts. Travel clothes, too, stress a vogue of co-ordinate separates of materials formerely reserved for more formal costumes.

Wonderful Sauce

A half cup of heavy cream blended with a package of cream cheese makes a wonderful sauce for a hot fruit pie; add sugar to taste.

Pockets

POCKETS are found on men's clothes. They are convenient for putting things in. The drawback is that, when they are so used, there is doubt about the pocket into which something has been put.

Uncertainty calls for a search of all pockets, beginning with the pockets of overcoats and working inward, or else beginning with pockets nearest the body and working outward.

It is bad enough when the object lost concerns only one person. It is tragic when the interests of a whole family group are involved, such as the exclusion from some place of amusement where tickets are required, or having to go without money because a pocketbook cannot be found. Where a family group is involved members will try to assist by offering suggestions as to which pockets to look into. But it is a wise family indeed which knows into what pockets its head may put things. They may well overlook a pocket inside a pocket which actually contains the lost object.

One thing is reasonably sure, and that is that the object lost is not in the pocket the owner is sure he put it in. It is much more likely to be in a pocket where he is positive it is not. Eventually, if enough pockets are searched, the object will be found. But not until a family has been subjected to suspense and anxiety.

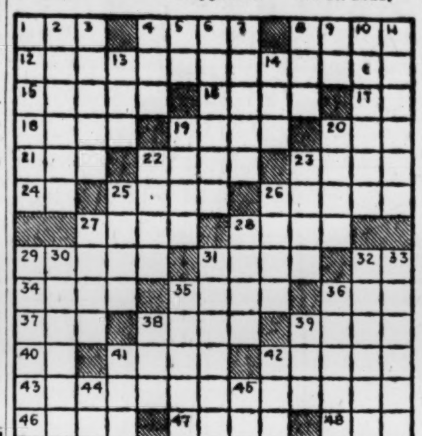

Why cannot men take a hint from women and demand suits that contain not a half dozen or more pockets but one large pocket, corresponding to a woman's handbag? Then if an object is sought the owner has only to reach in and feel for it. And if he cannot find it, he can empty the contents on top of a table or some other smooth surface and take his pick, the efficient way a woman does.

Solution of Saturday's Puzzle

Yam Puff

Ingredients: Two cups mashed cooked sweet potatoes, two tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup (about) milk, salt and pepper.

Method: Have potatoes hot and beat in butter. Add enough milk to make good consistency. Add salt and pepper to taste. Turn mixture into small shallow baking dish—a pie plate is fine—and place under broiler heat until piping hot through and top is lightly brown. Serve at once. Makes four servings.

Note: To cook the sweet potatoes for this dish, pare and cover with boiling salted water. Boil until tender—25 to 35 minutes. Pierce potatoes with fork to test for doneness. Drain and mash while hot.

Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over veal cutlets during last 15 or 20 minutes of cooking, or mix it with the crumbs used for breading.

One-Piece Dresses

A cotton material called "supima" which is grown in the Southwest and has the feel of silk is liked by designers for one-piece dresses. Clair McCardell uses it for a patio dress that has the longer skirt and a bodice with very full, push-up sleeves. The dress has a wide velveteen belt set slightly above the waist. Another dress by Hannah Troy has a polka dotted pattern. Crushed cummerbund of bright red contrasts with the white and navy dots.

Veal Dijon

Ingredients: Eight slices (about one pound) very thinly sliced and pounded tender veal, prepared Dijon mustard, sliced packaged natural Swiss cheese, three to four tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, one large egg (slightly beaten, ½ cup (about) fine dry bread crumbs, four to six tablespoons butter.

Method: Have the veal cut and pounded so each slice is eight or nine inches long and about four inches wide. Spread top side of each slice with the prepared mustard — using at least ¼ teaspoon for each slice. Cut cheese a little smaller than one-half of each veal slice; turn other half of veal slice over cheese; press edges together. Prepare remaining veal the same way. Mix flour and salt on a piece of waxed paper. Dip both sides of a stuffed veal slice into the flour, then into the slightly beaten egg, and last into the bread crumbs. Heat half the butter in a 12-inch skillet until it hisses; add the veal and brown quickly. Turn veal, adding remaining butter to skillet, and brown. Reduce heat if necessary after browning to cook veal so it is white through. Whole operation should take about five minutes. Makes four small servings.

Scrambled Eggs

Try cooking your scrambled eggs over very low heat and stirring only as eggs set if you want a delightfully creamy dish.

You see,
I think about
APPEARANCE OF MY HAIR
this way!

"I think that dull, unkempt hair adds false years to a man's age. Frankly, I don't want to lose the good appearance of my hair—and I don't intend to. A few years ago I was worried when I noticed my hair was not what it used to be. Then I consulted a Thomas specialist, and in a short time my hair began to look better, my dandruff disappeared, and my scalp quit itching. The Thomas specialist taught me how to give my hair proper hygenic care—and I feel sure now that I'll be able to keep my hair looking better for years."

Such comment typifies the experience by Thomas clients everywhere—every day. For more than 35 years Thomas has been helping men and women to overcome itchy dandruff and keep their hair looking good. Why, then shouldn't you do the same? Just come to a Thomas office today for free consultation and advice. (Thomas accepts for treatment only persons for whom benefits are possible). The Thomas specialist will show you exactly how Thomas can help you solve your hair problem. Do come in today for this free scalp examination—you'll be glad you did!

VIGNETTES OF HISTORY

One of the most illustrious names to decorate the pages of Missouri history is that of Mark Twain. Born in Florida, Mo., in 1835 as Samuel Langhorne Clemens, he spent his boyhood in Hannibal, Mo., which he was in due time to make famous in his imperishable classics, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. His pen name, "Mark Twain," was derived from the river boatsmen's call when two fathoms depth was sounded. In the course of his outstanding career he was newspaper man, river pilot, novelist, lecturer, travel writer, humorist and debunker—and he etched his name deeply in the history of his era and its culture. (These vignettes do not necessarily refer to Tangle Towns puzzles.)

Artichokes With Hollandaise Sauce

Ingredients: One egg yolk, ¼ cup (four tablespoons) butter or margarine, one tablespoon lemon juice, two large artichokes (cooked and drained).

Method: Put the egg yolk in a small deep heat-resistant glass mixing bowl. Have butter cut in four pieces and add. Fill a small iron skillet half full with water; bring water to a boil; turn heat low so water is just below simmering point. Do not allow water to boil or even simmer. Put the bowl with the egg yolk and butter in it in the skillet; stir with a small French whisk until egg yolk and butter are combined and mixture is about as thick as mayonnaise. Remove from water at once. Whisk in lemon juice. Turn into two small containers and serve with hot drained artichokes. (Small Oriental-type teacups — without handles — are nice for individual portions of Hollandaise Sauce.) Makes two servings.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

EIGHTEEN hundred years ago, the Romans had the largest empire in the world. It stretched from the eastern end of the Mediterranean to the British Isles, and included Egypt, Greece, Italy, Gaul and much of the island which was called "Britain" in ancient times. Now the island is known as Great Britain.

Q. How large was Gaul, and what kind of people did it have?

A. In a rough way, the boundaries of Gaul were the same as those of modern Europe.

The Gauls included people of various groups, but most of them were of Celtic stock. Other tribesmen, including the Franks, invaded Gaul, but the modern French are largely of Celtic origin. The Belgians, the Irish and the Welsh are other people of Celtic descent.

Q. Did Julius Caesar conquer Gaul?

A. Some of Gaul was in the Roman Empire before Caesar was born, but Caesar greatly increased the Gallic territory under Roman rule. He pushed the limits of Roman rule to the Rhine river.

Before the time of Caesar, the Gauls invaded Italy, and fought their way down to the city of Rome. Their leaders were given gold in return for a promise to leave. The Gauls then retreated to northwestern parts of the Italian peninsula.

Q. Is it true that the Gauls produced some famous "Romans"?

A. Various Gauls in northwestern Italy became famous. These included the "Roman writers" named Livy, Virgil, Pliny the Elder and Pliny the Younger.

Caesar found it hard to defeat the Gauls who lived west of the Alps, but at last managed to do so. He wrote about his battles, and also described the manners and customs of the Gauls.
